BLAST INQUEST BEGUN AS TOLL MOUNTS TO SIX

LAX INSPECTION LAWS DRAW PART OF BLAME

Tank Was Not Examined for Nine Years; Weak Welding Noted.

SHIFTLESS CARE SEEN FROM PORTER'S STORY

"Everybody Tends Furnace," He Is Quoted as Saying; Conference Monday.

As the death toll of the McCrory 5 and 10 Cent Store explosion mounted to six, with three still in critical condition, late yesterday, District officials began a thorough investigation that may result in a drastic change in the city's building and plumbing regulations.

The last to die was Mrs. Florence Darlington, 50 years old, of 63 W street northwest. The most serious among the injured are Mrs. Ida Decker, 34 years old, of 528 Roxboro place northwest, her son, Charles, 6 year old, and Miss Lulu Carter, 34 years old, a graduate nurse, of 609 Delafield place northwest. The two women are at Emergency hospital and the boy at Sibley.

In addition six others were reported still in serious condition, and a score more with minor injuries.

May Change Regulations.

Mrs. Darlington, who succumbed at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, leaves a husband, Charles, and two small boys, Charles, Jr., 4 years old, and Joseph Albert, 17 months old.

Warren Thayer, 29 years old, a hero of the disaster and an employe at the store, was still suffering yesterday from shock, a recurrence, it was believed, of shell shock sustained during the World War. When found in the wreckage after helping to rescue Mrs. Decker, he was muttering incoherently.

The likelihood that the inquiries into the explosion will reveal the necessity of a regulation requiring periodical inspection of hot water tanks, whether they be in places of business, apartment houses, or private homes, loomed last night as the results of the preliminary investigation into the cause of the blast were learned.

Inspected Nine Years Ago.

Experts on plumbing and boilers who had crawled into the cavity on Seventh street expressed the opinion that a similar explosion could have occurred in a private home or an apartment house. There is no regulation in the District building code requiring the inspection of such hot-water tanks as the one in the McCrory basement, either at the time of installation or at any time thereafter.

The tank which burst, however, had been inspected nine years ago, when it was installed, by an inspector from the District plumbing division. It had not been examined officially since.

Following a conference late yesterday afternoon with Col. W. B. Ladue, Engineer Commissioner; William W. Bride, Corporation Counsel, and Maj. Donald A. Davison, First Assistant Engineer Commissioner, attending, it was announced that a meeting will be held next Monday morning with technicians and the workmen who installed the water heating system present in an effort to learn the "set-up" of every detail of the plant, and from this determine the cause of the explosion.

Brief Inquest Is Held.

P. M. Greenlaw, inspector of boilers, and A. R. McGonegal, inspector of plumbing, will meanwhile gather all the data obtainable for presentation. Representatives from the Bureau of Standards and the Bureau of Mines will be present to give technical advice on the findings.

Robert E. Lynch, assistant corporation counsel, will at the same time conduct an investigation into the legal phases of the explosion.

An inquest at the District Morgue yesterday morning, called by Dr. J. Ramsay Nevitt, deputy coroner, was short-lived. Following brief testimony by two physicians and two police sergeants, William H. Collins, assistant United States district attorney, made a motion that the inquiry be adjourned until more definite evidence could be gathered by more careful and scientific investigation.

The death of Miss Dawson, the first victim of the disaster, was used as the basis for the inquest. Following testimony by Dr. I. Rutkoski, of Emergency Hospital, and Dr. A. McGruder MacDonald, of Casualty Hospital; Benjamin Kuehling, headquarters detective sergeant, told of ob-

PHYSICIANS ABANDON ALL HOPE

DEATH HOVERS NEAR FRENCH WAR PREMIER

SITUATION HOPELESS, PHYSICIANS ASSERT

NATION'S PITY STIRS TO HIS VALIANT FIGHT

Patient May Pull Through Night, Is Hope Held by Doctors.

Paris, Saturday, Nov. 23 (A. P.)—The condition of Georges Clemenceau, wartime premier of France, was described by Dr. Degennes early today as still most critical but he considered the patient now might pull through the night.

At 2.45 a. m. the condition of Clemenceau was aparently unchanged. Up to that hour the physicians who went out after a midnight examination had not been called back. The automobile of Michel Clemenceau, son of the wartime Premier was standing outside the house ready to feteh them.

Last evening the physician had said that the situation was practically hopeless and that the Tiger of France was dying. After a consultation lasting an hour with two other physicians summoned to the bedside late last night, Dr. Degennes said that Clemenceau had obtained slight relief from the uremia from which he had suffered for two days and which was a dangerous drag on his heart action.

Poison Gradually Spreads.

Despite his belief that Clemenceau might live out the night, Dr. Degennes disclosed that the midnight examination had shown that the uremic poison was gradually spreading through the whole bodily system.

Death, he said, was thus merely question of hours.

As the danger of a heart collapse lessened with the decrease in the terrible pain which had wracked the aged man for nearly 48 hours, the more insidious danger of uremic poisoning increased. Physicians had been able to strengthen the heart by injections, but the chances of their checking spread of the poison was slight.

The 88-year-old statesman's resistance was weakened yesterday by the intense pain he was suffering. His marvelous courage helped him stifle any expression of pain while he was conscious, but he moaned and cried out during his intermittent spells of unconsciousness.

Tells of Suffering.

"I am suffering atrociously in my intestines," he told Dr. Degennes in a matter-of-fact tone, without a hint of self-pity. Then he lapsed again into unconsciousness.

The doctors feared there would be a crisis in the hours after midnight.

TARIFF TRUCE CALLED GOAL OF COMING HOOVER PARLEY; RAIL MEN OUTLINE BUDGETS

STEEL WAGES CUT SCOUTED BY OFFICER

Ford Plants to Shut Down Ten Days to Two Weeks for Readjustments.

Chicago, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—The railway industry started today to fulfill the promise its leaders gave President Hoover three days ago—that everything possible would be done to keep the Nation's business on a normal level.

One hundred and ninety executives, representing most of the large railroads in the country, conferred for several hours, discussed the condition of the industry as a whole, compared budgets and drew up a lengthy report that was telegraphed to the President.

The rail heads declined to divulge the contents of their report to President Hoover, saying any such statement must come from the White House. They reiterated, however, their indorsement of the President's views.

Program's Completion Indicated.

Statements by individual executives indicated the industry would be able to carry out the billion-dollar expansion program outlined to President Hoover.

C. E. Johnston, president of the Kansas City Southern, said: "Our 1930 budget will provide for capital expenditures a little higher than this year or last. There is nothing I can see in the outlook for next year to indicate a decreased volume of traffic."

W. B. Storey, president of the Santa Fe, also said next year's budget will probably exceed this year's and Carl Gray, president of the Union Pacific, announced that his road contemplates immediate improvements costing millions of dollars.

Capital Expenditures $800,000,000.

Capital expenditures for this year were estimated at $800,000,000 in a statement prepared by the Bureau of Railway Economics.

Alfred P. Thom, of Washington, was reelected general counsel of the executives' association and the executive committee, headed by R. H. Aishton, also was reelected. W. G. Bird, receiver of the Chicago & Alton Railroad, was added to the executive committee. Some of the executives and the railroads they represented follow: P. E. Crowley, New York Central; John J. Bernet, Chesapeake & Ohio; F. D. Williamson, Burlington; J. E. Gorman, Rock Island; E. C. Denney, Erie; L. A. Downs, Illinois Central; W. L. Ross, N. Y., Chicago & St. Louis; L. W. Baldwin, Missouri Pacific; J. M. Davis, Lackawanna; T. C. Powell, Chicago & Eastern Illinois; A. C. Neddis, Norfolk & Western; N. R. Kurrie, Monon; H. A. Scandrett, Milwaukee; J. J. Pelley, New Haven, and Elisha Lee, Pennsylvania.

Youngstown, Ohio, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Setting at rest fears of steel workers, J. A. Campbell, president of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., announced today there will be no reduction in wages in that industry so far as can be foreseen at present.

There is a let-down, however, in operations in the industry, he said.

Proclaim the Nation's Prosperity

If the people of the United States knew the bottom facts concerning industry and commerce they would realize that the United States was never in such a sound condition as it is at present.

The conferences at the White House are well meant, but citizens who are not informed are apt to think that conditions are bad, rather than good, when the Nation's leaders in transportation, manufacture and finance get together and then fail to publish the facts to all the world.

What this country needs is exact information. Every great industrial institution should publish the facts regarding its own condition, the number of men it employs, its resources, its liabilities, and the business on its books as compared with previous years.

When the people learn the truth they will not only drop their fears, but will be enthusiastic over the wonderful prosperity of the United States.

The Washington Post suggests that all great industrial corporations, all railroads, and all banks use the newspapers of the country through which to take the people into their confidence.

As its contribution to this campaign of information and confirmation of prosperity The Washington Post opens its columns free of charge. Any corporation desiring to set forth the facts can utilize space in this paper without cost.

SEVERAL CONFEREES' NAMES ARE REVEALED

PRESIDENT MAY TRY TO NARROW BREACH

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

President Hoover having brought about a truce between labor and industry for the duration of the present business recession, there was considerable speculation yesterday as to whether he would attempt to bring about a truce in the tariff war between agriculture and industry when he confers with the agricultural representatives Monday.

There has been no suggestion from the White House as to what he hopes to accomplish by this conference. In fact, the list of names of those to attend has not yet been given out. It is known, however, that Louis J. Taber, head of the National Grange, C. S. Huff of the Farmers' Union, and S. H. Thompson of the Farm Bureau, will be present, as well as Secretary of Agriculture Hyde and Alexander Legge, chairman of the Farm Board.

It might very well be, it is pointed out, that Hoover may make this the occasion of seeking to narrow the wide breach now existing between agriculture and industry on the tariff. The tariff is not expected to come up again for at least three weeks.

Industrial Rate Cuts Seen.

But unless the Senate coalition experiences a change of heart there is little doubt that when it does return to the job it intends to slash some of the present industrial rates. Whether its plan is to maintain these reductions in the bill as it finally passes or whether the coalition wants to be in a position to hold them at the present level when the bill goes to conference with the House is problematical.

The main point is that with the coalition in the mood that it was when it went home industry will, at least, not get anything and agriculture will get plenty.

The question arises as to whether Hoover might not seek to ease this situation by making his farm conference Monday the means of diverting attention for the next few weeks from the tariff to his Farm Board.

This board has been plugging away on all fours but the tariff fight has completely overshadowed "what it is doing for the farmer." It has in its own modest way, however, fairly well demonstrated that it has plenty of money to help the farmer and that it does not intent to be stingy with it.

Lent More Than Market Price.

There was a time when the board was lending $1.25 on a bushel of wheat when it was selling at $1.18. It is still lending $1.25, but the market price has come up. The board is lending virtually the retail selling price on cotton. In the meantime, it is making rapid progress in setting up additional cooperatives.

But with all this work the board has not received anything like the public attention that the tariff fight being made on behalf of the farmer has. If Hoover should succeed, therefore, in taking advantage of the lull in the tariff fight to get over the thought tha all he noise is being made over something not near as important as his Farm Board, he

WOMAN OVERCOME BY EXHAUST FUMES

POLICE PROBE ACCIDENT

Overcome by carbon monoxide gas from the exhaust of a truck in the G. & H. Garage at 900 Rhode Island avenue northeast, Miss Florence Creel, 23 years old, of 2736 Tenth street northeast, was unconscious for more than an hour yesterday afternoon, and it was necessary to call the rescue squad to finally revive her.

Miss Creel, accompanied by Louis Fredinger, went into the garage about 5 o'clock to get her car. In walking to the rear of the building where the car was placed the young woman passed behind a truck, the motor of which was running. She swooned, but her companion and garage attendants believed she had merely fainted.

They attempted to revive her, but when their efforts failed, Fredinger put her into the car and drove her home. When she had not regained consciousness after more than an hour, the rescue squad was called, and she was revived. Dr. L. B. Norris, of 3500 Fourteenth street northwest, also was called, and, after treating the young woman, later announced her condition was not serious.

Police, who made inquiries concerning the accident, said definite information was hard to obtain. All witnesses, however, were certain that the young woman was overcome by carbon monoxide gas from the exhaust of the truck.

Prospective Witness Slain in Gang Warfare

Philadelphia, Nov. 22 (A. P.)—A man who was at liberty on bail as a material witness in an alleged gang shooting was shot to death tonight while standing at a street corner. The victim, Bernard McKeown, 33, a stevedore, had attended a hearing today in connection with the shooting of John Budka last August and had been held in $500 continued bail as a material witness. Budka has recovered from his wound.

McKeown was standing in the street warming his hand over a bonfire when two men approached him. After exchange of words one of them shot him through the abdomen. The assailant and his companion fled.

SHELBY-KELLY CASE IS REVIVED IN BOARD

Commissioners Fire It Back to Davison and Bride for Final Settlement.

ACTION SEEMS UNLIKELY

Corporation Counsel William W. Bride and Maj. D. A. Davison, assistant Engineer Commissioner, members of the special board appointed several weeks ago to consider charges of bungling and inefficiency made against Inspector William S. Shelby and Lieut. Edward J. Kelly, of the Police Department, will confer today to determine what shall be their next step.

The question of the status of Shelby and Kelly was handed back to the board by the District Commissioners yesterday on the motion of Commissioner Proctor L. Dougherty.

Both officers were criticized by the July grand jury, headed by Merrit O. Chance, former city postmaster, as chairman, for their failure to develop evidence to sustain a charge of murder against Robert A. McPherson, whose wife, Mrs. Virginia McPherson was found strangled to death in her apartment at the Park Lane apartments.

The Commissioners removed Shelby from the post of chief of the Detective Bureau and Kelly from the post of chief of the homicide squad on the recommendation of the grand jury and appointed Bride and Davison as a special board to investigate the jury's charges of inefficiency. The members of the grand jury, however, refused to testify before the board which was without authority to subpena witnesses and the board's investigation was suspended.

The question of the status of Shelby and Kelly was revived Monday when the present grand jury refused to reindict McPherson for the murder of his wife and he was released from the jail. Friends of the criticized police officers declare that the fact that the Department of Justice failed to find evidence justifying an indictment for murder after spending weeks of work and examining hundreds of witnesses was a vindication of the work done by the police.

What course the Bride-Davison board will follow has not been determined, but it is regarded as unlikely that the board will launch into any lengthy hearings or make any further attempt to call again the members of the grand jury who refused to appear at their first invitation. The Commissioners said they will act promptly on receipt of the report of the board.

Griest, House Member, Reported Critically Ill

Mount Clemens, Mich., Nov. 22 (A.P.) Representative W. W. Griest, of Pennsylvania, was in a critical condition here tonight suffering from pneumonia, the legislator's physician said.

Representative Griest is 71. A sufferer from arthritis, he came here five months ago for mineral water baths. Pneumonia developed two weeks ago but the aged legislator's condition was not considered critical until today. He is at a hotel here.

ARMS FOR DEFENSE ONLY, KELLOGG PLEA

DAWES ALSO IS SPEAKER

London, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Frank B. Kellogg, former American Secretary of State, emerged from private life to receive the homage of the Pilgrims Society tonight and to urge reduction in the land and sea forces of the world sufficient to prevent their use for anything but national protection.

"In my judgment one of the most important problems now confronting the nations," he told the distinguished members of the society who have as a purpose increasing British-American friendship, "is the question of reduction and limitation of armaments. I say reduction and limitation because, however ideal complete disarmament might be, we must look at these reforms from a practical standpoint. The world is not yet ready for disarmament.

"Competitive building inevitably is a great inducement to war. No treaty which provides for or contemplates an increase of armament will meet the situation.

"No one or two nations are going to be able to dominate the world," Kellogg went on. "The control of the seas is now an impossible dream. The security of the world can only be obtained by mutual concession, confidence and the advancement of specific settlement of disputes."

Reviewing the post-war problems and efforts toward world peace, he outlined the work which is yet to be done toward maintaining peace. He cited the advancement of ideas by education of the peoples of the world; the advancement and extension of conciliation and arbitration and of disarmament or limitation of armament.

DRY BUREAU DOUBTS RUM BUYER'S GUILT

ANTIQUATED LAW CITED

Government officials responsible for the enforcement of the Volstead act are not in sympathy with Federal judges who dig up ancient statutes and apply them to the national prohibition laws. They do not expect the decision of Judge Louis Fitzhenry, of Illinois, holding that a person who buys a drink of intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes and does not report the seller, is guilty of a felony, to stand. Such a decision, they insist, does more harm than good.

It was pointed out by Prohibition Bureau officials yesterday that "there is nothing in the national prohibition act (the Volstead law) that makes it unlawful for a man to purchase liquor."

Section 6 of title II of the Volstead act says: "No one shall manufacture, sell, purchase or transport, or prescribe any liquor without first obtaining a permit from the commissioner so to do, etc." That has to do with nonbeverage, not beverage liquors.

When the Volstead bill was being considered by the House committee on the judiciary some member moved to amend it so as to have it apply to the "purchaser" as well as the "seller" of beverage intoxicants, and the question was put to a vote, with the result that the proposition was defeated 18 to 8 and it was never debated on the floor of the House proper.

It was also explained by Prohibition Bureau and Department of Justice officials yesterday that the question of conspiracy between a buyer and seller is to be carried to the Supreme Court whenever a clear-cut case is developed.

Snow Heralds Two Gales Advancing on Washington

Disturbances From North and From Gulf Head Rapidly This Way.

That the Capital would find itself blanketed in its first snow of the season this morning was forecast by intermittent snow flurries that began at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, a marked drop in temperature and the warning of the Weather Bureau that two major disturbances, one from Saskatchewan and one from the mid-Gulf of Mexico, were both rapidly headed this way.

The northwestern disturbance was said to be fast moving east-southward, and the gulf disturbance, increasing in intensity, was expected to move northeastward during the night. As a result, the Weather Bureau declared that snow precipitation is indicated for practically the entire Washington forecast district today. A low temperature of 30 degrees, ac-would have made quite an accomplishment, it is pointed out.

So far as the farm leaders mentioned above are concerned the President would likely find them quite sympathetic to his idea and willing to cooperate with him. The coalition has been quite wary of these men.

Coalition Frowns On Them.

As the coalition sees it, indeed, they have shown too much tendency to jump on Hoover's Farm Board band wagon, and such a tendency does not help the coalition's appetite. There will quite likely be other agricultural leaders at the conference, but it is not believed that any of them will be selected from an unfriendly quarter.

The belief in some quarters that it is such as this that the President has in mind making the farm group one of his prosperity conferences arises, for one thing, from the question that if this is not his purpose, then what does he intend to do?

He certainly does not want the farmers to come in and give him such assurances as he has received from the industrial and railway leaders, assurances that they will not curtail their expenditures for projected improvements or the like. It is not believed, for example, that the President has any hope of a concerted movement on the part of the farmers to paint their barns. The farmers have been insisting, or at least their spokesmen have, that they are hard up.

More Elevators Sought.

There is the suggestion that the President hopes for some activity in the building of elevators. There is a shortage of them now to carry out the Farm Board's plans, and the board, it is well known, is prepared to assist in their building.

But it would hardly be necessary to call the farm leaders here for a White House conference in this connection. Of course, he wants agriculture to be in the picture in the psychological effect he is trying to create with his series of conferences, but unless he has something in mind that has not appeared on the surface it is hard to see where he and the farm leaders will have anything to talk about.

This was pretty much the case yesterday in his conference with the construction group, made up of builders, contractors, realtors and the like. It would probably have been just as well had they not come because, of course, they are not going to curtail any activities. They will continue to do all the work they can find.

View of Future Desired.

It was, in fact, explained for the President that his view in talking with them was to learn how they look upon the future more than anything else.

Those who were present at the conference were Secretary of Commerce Lamont, T. T. Flagler, president Associated General Contractors, Atlanta, Ga.; Sam Hotchkiss, president National Association of Builders Exchanges, St. Joseph, Mo.; Frank H. Smith, president Portland Cement Association, Chicago, Ill.; Harry H. Culver, president National Association Real Estate Boards, Ohio; Wilford Kurth, former president National Board of Fire Underwriters; Frederick J. Reimer, president American Road Builders Association, Orange, N. J.; Samuel Eckels, president Association of State Highway Officials, Harrisburg, Pa.; E. L. Carpenter, president National Lumber Manufacturers Association; F. W. Reimers, president Southern Pine Association, Hammond, La.; Arthur W. Beresford, president American Engineering Council, Washington; W. M. Wood, president American Institute of Steel Construction, Decatur, Ill.; A. Trieschmann, president Home Modernizing Bureau of the National Building Industry, Chicago, Ill.; D. T. Riffle, president National Building Trades Employers Association, Pittsburgh, Pa.; L. P. Lewin, president Retail Lumber Dealers Association, Cincinnati, Ohio; Darwin P. Kingsley, president New York Life Insurance Co.; Julius Barnes, chairman of the board, United States Chamber of Commerce.

The conference with the utility groups set for Monday has been postponed in order that they can first attend their annual meeting in New York Tuesday.

Building Promotion Forecast.

Frank H. Smith, president of the Portland Cement Manufacturing Association, said he was convinced that Hoover has a definite idea of stimulating business in mind by promoting construction generally—apartments, office buildings, homes, road building and municipal and State building.

The president received a telegram from R. H. Aishton, president of the American Railway Association, in meeting at Chicago, saying that requirements in railway construction, expansion, freight cars and steel rails would equal if not exceed those for year. A movement to increase these requirements is being pressed, Aishton said.

The railway leaders conferred with the President before going to Chicago.

BUDGETS COMPARED BY RAIL EXECUTIVES

During the summer production schedules were kept above the normal capacity of the plants; and, mostly because of this fact, the mills are now operating at not more than 55 per cent capacity. In the period of restricted production, Campbell said, work will be divided among employes so that all may have a part of the earnings.

Campbell's announcement followed his return from a conference with business and industrial leaders in New York.

"We have found that fundamental conditions in the country are favorable for continued prosperity," he said. "It will take a little time for the country to adjust itself, and during this period we can't hope for business to be as good as it was last winter, but the turn for the better is not far away."

Hoover's Policies Called Sound.

Commenting on President Hoover's economic policies, Campbell called them "absolutely sound and constructive and for the best interests of the Nation. They should not be hampered by politicians."

The steel magnate said that in order to assist Youngstown banks in having funds to lend for constructive business he had increased his company's deposits in them.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Readjustments that must be made in preparation for next year's production will bring about a shutdown of from ten days to two weeks in each Ford assembly plant throughout the country, it was learned today at the executive offices of the Ford Motor Co.

Some of the plants already have closed, and others will follow suit as their stocks of materials are worked up, it was explained in emphasizing that the plants will not close simultaneously. All the material on hand in each assembly plant is to be worked up before that plant closes. Under this arrangement many of the assembly units with large stocks on hand may not close until after other plants have reopened.

Detroit Shutdown Avoided.

A shutdown will not be necessary in the Detroit area, it was said, because the workers can be shifted from one line of work to another pending completion of the readjustment of plant equipment.

To rumors that only a skeleton organization was operating in the local area, one executive of the Ford Co. asserted that in the three major plants in the Detroit Metropolitan District 99,169 workers were engaged yesterday.

"That doesn't sound as though we were on our 'uppers' as some people would have you believe, does it?" this official asked.

"This is not a shutdown for 'seasonal reasons.' There's nothing 'seasonal' about it. It is solely that readjustments may be made in all the plants for next year's business."

Day's Production 4,000 Units.

Yesterday's production in the local area was given as 4,000 units, despite the shifting of men incident to the plant readjustments. Before this reassignment of workmen began a maximum daily output of over 7,000 units was reached.

How long it will require for all the Ford assembly plants to clear their present stocks and complete the readjustments referred to in plant equipment could not be definitely stated. It was said, however, that a productive schedule in excess of the maximum thus far this year will be in operation "long before the first of the year."

From another source it was learned that a daily production schedule of 12,000 units is planned as soon as possible after all assembly plants have cleared their present stocks of materials.

Ford Back From Capital.

Henry Ford returned from Washington today, but said there was nothing further to add at this time to the announcement he gave out at the Capital regarding an increase in wages for Ford employes.

"I will go into conference with my son (Edsel Ford), president of the Ford Motor Co., as soon as he returns to Detroit within the next few days," Ford said.

"There is to be no cut in production and none is contemplated. The stock market situation has not affected our plans or policy in the least. We are going right ahead on the lines indicated in the views which I presented to the President's conference."

Large Annuities Urged For Retired U. S. Clerks

An increase in the annuities of retired United States Government employes was recommended in a resolution adopted at a meeting Thursday night of the executive committee of the League of Republican Clubs. The resolution has been sent to the chairman of the Senate and House committees on civil service.

The committee also decided to hold a joint meeting of the Republican organizations of the city on February 12, in commemoration of the birth of Abraham Lincoln.

Make-Shift Electric Chair Used to Wring Confessions

Arkansas Sheriff Admits Using Instrument "Several Times" After Condemned Man Tells Court Story of "Torture."

Helena, Ark., Nov. 22—(A. P.)—A make-shift "electric chair" which Sheriff J. F. Barlow admitted he had used "several times," was destroyed tonight under court order, but James McAllister, 21, negro, whose testimony in a murder case revealed existence of the instrument, was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment.

The negro, accused of the murder of a 6-year-old stepson, testified a confession was wrung from him by use of the chair.

Counsel said the alleged torture of their client would be the basis of an appeal.

Sheriff Barlow told Judge W. D. Davenport he had inherited the chair from a long line of predecessors in office, rebuilt it and used it "several times," but he denied McAllister had been given the "third degree."

Judge Davenport ordered the chair brought into court and after it had been examined, declared its use an "uncivilized" one and added: "If these people are going to be mobbed before coming up here, there is no use of having a court."

While testifying, the young negro squirmed in his chair in describing his experiences in the "electric chair." He said the chair was wired and that at intervals the current was turned on until he confessed to strangling his 6-year-old stepson, Joe Willie Hopkins. He said he confessed because the pain became unbearable.

Motor Gone, Flier Glides Ship Home

Engine Ripped Out When Propellor Blade Snaps at 1,500 Feet.

Davenport, Iowa, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—With the motor of his airplane torn from the ship and crashing to the ground 1,500 feet below, Kenneth "Red" Hunter, pilot of the Davenport Airways Co., guided the plane to a safe landing today.

Hunter and three student passengers were unhurt.

The motor, which was ripped from its fastenings when a blade of the propellor snapped, fell near the airport and buried itself in the ground.

Hunter and the three students had flown over the field several times for a test ride and had reached an altitude of about 1,500 feet when one of the blades of the propellor suddenly cracked.

Hunter called to the three students to lean forward in order that the ship would retain its balance, and he was able to bring the plane to the airport without further damage.

Captain of Marquette Blamed in Lake Crash

Milwaukee, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Capt. W. F. Amsbary, master of the ore carrier Marquette which collided with the freighter Senator which sank off Port Washington, October 31, was blamed today for the loss of lives of ten members of the crew. He was cited to appear before the United States district attorney here December 10 to show cause why he should not be prosecuted criminally.

Capt. George Kinch, of Detroit, who went down with the freighter came in for a share of the blame at the hands of the investigators. Kinch was at fault, they said, for steaming full ahead in the fog.

Scrivener Death Quiz Is Deferred

Case Will Not Be Given to Grand Jury Until December 2.

United States Attorney Leo A. Rover announced yesterday that the grand jury investigation of the death of Detective Sergt. Arthur Scrivener, who was found dead in a Georgetown alley three years ago, will actually begin on December 2.

Rover announced that the investigation would be thorough and that every one who claimed to know anything about Scrivener's activities at the time that he was found dead would be subpenaed before the inquisitorial body. Rover refused to divulge the names of any of the parties who would be summoned, but it is understood that Mr. and Mrs. John F. Maragon, of Chicago, will be among the number. Maragon, a former department friend of the detective, and Mrs. Maragon, the dead man's former fiancee, were questioned by Rover, but immediately returned to Chicago.

The United States Attorney announced several weeks ago that he would start the Scrivener inquiry immediately at the conclusion of the grand jury's investigation of the McPherson mystery. Yesterday, however, he declared that, due to the intensive nature that the Scrivener case must take on, he decided that he would postpone action until December 2.

Crack European Train Is Bombed

Simplon Express Fired On by Jugoslav Brigands After Two Blasts.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Passengers on the Simplon express who arrived here today related how their train was shaken by two bombs last night while in Jugoslavia.

They said that the first bomb exploded below the dining car and that the second was below the luggage van. This took place about 80 miles east of Tsaribrod, on Jugoslav territory while the passengers were at their evening meal Thursday.

No great damage was caused by the bombs but rifle fire was directed against the train and the passengers all lay down in the dining car while the conductors put out the lights. The train crew then made a search for the attackers but found no one. An additional unexploded bomb was picked up meanwhile.

The locomotive engineer went to get gendarmes who came with him and made a fruitless search for the brigands. Finally, after two hours' delay the train proceeded without further molestation. No passengers were injured, nor was the train damaged beyond the smashing of some of the windows.

Stimson Outlines Nicaraguan Policy

(Associated Press.)

The gradual withdrawal of Marines from Nicaragua, with a view to entirely removing them from that country, was outlined yesterday by Secretary Stimson as the policy of the American Government.

Stimson said rapid withdrawal of the troops from that country was prevented by the attitude of the Nicaraguan government and not of this country. Several times in the past, he explained, plans had been made for the removal of the Marines from the Central American country, but developments had prevented the plans from being carried out.

President Wears Band Of Mourning for Good

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover is wearing a band of black crepe around the sleeve of his coat as a mark of mourning for the late Secretary Good.

He will wear it for the 30-day period of mourning, which will end December 18.

TARIFF BILL BURIED IN SENATE CHAMBER

(Associated Press.)

Less than half way through its stupendous task of rewriting the House tariff bill, the Senate yesterday found itself unable to make any more headway with the troublesome issue and laid it away for settlement in the next session.

Hence, three sessions of Congress will be required to dispose of a bill which some House leaders had predicted would be on the way to the White House within three months after its introduction in the special session.

Framed in the last session of the Seventieth Congress, the bill was passed by the House May 28. Through a hot summer the Senate finance committee held hearings and the Republicans on that committee rewrote the measure and reported it September 4. Five days later consideration began in the Senate. When debate ended yesterday without action on any rates during the two and a half-hour session, committee amendments to nine of the fifteen rate sections had been acted upon since the bill reached the Senate floor.

Wool Schedule Halted.

A start had been made on the wool schedule with adoption of the House increase from 31 to 34 cents a pound in the basic raw wool levy, but when a long discussion was in sight on the compensatory rates to be applied to woolen manufactures, the remainder of this schedule was put over. So was silk, for the same reason, although only two rate amendments to this section had been reported by the committee.

Besides the majority of the wool rates, the entire schedules relating to sugar, silk, rayon, papers and books, sundries, and the free list remain for action at the winter term beginning December 2. Individual amendments to all of the schedules also must be disposed of before the measure can be put to a final vote and sent to the House for adjustment of differences.

Chairman Smoot, of the finance committee, announced he would bring the bill up again as soon as the Vare case is disposed of next month. Passage by Christmas is forecast by Democratic leaders, though others feel it will be well into 1930 before the House will get another glimpse of its offspring.

House Bill Changed.

When it does go back, it is certain the House will not recognize the tariff child it reared to the age of nearly five months. It has not only aged half a year, but its features have been so changed that some Republican leaders feel the House should close the door in its face.

The coalition of Democrats and Western Republican independents was responsible for most of the important changes made in the bill by the Senate, although finance committee Republicans themselves reduced scores of House rates.

In addition to cutting down many of the House industrial rate increases and, with the assistance of administration leaders, raising the agricultural schedule to a level higher than that approved by the House, the coalition tacked on the debenture plan opposed by President Hoover and a big majority of the House, and restored to Congress the power over rates now exercised by the Executive in emergencies under the seven-year-old flexible clause.

House Fight Is Seen.

President Hoover is vigorously opposed to both of these actions, but unless the House accepts both, Senate coalition leaders assert there will be no bill.

House democratic chieftains are not as insistent on retention of the debenture as they are for final enactment of the Simmons-Norris substitute for the flexible provisions. They see a way out of a possible deadlock if the House recedes in its opposition to the coalition flexible plan.

Under the substitute, the tariff commission would report to Congress instead of the President on petitions for changes in customs duties and, as a safeguard against frequent general revisions, Congress would be limited in its action to approval or disapproval of duties recommended by the commission.

The fact-finding agency also would be empowered to propose transfer of articles to or from the free list, whereas under the existing flexible provision, the President is restricted to changing rates to the extent of the 50 per cent up or down.

Danish Prince Suffers Illness.

London, Nov. 22 (A.P.). — Crown Prince Frederik of Denmark, who is visiting London, was indisposed today after an attack of tonsillitis. A small abscess was lanced by Sir Sinclair Thomson, and the prince was reported to be doing well afterward. He hopes to return to Denmark on Monday.

FAGGED CONGRESS TOSSES UP SPONGE

DAY IS SPENT IN RECESS

(Associated Press.)

Still arguing over the unsettled tariff legislation, Congress ended its extra session last night for a week's holiday before the regular long term opens in December.

House Republicans referred caustically to the Senate's failure to complete the tariff bill, the last of the four legislative recommendations submitted by President Hoover to the session.

Weary and wan after days and nights of debate, the Senate found itself unable to keep a quorum on hand for the final day and gave up the contest until next session. It couldn't adjourn until 10 p. m., so a recess was taken about noon until 9:45 p. m.

The tariff comes up again in the Senate next month as unfinished business and leaders of the coalition of Democrats and Western Republican independents, which has control of the bill, believe it can be disposed of before the first of the year. They intend to continue the elimination of proposed industrial rate increases and confine the measure to higher duties for agricultural products.

Hoover Is Notified.

Leaders of the Senate and House buried their differences over the tariff long enough to go together to President Hoover and inform him that his special meeting was adjourning. He told them he had nothing more for this session.

Senator Jones, of Washington, acting Republican leader, said the congressional committee had told the President that Congress had completed its work "insofar as possible." Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, the House Republican leader, later said to newspaper men that the representatives of the House "didn't have their tongues in their cheeks" when they reported to the President.

"How about the senators?" he was asked.

"Oh, they had on their best poker faces," he replied.

Rankin Attacks Bill.

Senator Jones and Walsh, of Montana, acting Democratic leader, and Representative Tilson and Garner, of Texas, Democratic leader of the House, comprised the congressional committee.

In the 50-minute concluding session of the House, the Senate tariff situation came up for discussion again. Representative Crowther (Republican), New York, said the people would blame the Democrats and "so-called Republicans" in the Senate for not getting the tariff enacted during the special session. Representative Rankin (Democrat), Mississippi, replied with an attack upon the bill, insisting it could not help the farmers.

After several quorum calls were necessary in the Senate to get the tired members to work on the bill, Senator Couzens (Republican), Michigan, remarked that "everybody seems to be loafing on the job." Chairman Smoot, of the finance committee, packed up his tariff books and walked out. Thereupon the Senate recessed until just before the adjournment hour.

First Rest Since May.

It is the first rest of any kind afforded the nineteen members of the finance committee since last May, when the tariff bill came over from the house. These Senators particularly were eager to get out and attend to some private business long pending.

Apparently most of Congress will take next week off. The Senate lobby committee had considered going ahead but even that program was abandoned and it adjourned yesterday subject to the call of Chairman Caraway.

Preparatory to the regular session program, the Senate yesterday adopted a resolution by Senator Sackett, (Republican), Kentucky, calling for a report on the radio situation from the Radio Commission. The question of extending the life of the Radio Commission comes up at the next session.

Father Wins Air-Rail Race Against Death

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 22 (A.P.).—A. O. Schramm, of Pierce, Nebr., who left Omaha yesterday morning in a race with death by airplane and train to the bedside of his son, Wallace, 22, who is in St. Vincent Hospital in this city suffering from burns, reached his goal this afternoon. The son was burned in the chemical laboratory at Holy Cross College Wednesday afternoon while engaged in making tests as a post-graduate student for a master of science degree.

Schramm flew from Omaha to Cleveland via Chicago, and made the rest of the journey by train. Young Schramm is in a critical condition, with the chances said to be against his recovery.

Lincoln Museum Viewed By Ford on Visit Here

While in Washington attending President Hoover's business conference, Henry Ford quietly visited the Lincoln Museum, at 516 Tenth street northwest, and was much perturbed over the way the famous Oldroyd Lincoln collection is being housed.

Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of Public Buildings and Parks, said yesterday, in confirming this report, that Ford and his son Edsel expressed much interest in the collection and its development as a shrine for American visitors to Washington. The auto magnate is also said to have told Lewis G. Reynolds, custodian of the museum, that he believed in more space for better display of the historic articles.

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 22 (A.P.).—The body of the Rev. Frederick Reimers, pastor of Jerusalem Reformed Church here, was found hanging by a rope in the garage at the rear of his home today. The minister left no note explaining his act.

He was said, however, by a member of his family to have attempted to take his life about two weeks ago by inhaling illuminating gas.

Spanish Poliitcal Rebel Freed by War Tribunal

Valencia, Spain, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Official news from Madrid that the supreme war tribunal had decided to set free former Premier Jose Sanchez Guerra was received tonight. Provisional liberty had been sought by his counsel, Senior Bergamin.

The news arrived too late for immediate effect, Sanchez Guerra having boarded the gunboat Dato, where he has been living, for his usual dinner. It is expected he will be released tomorrow. He recently was tried on charges of fomenting a revolution.

Pelee's Deadly Fumes Blanket Countryside

Fort de France, Martinique, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Burning ash and sulphuric gases today prevented any one from approaching Mont Pelee, which has been increasingly active during the last few days. The eruption of ash and cinders has sometimes reached an altitude of 12,000 feet and has continued for considerable periods.

It was virtually certain tonight that there would be an outpouring of lava from three vertical clefts in the volcanic cone on the side toward the Village of St. Pierre. A new manifestation tonight was lurid clouds pouring out over the country between Riviere Seche and Riviere Blanche.

TIDAL-WAVE LOSSES PLACED AT MILLION

RELIEF UNIT IS ACTIVE

St. John's, Newfoundland, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—First reliable estimates of the damage caused along the southern coast of the Burin Peninsula Monday night by the tidal wave which followed upon the earthquake, began trickling in today.

The property loss will not be less than $1,000,000, George Bartlett, a merchant in the town of Burin, said today. He came here heading a delegation of citizens seeking government aid for the stricken fishing villages of the wave-swept districts.

Bartlett said he was on board a boat tied at the Burin dock when the wall of water rushed down the narrow rockbound inlet. There was a mighty roar, a swish of spray and suddenly the vessel was lifted high into the air.

Store Washed Away.

A store he conducted alongside the wharf was washed away and carried into a field yards away from the water front. Screams and cries for help came out of the night from all sides of him.

The scene was appalling, he said, and the unfortunate ones along the water front, believing the coast line was sinking, feared the end was near for them.

The death list along the devastated section of the coast still is estimated around 36, but it was feared that with more detailed reports the number of dead would mount.

Relief Group Active.

Government steamers are taking physicians, nurses and medical supplies as well as provisions into the communities.

Burin Inlet, which before the tidal wave could accommodate vessels of 15 tons, now is reported too shallow for ships of that size.

The steamer Fernfield, which was undamaged, put into a nearby cove and furnished food and supplies for families whose belongings were lost. With their winter's fuel and food lost, and their fishing equipment wrecked or swept into the sea, many families of fisherfolk have been left destitute.

Weston, Mass., Nov. 22 (A.P.).—George W. Bailey, operator of an amateur radio station here, reported tonight that the Grenfell Mission radio station at St. Anthonys, Newfoundland, had wirelessed a report that conditions resulting from the tidal wave were deplorable south of St. Anthonys and that 40 persons had been killed.

Ted McNeill, operator of the mission radio station, usually communicates with Bailey on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Bailey did not receive any messages Wednesday, however.

BABY MURDER JURY IS UNABLE TO AGREE

Body Dismissed After More Than 30 Hours in Auto Tragedy Case.

SEVEN TO FIVE FOR GUILT

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—The jury considering the first degree murder charge against Frank E. Andrews, 55, in the death of his 18-month-old son, was dismissed in common pleas court here late today by Judge Irving Carpenter after having failed to reach a decision in more than 30 hours.

The first twelve ballots of the jury showed six for acquittal and six against. The last ballot before dismissal gave seven for guilty and five for acquittal.

The infant, Chester, was killed instantly when the car in which he, his father and mother were riding plunged over a 50-foot cliff into Lake Erie last August. The parents were injured, Andrews suffering a broken leg. The mother, who has since obtained a divorce from Andrews, testified against him, charging that he planned to wipe out the family. She said Andrews pulled the gas and spark levers wide open and turning the car toward the cliff, shouted: "Here's where we three meet in eternity."

Andrews offered a defense of habitual "fits," which he said had afflicted him since childhood and declared that he did not know what he was doing.

"I don't remember anything about it," Andrews testified. "Everything went black and the next thing I knew I was in the water badly injured."

The jurors took the case at 11 a. m. yesterday. Several times they sent requests to Judge Carpenter for information not brought out in the trial. Each time the judge refused the requests, saying that the jury must decide the case on the testimony offered them.

ILLNESS MAY HALT ROTHSTEIN TRIAL

McManus May Gain Mistrial if Sickness of Juror Proves Serious.

PHYSICIAN IS CALLED

New York, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Possibility of a mistrial being declared when George McManus is called to the bar of General Sessions Monday morning to hear further testimony linking him with the murder of Arnold Rothstein, the gambler, was seen today when a juror reported he was ill.

After an early adjournment had been taken in the fifth day of the trial today a juror, whose name was not revealed, went to the chambers of Judge Charles C. Nott, jr., and asked to be excused on the ground that he was sick. Judge Nott, with consent of State and defense counsel, designated a physician to examine the juror and report to him Monday as to his physical condition.

May Pick New Juror.

If the physician reports the juror physically unable to continue Monday a mistrial may be declared, although the possibility that the attorneys might consent to picking a new juror and reading to him the testimony already given, was advanced.

The shooting of Rothstein occurred November 4, 1928, and the memory of witnesses so far called—with one exception the gambler associates of McManus and Rothstein—apparently is hazy as to dates and incidents.

The memory of one witness today—Alvin C. Thomas, of Milwaukee, Wis.—was so poor that seven pages of statements he gave the district attorney's office a year ago had to be read in court today before he could get straightened out on several matters.

Poker Players' Story.

Thomas, a participant in the stud poker game where the State contends was born the hatred that culminated in Rothstein's shooting, gave testimony similar to that yesterday of other players at the game.

In that game Rothstein lost over $200,000, McManus $51,000, Martin (Red) Bowe, one of yesterday's witnesses, $5,700. Rothstein gave I. O. U.'s for his losses, which were never collected, while McManus paid in cash, much of which Rothstein pocketed that night.

Thomas was preceded on the stand by Myer Solomon, or "Myer Boston," as he prefers to be known, who told substantially the same story, except that he placed Rothstein's losses at $300,000. Myer himself won $8,000—all in cash.

The last witness of the day, before court was adjourned was a Miss Marguerite Hubbell, advertising woman of Montreal, Canada. She was a guest in the Park Central the night the State says Rothstein was shot there in a room McManus had rented and which was near her own. She testified that she heard "an explosion" the night in question, some time after 10 o'clock, heard excited voices in the hall outside immediately afterward, but did not investigate.

Prince of Wales Flies Ship Alone

Despite Bumpy Weather, Titled Air Student Has No Trouble.

London, Nov. 22 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The Prince of Wales, who recently purchased a light airplane and for some time has been qualifying for a pilot's license, has made his first solo flight, it is reported here tonight. Previously he has always flown with his pilot in a dual-control plane so that if he made any mistake while at the controls it could be immediately corrected by the experienced flier.

It is understood the prince's lone attempt was made in extremely "bumpy" weather, but he handled the plane well and made a good landing.

On a recent flying trip northward from London the prince took the controls of the machine for nearly 200 miles without any assistance from his regular pilot who was with him at the time.

Mexican City Reports Three Quake Shocks

Mexico City, Nov. 22.—(A. P.)—Dispatches tonight to El Universal from Pinotepa, Oaxaca, told of two heavy earth shocks which threw the populace into a panic, but caused no damage.

The first was at 11:10 o'clock last night and the second a few minutes later. Another slight shock was felt early today.

Vienna Bank Rate Cut.

Vienna, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—The National Bank today lowered the official rediscount rate from 8½ to 8 per cent. This was in line with similar reductions in the rates in other European countries within the last two days.

DIED

RIPPON—Departed this life, on Friday, November 22, 1929, at 12:50 a. m., BLANCHE SIDNEY RIPPON (nee Owens), beloved wife of Obediah T. Rippon. Funeral from her late residence, 813 Madison street northwest, on Monday, November 25, at 2 p. m. Interment at Glenwood Cemetery.

KENT CHALLENGED ON SENATE ATTACK

Coalitionists Grill Banker After He Blames Them for Stocks' Crash.

G. O. P. UNITY IS URGED

(Associated Press.)

Senators from the coalition tariff majority partially blamed for the stock market plunge by Fred I. Kent, New York banker, challenged his declarations through three hours' questioning yesterday, but he stuck to his opinion.

Called by the lobby committee because of the attack of the Democratic-Republican Independent group's actions, the banker maintained it had caused the Senate "to cease to function." The tariff debaters demanded how he would write the contested bill, and he advised that all Republicans should stay together and put through a bill supported by a majority of that party—regardless of individual or group opinions.

The independently-minded committee members were obviously astounded by this reasoning and two or three occasionally hurled questions at him simultaneously.

Borah and Walsh Take Part.

Senator Borah, of Idaho, a leader of the Republican independents, and Senator Walsh, of Montana, acting Democratic leader, participated with Chairman Caraway in the severe examination.

Senator Glass, of Virginia, a former Democratic Secretary of the Treasury, joined the committee—although not a member—to inquire into the banker's ideas on the stock market situation.

Standing and leaning over the committee table, Borah informed Kent the coalition had announced no program for downward revision of the industrial tariff rates.

"It was not announced," Kent insisted, "in a way that impressed people that way. I know that there was fear among industrialists as to how the tariff was going to develop."

Independents are Blamed.

Kent persisted that the public mind was "uncertain" because of the failure of the Senate to pass the tariff bill and, asked whom he blamed for that, he named the Republican independents. Asked how he would remedy the situation, he insisted that the independents should work with the Republican majority and seek to convince its own party of its views and abide by the decision of the majority of the party.

Senator Walsh (Democrat), Montana, asked Kent if he thought the Republican independents should have supported the tariff bill "regardless of their own views."

"They should have convinced a majority of their party that they were right," Kent replied.

"But they couldn't do that," Walsh reminded.

"Then maybe, they weren't right," Kent suggested.

Thinks He Could Convince Others.

Pressed to tell what he would have done if he had been a member of the Senate opposed to the rates in the tariff bill, Kent said he would have tried to convince the other members of his party that he was right.

"If I were correct, I think I could convince the others," he observed.

"If you couldn't do that, then what would you do?" Walsh demanded.

"That would depend on what was said," Kent returned, adding that he would vote for what he believed to be for "best interests of the United States."

After examination of Kent was completed, Chairman Caraway announced no hearings would be held next week while the Senate was in recess.

The only other witness yesterday was J. A. Arnold, manager of the Southern Tariff Association, who told of attempts to organize the Western Tariff Association and the National Tariff Council in the West. The purpose of both associations, he explained, was to promote protective tariff sentiment.

Justice William Fitz, in District Supreme Court, yesterday continued until December 6 the hearing on the motion of the Government to set the date for the trial of Edward L. Doheny, millionaire magnate, on a charge of giving a $100,000 bribe to Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior. The Government wants the trial to begin January 13.

The continuance was granted on the motion of associates of Frank J. Hogan, attorney for Doheny, that the court dockets are crowded and that the counsel will be busy in other cases at the time. Defense counsel suggested March 17 as the date for the trial.

The wish to try speedily Doheny is an aftermath of the Government's recent victory in convicting Fall of accepting the bribe from Doheny. Fall, through his attorneys, has appealed from the decision of the court. He is under sentence to serve one year in jail and pay a fine of $100,000.

companied by gentle to moderate northeast or east winds, is forecast, and rain may possibly be mixed with the snow.

The Saskatchewan disturbance developed Thursday night over the Mackenzie Basin, the Weather Bureau reports, and has greatly increased in intensity, while that from the gulf has caused general snow precipitation from the central and southern Plains States and Texas east to the lower Ohio Valley and southern Appalachian region. Zero weather was reported as far south as Kansas, and freezing temperatures to central Texas and central Louisiana.

The official low temperature for the District yesterday was 29 degrees, the lowest that it has reached this season, and at no time during the day was it more than 6 degrees above that mark. The kiosk at Pennsylvania avenue and E street northwest, which was scanned by hundreds of shivering pedestrians to see whether the freezing point had been reached, showed a low temperature of 32 degrees between 4 and 6 o'clock yesterday morning, while its high mark was 38 degrees at noon. Even this was 10 degrees below the low temperature recorded there Thursday, and the average yesterday was approximately six degrees below that recorded for corresponding dates during the last 33 years. The Weather Bureau predicts that temperature changes today will be unimportant.

DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Met at 10, recessed at 12:32 to 9:45 last night and then adjourned at 10 sine die.

Considered the tariff bill for a brief period, and then abandoned it until the regular session beginning December 2.

Senator Blease (Democrat), South Carolina, read an anonymous letter intimating a Catholic conspiracy in the McPherson murder investigation.

Senator Walsh (Democrat), Massachusetts, scoffed at the insinuation.

Lobby committee questioned Fred I. Kent, director of the Bankers Trust Co., of New York, who reiterated his charge that the Senate's action on the tariff bill contributed to the stock market crash.

Confirmed the nomination of Lieut. Col. Thomas M. Robins to be a member of the California Debt Commission.

Senator Schall (Republican), Minnesota, made public a letter from Thomas J. Mooney, life prisoner in San Francisco, proposing a congressional investigation of the Preparedness Day explosion there in 1916 which cost ten lives and for which Mooney was blamed.

Senator Walsh (Democrat), Massachusetts, introduced a bill proposing coinage of 50-cent pieces in commemoration of the 300th anniversary of the founding of the Massachusetts Bay colony.

HOUSE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 12:50 sine die.

Representative Bland (Democrat), Virginia, introduced a bill to authorize $25,000 for the erection of a monument at the birthplace of James Monroe, in Westmoreland County, Va.

ADMIRAL LYON DEAD AFTER LONG CAREER

Admiral Lyon had a picturesque service in the Navy. Born in Charleston, Mass., in 1845, he entered the Naval Academy in 1862 from Massachusetts and was graduated four years later. As a midshipman he was aboard the U. S. S. Sacramento when it was wrecked on the coast of India in 1867. He was in the Samoan tidal wave of 1889 as executive officer aboard the U. S. S. Trenton, which was wrecked, and two years to a day later he was wrecked off Cuttyhunk Ledge, Mass., on the Naval tug Triana. He had gone aboard this vessel to attempt a rescue of the U. S. S. Galena, a man-of-war which had been wrecked after losing its direction when a lightship was swept from its moorings.

In the Spanish-American War Admiral Lyon saw service as commanding officer of the dispatch boat Dolphin, one-time presidential yacht, and took command of the famous cruiser Olympia in 1902 in relieving Admiral George Dewey. In that year he also became chief of staff of the North Atlantic station. It was while commanding the Olympia that his ship acted as escort in American waters to the French warship Gaulois, bearing a delegation of prominent Frenchmen to participate in ceremonies honoring Rochambeau in Washington. For his services France conferred on him the medal of the Legion of Honor.

For 18 months prior to his retirement on November 8, 1907, upon reaching the age of 62 years, he served as commandant of the Mare Island Navy Yard in California. While serving there he was a guest at a dinner in San Francisco to Roald Amundson just after the famous explorer had discovered the Northwest Passage. They chanced to sit next to each other.

"I don't know what I'm going to do about my ship out in the harbor, for people are tearing it to pieces for souvenirs," Amundson was quoted as remarking to Admiral Lyon.

"Why don't you let me take care of it for you at the navy yard, where it will be safe," Admiral Lyon responded.

Amundson promptly accepted the offer and shortly afterward through his recommendation Norway conferred on the American officer the Royal Order of St. Olaf, the medal of which will be returned to Norway from the State Department in conformity with the foreign government's request. The explorer also further evinced his appreciation by giving to Admiral Lyon the camp stool he used on his famous voyage of discovery.

Prior to becoming a rear admiral on February 19, 1906, he also had served in the European squadron, at the Washington, Boston, Brooklyn and Charleston Navy Yards, the torpedo station at Newport, the naval station at Honolulu, and aboard the U. S. S. Brooklyn and Nipsic, the latter of which was the only American ship to survive the Samoan disaster.

His son, Capt. Lyon, won prominence as navigator of the airplane, Southern Cross, which spanned the Pacific Ocean from San Francisco to Australia last year.

HOOVER PROCLAIMS CENSUS OBLIGATION

Citizens Required to Give Information Asked For, He Reminds Public.

ALL KEPT CONFIDENTIAL

As the chief citizen of the Nation, President Hoover reminded all other citizens and persons in a proclamation yesterday of their duty to answer questions put by census enumerators beginning next April.

"No person can be harmed in any way by furnishing the information required," he said, emphasizing that the census had nothing to do with taxation, military or jury service, compulsory school attendance or similar matters. Any person refusing to answer is subject to penalty.

The President's proclamation called upon everybody in the United States to cooperate with the army of census workers who will be going from door to door next spring and after. He noted the law required the decennial count to determine representation of the States in the House.

Text of Proclamation.

The proclamation read:

By the President of the United States of America.

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas, by the act of Congress approved June 18, 1929, the fifteenth decennial census of the United States is to be taken beginning on first day of April, 1930; and

Whereas, a correct enumeration of the population every ten years is required by the Constitution of the United States for the purpose of determining the representation of the several States in the House of Representatives; and

Whereas, it is of the utmost importance to the interest of all the people of the United States that this census should be a complete and accurate report of the population and resources of the Nation:

Now, therefore, I, Herbert Hoover, President of the United States of America, do hereby declare and make known that, under the law aforesaid, it is the duty of every person to answer all questions on the census schedules applying to him and the family to which he belongs, and to the farm occupied by him or his family, and all other census schedules as required by law, and that any person refusing to do so is subject to penalty.

Information Confidential.

The sole purpose of the census is to secure general statistical information regarding the population and resources of the country, and replies are required from individuals only to permit the compilation of such general statistics. No person can be harmed in any way by furnishing the information required. The census has nothing to do with taxation, with military or jury service, with the compulsion of school attendance, with the regulation of immigration or with the enforcement of any national, State or local law or ordinance.

There need be no fear that any disclosure will be made regarding any individual person or his affairs. For the due protection of the rights and interests of the persons furnishing information every employe of the census bureau is prohibited, under heavy penalty, from disclosing any information which may thus come to his knowledge.

I, therefore, earnestly urge upon all persons to answer promptly, completely and accurately all inquiries addressed to them by the enumerators or other employes of the census bureau and thereby to contribute their share toward making this great and necessary public undertaking a success.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the great seal of the United States.

Done at the City of Washington, this 22d day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine, and of the Independence of the United States, the one hundred and fifty-fourth.

HERBERT HOOVER.
President of the United States.
By the President.

Secretary of State.

Six Held, Score Sought In Counterfeit Expose

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Six men were under arrest this afternoon and United States Secret Service were searching western New York for more than a score in the round-up of an alleged counterfeiting gang, who, they said, were ready to flood the Niagara frontier district with $100,000 in bogus small sized bank notes.

Those arrested were: George Miles, at whose home here paraphernalia used in counterfeiting was found; and Anthony Fetto, Angelo Miccichi, Joseph Varratti, a photographer; J. P. Cataldo, and Joseph Bartolato. The arrests followed a raid by eight secret service agents at the Miles home, where, agents said, they found one of the best, and most complete bank note counterfeiting plants they had ever seen.

Naval and League Meetings Conflict

Geneva Sessions May Be Held on January 14, Instead of 21.

Geneva, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—The congested calendar of international political meetings, in January, which has brought a conflict between the dates for the regular League of Nations council meeting and the London naval conference, has perplexed the secretariat of the league.

Italy today suggested solving the principal conflict by holding the league council meeting a week earlier than the scheduled date of January 21, on the 14th. Foreign Minister Dino Grandi, of Italy, proposed this in a telegram to Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the league.

The British government chose this date after the September session of the league council which selected it for its next meeting.

The difficulty facing the league secretariat is that if the council meeting is held earlier there will be a conflict between it and the second Hague reparations conference. The latter will begin during the first week of January and will probably last a fortnight.

The fourteen states represented on the council have been consulted about the proposed change.

FOSTER MOTHERS HEAR TALK ON DUTY

DR. HICKS ISSUES HINTS

Three hundred foster mothers of dependent children whom the District looks after gathered at the District Building yesterday under the call of Miss Patricia Morss, head of the child placing division of the public welfare department, to discuss the problems of rearing the children.

The meeting was the first of its kind held in the District and will be followed by others every two or three months, Miss Morss said.

"Our task is not simply one of supplying these dependent children who come into our care with clothing and enough food, but to bring them into such surroundings that they will develop into men and women of initiative and character," Miss Morss explained.

Eight "mandates" for the rearing of children were laid down to the foster mothers in an address by Dr. J. Allan Hicks, of the Washington Research Center.

Foster mothers must accept the responsibility for the development of their charges and give to them the affection and help they need, Hicks told the gathering, as the first of the eight mandates. Foster mothers, Hicks said, must not seek to find excuses for their own shortcomings in the parentage or previous lives of their wards. Nor must children be "smothered" with affection. That would tend to make them too dependent and fail to develop the self-reliance and initiative they need in later life, he pointed out.

Many of the principles of caring for foster children, he said, applied also to the care of children by their own parents. Other rules he laid down included: discipline wisely and immediately administered so that it will have a direct relationship in the mind of the child with the disciplined action.

He concluded: "Help children to succeed because success brings success. Give children an interest in the family group, having group recreation, and mutual discussion of problems affecting the daily lives of each. Give good example. Do not evade a disagreeable interview, for example, with a lie and then expect the child to regard an untruth with horror. Do not expect too much appreciation."

Amelia Earhart Sets Woman's Speed Mark

Metropolitan Airport, Los Angeles, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Miss Amelia Earhart established a new women's aviation speed record today making an average of 184.17 miles an hour over a mile course in four laps.

The fastest lap, clocked by Joe Nikrent for the American Aeronautical Association, was 197 miles an hour. The previous record, Nikrent said, was 156 miles an hour by Mrs. Louise Thaden, of Pittsburgh.

CHURCHES SCHEDULE THANKSGIVING RITES

Services Appropriate to Season Due Tomorrow and Thursday.

CHARITY WORK PLANNED

Thanksgiving Day services will be held in many churches of the District tomorrow and next Thursday.

Thanksgiving will be observed at Washington Cathedral with a special festival service at 11 o'clock Thursday morning. The Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, will be the preacher. Hymns and anthems appropriate to the observance will be sung by the Washington Choir of men and boys.

The Central Union Mission will celebrate its forty-fifth Thanksgiving by donating gift baskets to the needy, and serving a Thanksgiving dinner in the Mission Building at 613 C street northwest, to all the needy who apply that day.

The Rev. Fred C. Reynolds, pastor of the Wesley Methodist Episcopal Church, at the corner of Connecticut avenue and Jocelyn street northwest, will preach a sermon appropriate to the Thanksgiving season at the morning service tomorrow. The church will be the scene of the union Thanksgiving service of the churches of Chevy Chase on Thanksgiving Day.

The annual harvest home service of the Metropolitan Baptist Church will be held tomorrow night. The pastor, the Rev. John Compton Ball, will preach.

BLAST INQUIRY IS LAUNCHED AS DEATH TOTAL REACHES SIX

serving the explosion and of calling the police.

Testimony that started out as if it might be sensational was offered by Detective Serrgeant Arthur Fihelly, who declared that he had talked with a colored porter immediately after the blast and had been told that "everybody 'tends to the furnace." This disclosure was interrupted by Collins' motion.

The inquest was postponed until Monday, December 2, at 10:30 in the board room of the District Building.

Frank Brown, head porter at McCrory's, and James E. Pendleton, his assistant, were present at the inquest and the former was accompanied by an attorney.

There will probably be no arrests before the next inquest, but should culpability be established by the investigations several may follow.

A. C. Achstetter, acting fire marshal, yesterday completed his report of the tragedy. Brown had told him, he said, that he attended to the tank heater at 7:30 a. m. Thursday and that Pendleton had said he had done the chore at 10:30 o'clock. The explosion occurred at 1:30 p. m.

Damage Total Put at $5,000.

The damage to the McCrory store, he estimated, would be $3,000. The owners of the adjacent shoe store claimed their damages would amount to $1,000. These figures, added to the cost of repairing the street and pavement, will probably bring the total building damage to $5,000.

The establishment of responsibility for the tank bursting will depend to a great extent upon whether certain parts of the water-heating system can be located. Up to last night, they had not been found.

Experts on boilers and water tanks yesterday declared that the explosion could not have happened if the safety valve had been in operation or if the passage from the tank to the District water main inlet had been clear.

Investigators have not established, however, just where the safety valve was located or whether there was a valve on the inlet pipe. If the former was not held down by an undue weight, it would have permitted the escape of excessive steam pressure, they said. If the pipe bringing the city water into the tank or the heater had not been closed by a valve, the steam pressure, being greater than the water force, would have forced the latter back into the main stem.

Such conclusions, if confirmed, will of necessity establish culpability, though not of themselves fixing the blame specifically on individuals.

A very light weight, such as a coat, on the old type safety valve could have prevented its operation, experts declared, because of the small surface of the piston as compared to surface of the tank. The inlet valve, if it existed, could have been turned off to make minor repairs and then unintentionally left off.

Welding Called Poor.

The water tank and its heater were separated from the main heating plant. The tank was not a boiler. It was of quarter-inch steel, but it was said by examiners that the welding at the top and bottom was poor.

The tank, 5½ feet high and 36 inches in diameter, was in a vertical position and rested presumably upon a concrete base probably with a metal framework. The bottom blew out, but was obstructed by the base. The whole tank then shot upward, but was likewise retarded by a steel beam supporting the sidewalk.

The boiling water, which escaped from the broken tank immediately turned into steam as it struck the cooler air and because of its tremendous expansion it burst the bonds of the basement, sending portions of the pavement high into the air.

Funeral arrangements for the five who died in the tragedy were being made yesterday prior to the death of the sixth.

Meanwhile two additional casualties were discovered. Wilbur Smith, 46 years old, colored, of 405 Third street southwest, reported at Emergency Hospital yesterday morning and was treated for possible fracture of the skull. He said he was standing near Seventh and D streets when the force of the blast threw him against an automobile. He had not considered his injuries serious enough Thursday to go to a hospital.

Benjamin Weissbrod, 38 years old, of 52 T street northwest, also reported to the hospital and was treated for a sprained ankle.

A relief committee from the District Red Cross Chapter went to work yesterday to aid the families who had suffered the loss or serious injury of a member by the disaster. When word of the tragedy was received Thursday, 3,000 surgical dressings and bandages were rushed to Emergency Hospital, and eleven workers assisted attendants in treating the injured.

Maj. Gen. George Barnett, chairman of the chapter, is serving as chairman of the relief committee.

A high board fence enclosed the cavity at the McCrory's store entrance yesterday; and, as a consequence, numerous curious persons were disappointed. A special detail of policemen kept the crowd moving.

Police Clerk Rescues Woman Blast Victim

Patrick J. Haltigan, 22-year-old Police Court clerk, was one of the heroes of the McCrory store blast, it was revealed yesterday. Haltigan rescued Mrs. G. S. Decker, of the Salvation Army, who is reported to be in a critical condition at Emergency Hospital.

Haltigan was a block away when the crash came, and, rushing to the scene, dragged Mrs. Decker from the debris, it was said. In his efforts to get the woman to the hospital Haltigan commandeered an automobile parked in the vicinity, returning it later.

CURRENT EVENTS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

ARLINGTON LEADERS HEAR ZONE EXPERT

AUTO INJURES TEACHER

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

With the last public sectional hearing on the tentative zoning ordinance scheduled for Monday night in the Jefferson District Firemen's Hall at Virginia Highlands, the Arlington County Zoning Commission met last night with the residents of the Cherrydale election precinct which comprises Dominion Heights, Maywood and Thrifton Village and discussed the ordinance as it relates to these sections.

The purpose of zoning was fully explained by the zoning engineer, Allen J. Saville, who stated that its basic purpose was to see to it that all land was used to the best advantage with the view of an orderly development. In this he stated that he meant that where a section was zoned as residential, no business could come in and locate, thereby destroying the value of the section as a residential district.

In the heart of Cherrydale, along the Lee highway, the commission has, according to the tentative ordinance, zoned it as a general business district, in another section of Cherrydale, along the Lee highway, it has been zoned residential B, which provides for the erection of apartment houses.

In the sections of Thrifton Village and Maywood and Dominion Heights, the ordinance as now drafted provides for a residential section.

The commission has provided for an industrial section along the tracks of the Old Dominion Railway from Cedar street westward for a distance of several blocks.

It was recommended by Frank Lyon that the industrial area along the railway tracks be extended eastward along Spout Run to provide for a feeding territory when Rosslyn is wiped out as a business district by the Federal Government in its future development of the Virginia approaches to the Key and Memorial Bridges.

Engineer Saville stated that the commission has not zoned this section as it is an undeveloped area. No action was taken on the recommendation other than that it will be considered when the ordinance is submitted to the county board of supervisors.

Strong opposition to the proposed extension of the industrial area as outlined by Lyon was voiced by P. E. Shaub, K. A. Affleck, H. C. Roberts and P. V. Roundy, as representatives from the Thrifton Village Improvement League.

Tomorrow the congregation of Mount Olivet Methodist Church at Ballston will celebrate the seventy-fifth anniversary of its organization with a special service conducted by the Rev. L. B. Smith, president of the Methodist Conference. The service will be held in the morning at 11 o'clock, with the pastor, the Rev. W. H. Hodges, assisting.

The Mount Olivet Church was organized in 1854, being the pioneer church of Arlington County. The first church building was erected soon after the organization was effected and was used both as a church and a private school. It was a two-story structure and was destroyed by the Union troops during the Civil War after having been used by them as a hospital and also as a stable. Forty-five years later the Government paid $3,400 damages to the congregation. A second building was erected soon after the close of the war.

The present auditorium was erected in 1895 and under the leadership of the pastor, the Rev. J. W. Norris, a large portion of the building was constructed by volunteer labor. In 1920 the present Sunday school building was added under the pastorate of the Rev. C. S. McCaslin, making the total church property valued at $30,000.

Mrs. Arthur Orr has been reelected president of the Lyon Park Woman's Club. Other officers are: Mrs. C. K. Lewis, vice president; Mrs. E. F. Fox, recording secretary; Mrs. A. T. Rowell, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. H. C. Young, treasurer.

Delegates to the Arlington County Civic Federation are: Mrs. Joseph Haley, Mrs. P. P. Woodbridge, Mrs. E. F Fox and Mrs. Arthur Orr; the alternates are: Mrs. J. W. Dorsey, Mrs. L. L. Collie and Mrs. H. D. Mahin.

The club announces it will hold a bake sale next Wednesday in the Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co.'s store at Lyon Park Station.

The committee in charge of the arrangements are: Mrs. E. F. Fox, Mrs. J. W. Dorsey, Mrs. C. H. Deaton and Mrs. T. P. Garey.

The dull appearances of the county courthouse grounds were much relieved with the landscaping program which got under way yesterday under the supervision of Robert H. Forman, of the firm of Forman & Biller, landscape gardeners, of Arlington County.

In keeping with the work which is being done around the courthouse it is learned that many of the attorneys who have erected offices opposite the courthouse have contracted to have the surrounding grounds landscaped.

The Arlington Rotary Club held its weekly meeting at the Washington Golf and Country Club yesterday with the president, Dr. R. N. Sutton, presiding.

Dr. Herbert Wilson, of Washington, gave a talk on the principles of Rotary.

Owing to the next meeting falling on Thanksgiving Day, it was announced that the club will meet on Wednesday of next week.

W. M. Stone was elected to membership.

Announcement was made last night by Dr. J. H. Walton, of Cherrydale, that he is to be associated with Dr. John T. Hazel, formerly of Falls Church.

Dr. P. M. Chichester, county health officer, announced last night that the special clinic for crippled children will be held tomorrow in the Clarendon health center from 9 to 4 p. m. by Dr. William T. Graham, of Richmond.

This clinic is not only for children of Arlington County, but for any child within reaching distance of the clinic, the health department announces. Adults will also be welcome to take advantage of the clinical facilities.

Miss Sallie Loving, one of the teachers at the Washington Lee High School, narrowly escaped serious injury when struck by an automobile, said to have been operated by R. S. Ellison, Thursday night, at the intersection of the Lee Highway and Barker avenue.

Miss Loving, who was taken to the Georgetown Hospital at Washington, was said to be much improved last night.

Investigation proved the accident to be unavoidable.

Passing the half-way mark, County Chairman George A. Collier in charge of the annual roll call of the Arlington County Chapter, American Red Cross, announced a total of 600 members have been enrolled.

Meeting with the executive committee and the several district chairmen last night in the Boulevard Bakery at Clarendon a program for an extensive wind-up drive concluding on Thanksgiving Day was perfected.

Chairman Collier again stressed upon all residents of the county employed in the District of Columbia to enroll in the county, thereby aiding the local chapter in carrying on its work throughout the year.

Confident that the county's quota of 1,000 will be reached by Thursday the committee left the meeting determined to take advantage of every minute till the close of the drive.

The residents of Arlington County were extended a rare treat with the opening of the first annual art exhibit under the auspices of the Arlington County Creative Art Club which was organized less than one year ago.

The exhibit is being held in the rooms of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce and will continue this afternoon, closing tnight at 10 o'clock.

The exhibit includes the work of the club members such as paintings in water and oil, pencil sketches and hand-painted china.

During the evening Mrs. Sade Catherine Coles, an accomplished composer of music, of Arlington County and Washington, entertained the large groups of citizens who visited the exhibit with a number of her new compositions.

More than 70 men of St. George's Episcopal Church met last night in the parish hall as the guests at a dinner served by the Ladies Guild of the church.

The pastor, the Rev. Henry Miller, presiding and acting as toastmaster, declared that history was being made as from all that he could learn that this was the first time such a large group of men had ever gathered together in the church at one time.

The Rev. Mr. Miller declared that the greatest need for the success of any church was the united support of the men of the congregation.

"The church today is a layman's organization, and a pastor can do little without the support of the men," he declared.

"What I want to see here is a strong men's organization, call it what you will, but we must have it. I feel confident that this meeting tonight means the starting of such an organization," he said.

Dr. W. Sinclair Bowen, of Washington, the principal speaker, stated the main object of life is the seeking of happiness. This is only attained by service, he stated.

"We older men should set the example and see to it that our children attend Sunday school. If you have not taught the child the habit of going to Sunday school by the time he or she is 7 years of age you will later fail in doing it," he said.

"Go to our city jail today, and you will find many a man that would not be there had he had the proper training when a child.

"We have today preventive medicine. What we need is preventive religion in order to prevent crime," he declared.

Other speakers were the Rev. Harvard Cady, of Herndon, Va., and the Rev. M. M. Perkins, of Georgetown.

Group Teachers' Meetings Ended

Special to The Washington Post.

Bedford, Va., Nov. 22.—A series of group teachers' meetings has been held in the various sections of the county during the last week under the direction of Miss Eliza Stickley, supervisor of elementary schools. The meetings have been largely attended by the teachers and subjects of interest have formed the program. The last of the series was held at Thaxton today, the other meetings having been held at Stewartsville, Big Island, Forest and Huddleston.

Miss Stickley spoke on the purpose and forms of testing and Dr. J. A. C. Shipley, division superintendent of schools, discussed administrative problems. S. S. Hylton, county farm agent, spoke briefly at each meeting. The following teachers took part: Miss Mary Ramsey, Mrs. E. L. Horton, Mrs. Jessie Montgomery, Miss Mattie Cheek, Miss Eula Salyer, Miss Gladys Gregory, Mr. Blackwell, Miss Lelia Wood, Miss Lucy Bradley, Miss Louise Armbruster, Miss Ethelyn Eason, Miss Virginia Burks, Miss Thelma Padgett, Mrs. S. DUCK BLIND PROBE BY VIRGINIA JUDGE

Ripraps in Chesapeake Bay Are Said to Be Menace to Navigation.

ALEXANDRIA MAN DIES

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 823.

M. D. Hart, secretary of the State Game and Inland Fisheries Commission, the guest yesterday of Justice W. S. Snow, also of the commission, accompanied by him, conferred with the chief of the Bureau of Biological Survey, of Washington, and Maj. Summerville, chief of the Washington Navigation District, in regard to the placing of duck blinds in the navigable waters of Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries.

Maj. Summerville has under consideration the preparation of a map on which will be shown certain areas within which duck blinds may be placed without a permit from his office, and certain other areas in which no blinds may be located. This action has been made necessary by reason of the fact that several duck blinds of a permanent nature have been constructed in the navigable waters of the State, and some ripraps placed around them, constituting a menace to the navigation of small boats.

In the Corporation Court, Judge William P. Woolls, presiding, a jury in the appeal case of James J. Bolton, who had been fined $250 and costs and given three months in jail for an alleged violation of the prohibition law, brought in a verdict of not guilty.

The jury also brought in a verdict of not guilty in the appeal case of Elmer Miller, who was fined $50 and costs for an alleged dry law violation.

In the case of Leonard Randolph, colored, fined $100 in Police Court on a charge of operating a number game, a nolle prosequi was entered.

Mark Bryant, 63 years old, died yesterday at his home, 515 Duke street, after having been in failing health for a long time. Besides his widow, Mrs. Lillian B. Bryant, he is survived by two sons, James Bryant, of Alexandria, and Robert V. Bryant, of Baltimore, and a daughter, Mrs. Mary Thorpe, of Baltimore.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Funeral Home, 809 Cameron street at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon by the Rev. Ryland T. Dodge, pastor of the Temple Baptist Church. Interment will be in Bethel Cemetery.

Big Ten Alumni Dance Is Planned for Tonight

The ninth annual round-up and dance of the Big Ten alumni and former students of those universities in Washington will be held tonight in the Hotel Washington.

Prominent alumni of Western Conference schools who will be present include R. W. Dunlap, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, and Dr. and Mrs. Jan Papanek, secretary of the Czechoslovakian Legation. Purdue alumni expect to have the honor of leading the grand march in recognition of the new conference football champions.

Garage Man Is Injured When Auto Strikes Him

Caught between two automobiles near a garage on H street, near Sixth street northwest, where he is employed, Robley Evans, 30 years old, of 236 Massachusetts avenue northwest, received serious injuries yesterday morning.

He was taken to Emergency Hospital, where he was reported to be suffering from contusions of both knees and possible internal injuries. At the time of the accident Evans was crossing the street. In dodging one car he jumped almost in the path of another, police said, and was struck by one of the cars.

Man Placed Under Bond On Contempt Charges

Frank Shore for whom a bench warrant charging contempt was issued Thursday, surrendered yesterday to United States Marshal Edgar C. Snyder and was placed under $1,000 bond pending hearing on December 16 before Wendell P. Stafford.

Shore's surrender followed the arrest Thursday of Miss Mae Money, his secretary. Miss Money was arrested by deputy marshals at a tire shop said to be owned by Shore, at 1228 New York avenue northwest, and immediately made bond of $1,000. Shore and Miss Money were charged jointly with violating a liquor padlock injunction issued by the court last May 8. Issuance of the bench warrant followed a raid last Saturday by prohibition agents on the tire shop, in which they allege that they found a quantity of assorted liquors.

MAN WHO ATTACKED GIRL GETS 10 YEARS

OLD LANDMARK BURNED

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Vienna, Va.
Phone Vienna 64.

A ten-year sentence was imposed yesterday by Judge Howard W. Smith of the Fairfax County Circuit Court upon Charles Smith, of Syracuse, N. Y. Smith pleaded guilty to a charge of an attack on Miss Alice Young, 16-year-old schoolgirl, at New Alexandria, on the night of November 10. When the case was called for trial yesterday, Judge Smith ordered the courtroom cleared. Witnesses were heard by the judge after the defendant pleaded guilty and had made a confession to the court.

Michael Casetto, who has been held in the Fairfax Jail for the shooting of Raymond A. Grover on the night of November 11, which later resulted in Grover's death, was released yesterday under a $5,000 bond for his appearance before the grand jury at the next term of court.

The bond of George W. Rouss, of Charles Town, W. Va., who was found guilty of violation of the prohibition law and fined $1,000 and sentenced to one year in jail, was ordered forfeited yesterday when he failed to appear. The surety paid the bond.

A final order was entered for condemnation of land by the Virginia Public Service Co. against Gilbert L. Struder and others. The report of the commissioners that were appointed at the last term of court was accepted. This verdict gave Struder and others $51.14, which was paid into the court by the service company. The court made a distribution of the funds with regard to the rights and interests of all parties concerned.

The Standard Plate Glass Co. of Washington was granted leave to amend its bill in a suit upon an open account against Chris Gehicke, of Washington, the principal defendant, and William H. Dawson, of Fairfax County, codefendant.

India Adams was granted a divorce and the custody of her child from William N. Adams yesterday. Desertion was alleged.

At a recent meeting of the Centerville Grange the members reelected R. Colton Lewis, of Clifton, master, and Miss Nudema Sayre, of Fairfax, lecturer. Ronald Blake, of Oakton, will assist the master as overseer. The other officers selected were C. C. Carr, of Legato, steward; George Miles, of Oakton, assistant steward; Mrs. C. C. Carr, lady assistant steward; Mrs. Barbara Hall, Fairfax Station, chaplain; Mrs. A. R. Robey, Centerville, treasurer; Mrs. Gladys Winfield, Legato, secretary; Miss Celia Blake, of Oakton, Ceres; Mrs. Ronald Blake, of Oakton, Pjora; Mrs. R. Colton Lewis, of Clifton, Pomona, and Maurice Fox, of Centerville, gatekeeper. The Centerville Grange will be the host to the County Pomona Grange next Tuesday night at Oakton. The grange is contemplating the removal of its headquarters to Oakton after the first of the year. This matter will be settled at the December meeting.

The home of A. Harmon Roberts on Dogue Bay, near Mount Vernon, was destroyed by fire late Thursday night. The furniture in every room of the house except one was saved by friends. It is believed the fire was started by a defective chimney. The private fire departments of Mount Vernon and Fort Humphreys were called to the scene but arrived too late to save the house but succeeded in keeping the flames from spreading to the outbuildings. The loss is estimated to be around $15,000, partly covered by insurance. The beautiful old house had been a family landmark in this section for many years.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Southern Methodist Church of Chesterbrook is planning to show an educational moving picture, furnished by the United States Department of Agriculture, in the schoolhouse tonight. Mrs. B. C. Kadel will be in charge of all arrangements. This show is given for the benefit of the society's treasury.

The Rev. William C. Marshall, who has been pastor of the Old Zion Church at Fairfax and of the Episcopal churches of Burke and Vienna for the last six years, will preach his last sermon and bid farewell to his congregations at the regular services tomorrow. Monday he and his family will leave for Bedford City, Va., where he will take charge of the Episcopal Church there. The Rev. Mr. Marshall has been a very active worker in the church and civic bodies of this community and his presence will be missed by his many friends in Fairfax. It is expected that students from the seminary will conduct services in the three churches after his departure, until the vestries of the church confer in regard to the calling of another minister.

There will be a meeting of the 4-H Club advisory council this morning at 10 o'clock in the school at Fairfax. Miss Hallie Hughes, State Girls' Club agent, and Miss Ella Gardner, of the Children's Bureau of Washington, will address this meeting. Miss Gardner will give instructions on children's recreations. The officers of all the boys' and girls' 4-H clubs are expected to be in attendance. Plans will be made at this time for all the 4-H Club activities that will be held during the coming year.

Jose Named Chairman Of Chamber Committee

Rudolph Jose was yesterday named chairman of the committee on District finance, taxation and assessment, of the Washington Chamber of Commerce by Charles W. Darr, president. Hilleary L. Offutt, jr., was named vice chairman.

A meeting of the membership committee was held yesterday at Olmsted's Grill. Stephan K. Talkes presided. Walter C. Balderston, general counsel of the chamber, was the principal speaker.

Wayne Store Will Open In Capital This Morning

A Washington branch of the Wayne National Stores will be opened this morning at 725 Fourteenth street northwest, William J. Liederman, president of the company, announced yesterday. Liederman will officiate at the opening, which is scheduled to take place at 9 o'clock.

Headquarters of the Wayne organization are at 521 Fifth avenue, New York City. The local store, which will handle both ready-to-wear men's clothing and woolens, is in charge of Thomas A. Dickie, manager.

Stork Train Stowaway As Woman Speeds South

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 22.—A boy baby was born this morning to a mother who was passenger on the Southern southbound Memphis Special as the train sped between Calverton and Culpeper, this State. A telegram filed at Calverton brought a physician aboard the train at Culpeper, and after attending the mother and child, he left at Charlottesville.

The mother, whose name was not available here, was en route from Philadelphia to Greenville, Miss. She was to stay aboard that train to Memphis.

"REPUDIATION DAY" KEPT IN FREDERICK

Lowman Principal Speaker at Sons of Revolution Banquet There.

D. A. R. GUESTS OF HONOR

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., Nov. 22.—Seymour Lowman, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, Washington, was the principal speaker tonight at the annual banquet of the Frederick Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, at which the Daughters of the American Revolution were guests of honor.

The event, held in the Francis Scott Key Hotel, was the annual celebration of the repudiation of the English stamp act in the Frederick courthouse in 1765. Others who spoke briefly were Frank B. Steele, Washington, secretary general of the National Society, S. A. R.; Mrs. Henry M. Roberts, jr., Annapolis, past chairman of Patriotic Education, D. A. R.; Mrs. Daniel Mershon Garrison, vice president general, D. A. R.; Mrs. Robert A. Welsh, Waterbury, Md., regent of the Maryland D. A. R.; Lewis A. Rice, this city, president of Lawrence Everhart Chapter, S. A. R.; Mrs. Francis H. Markell, this city, historian of the Maryland D. A. R., and Mrs. J. P. Feiser, Woodsboro, regent of Frederick Chapter, D. A. R.

This afternoon a meeting was held in the courthouse under the auspices of the Daughters, at which Mrs. Markell made an address on "Repudiation Day." Mrs. Feiser presided and talks were made by Mrs. William C. Linthicum, secretary of the Baltimore Chapter, D. A. R.; Mrs. Ferdinand Focke, Baltimore, regent of the Baltimore Chapter; Mrs. Augustus J. Cooke, Waterbury, regent of Anne Arundel Chapter; Mrs. Sarah White, Baltimore, regent of the Carter Braxton Chapter; Mrs. Loyal Alden, Pikesville, State editor, and other State officials.

The repudiation act, declaring the stamp act illegal, was read from a court record book by Eli G. Haugh, clerk of the court. The act was promulgated by the twelve Frederick County judges and is regarded as one of the acts leading up to the Revolutionary War.

Following the meeting Mrs. Feiser and Mrs. Edward D. Shriner entertained the State and national officers at Ceresville, near Frederick, the home of the latter, at a large reception. Nearly 100 persons, including guests and State and national officers, attended the banquet.

Mrs. Danly Named To Y.W.C.A. Body

National Board Member Also Will Do Rural Committee Work.

Mrs. E. E. Danly, a member of the national board of the Y. W. C. A., was chosen yesterday by the board of directors to fill an unexpired term on the national committee for rural committee work.

Mrs. William F. Brock, wife of the newly elected senator from Tennessee and former president of the Y. W. C. A. at Chattanooga, and Mrs. Camilio Osias, wife of a Philippine resident commissioner and the first president of the Y. W. C. A. in Manila, were present and extended greetings from their respective groups.

Announcement was made of the "call to national convention" to be held in Detroit from April 25 to May 1, 1930. Elwood Street, director of the Community Chest, has been invited to speak on the Community Chest plans at the regular Y. W. C. A. meeting Thursday morning, December 19.

Man Returned to Face Embezzlement Charge

Roy Henderson, former assistant manager of the Lincoln Shoe Store, 1115 G street northwest, indicted for embezzlement in connection with the disappearance of nearly $1,000 from the local store two years ago, was returned to Washington yesterday from Clearwater, Fla., where he has been living for the past few months.

Henderson was brought here by Detective Sergt. Howard E. Ogle, of headquarters. He will be released on bail today, it was announced. Henderson was indicted by the District grand jury. He is charged in six counts with the theft of $984.83 from Harry L. Taback and Max Greenwald, partners of the Lincoln Shoe Store.

Lincoln Motor Salon Is Extended One Week

Interest evidenced in the Lincoln Metropolitan Salon, which has been in progress for the last week in the Palm Court of the Mayflower Hotel, led yesterday to announcement by the Lincoln Motor Co. that the exhibit will be extended for another week, beginning at 10 o'clock this morning, in the showrooms of the Warfield Motor Co., at 1128 Connecticut avenue northwest.

The salon will continue to present a two-window Lincoln of the latest design, a sport phaeton bearing a rear seat windshield, a coupe sedan, a seven-passenger limousine and other models. The showrooms will be open from 10 o'clock in the morning until 10:30 o'clock each night, closing next Saturday.

$130 Stolen From Cemetery Office.

Jimmying a side window of the Lincoln National Cemetery Co. offices, at 1351 Wallack place northwest, early yesterday morning, thieves broke open the safe of the company and stole $130, police of the Eighth Precinct reported.

TWO CAPITAL MEN FINED IN RUM CASES

Upper Marlboro Court Finds Both Guilty and Exacts Stiff Penalties.

FOREST WARDEN NAMED

Two men arrested by Prince Georges County Police on the Southern Maryland pike on the same night yesterday pleaded guilty to charges of illegal possession of intoxicants in Upper Marlboro branch of Prince Georges County Police Court and were fined $200 each by Judge J. Chew Sheriff.

The men were arrested November 14 by County Policeman V. M. Nichols and Deputy Sheriff Harry Robinson after chases on the pike near Clinton. Benjamin Abrams, of Washington, was charged with possession of 336 quarts of alleged liquor. Ray Pierce, also of Washington, was charged with possession of 288 quarts.

Edward Briggs, of Allentown, charged with destroying private property and disorderly conduct, was fined $5 on the second charge, the first charge being dismissed. Briggs was charged with having broken up a pig pen and allowing the pigs of his neighbor, Mrs. Edward Graney, to escape, in the course of a neighborhood feud.

Lewis Pollard, colored, of Washington, was fined $50 on a charge of operating a motor vehicle equipped with a smoke screen. Effige Faggle, colored, Fairmont Heights, was fined $50 on a charge of illegal possession of intoxicants. Both men were arrested by Deputy Sheriff Daniel Jones, colored, of Fairmont Heights.

Announcement of the appointment as a forest warden of John William Augustine by Gov. Ritchie was made yesterday by District Forester Walter J. Quick, jr. Augustine, proprietor of Johnnie's Garage, at the fork of the Defense highway and the Landover road near Cheverly, will immediately begin recruiting a registered crew for fire fighting.

Federal Prohibition Agents Thompson and Young yesterday raided a still near Osborne's in the woods and arrested Buck Tucker, who is alleged to have been tending a still of 500-gallon capacity. A small quantity of alleged liquor was seized. The prisoner was placed in the county jail at Upper Malboro to await transportation to Baltimore. He is charged with violation of the national prohibition act.

A card party will be held tonight in Gibbon's Hall, Upper Marlboro, under the auspices of the Immaculate Heart Council, Knights of Columbus.

The Camp Spring W. C. T. U. will meet this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. C. C. Wilcox. A special mothers' day meeting is scheduled.

New Pastor to Deliver His First Sermon Here

The Rev. Henry W. Snyder, of Johnstown, Pa., the new pastor of St. Paul's English Lutheran Church, will preach his first sermon at the church tomorrow morning. Dr. Snyder will also preach special sermons on Thanksgiving Day at joint services of St. Paul's Lutheran Church and the Memorial Lutheran Church.

Dr. Snyder is well known as a Lutheran minister. He succeeds the Rev. John T. Huddle, and the Rev. W. C. Waltemyer, copastors of St. Paul's, who resigned last summer. The services tomorrow will be in general charge of the church council.

Unidentified Attacker Severely Wounds Man

Attacked by an unidentified colored man as he was taking his car from a garage early yesterday morning, Joe Sapienza, 50 years old, of 1213 Shepherd street northwest, was severely wounded.

He was taken to Emergency Hospital, where he was reported to be suffering from severe lacerations of the scalp. Sapienza was able to tell police and doctors that he was struck by a blunt instrument, and that the assailant was a colored man.

The attack occurred at the rear of Sapienza's home. Sapienza left the hospital last night, and will receive further treatment at his home.

PHYSICIANS ABANDON HOPE FOR GEORGES CLEMENCEAU

Deputy Georges Mandel, Clemenceau's right-hand man during the war, called at the house in the Rue Franklin, left a very sad man.

Pity of France Aroused.

"He is suffering torture," he said to newspapermen. "I fear the end is not far off. He recognized me and tried to smile as he said 'Adieu,' then he became unconscious again."

Clemenceau's dying agony has roused the pity of all France. Any political ill-feeling left from the Tiger's tempestuous career seems to have vanished, and the eyes of his countrymen are fixed in complete sympathy on the modest ground-floor apartment of "Pere La Victoire" (Father Victory) in the Rue Franklin.

Clemenceau's apartment looks out over a pleasant garden that is connected with the garden of a private school directed by the jesuits. The Tiger liked to bask in the sun in sun in this garden. It hangs over the Boulevard Delessart, which runs behind the Clemenceau home and on a lower level.

Church Gives Aid.

Through this important boulevard, the traffic of the metropolis ebbed and flowed this evening, while above it and behind the high garden wall one of the great figures of modern history seemed to be losing his fight with death.

Clemenceau is not a church-goer, but the church gave him spiritual as well as physical comfort through Sister Theoneste, who nursed him through the night. Another sister paid a brief visit to the sick chamber today after Clemenceau had a short interview with his lawyer.

Almost the only ray of optimism came from Dr. Raiga, nephew of Clemenceau, who said on leaving at 10:40 p. m. that his uncle then was resting more quietly and had recovered consciousness. There had been a slight improvement in the uremia, but his condition was still most grave.

M. Mandel when he left the Clemenceau home went to Premier Andre Tardieu with whom he conferred privately for a few minutes. The premier then told intimate friends that the situation appeared desperate with Clemenceau at a crisis from the uremia.

By a coincidence while Clemenceau was reported nera death, Joseph Caillaux, former premier whom the Tiger had sent to jail under high court charges of commerce with the enemy, underwent a nasal operation. This was said to have been successful and he hoped to leave the clinic tomorrow.

Postal Employe Sues In Elevator Accident

George F. Howell, of 1425 Pennsylvania avenue southeast, an employe of the Government postoffice, yesterday filed suit in District Supreme Court against the Washington Terminal Co. seeking $20,000 damages for alleged personal injuries said to have been suffered in an elevator accident.

Howell, through Attorneys Burkart and Quinn, tells the court that on November 23, 1926 he was pulling a mail truck on an elevator at the terminal station when the lift started upward, causing the handle of the truck to injure him. He alleges that under contract with the Government the terminal company was obliged to keep the elevators in good working order.

ATTACKS ON MACDONALD.

Prime Minister MacDonald, who assured his American audiences that he was the authorized spokesman for all parties in Great Britain, has unexpectedly been made the target for attack by the Conservatives, and the extent and bitterness of this attack may have a disturbing effect on those who have relied upon the Labor leader's ability to swing the British nation in support of his naval program.

Late dispatches from London are far from reassuring. As Mr. MacDonald is the self-appointed leader of a new British policy and is the chief sponsor for the idea of an alliance with America to enforce the Kellogg peace pact, any weakening of his prestige in Great Britain may have a profound effect on the MacDonald program which includes the naval conference in January.

On the strength of Mr. MacDonald's own assurances, it has been assumed here that the Conservatives in Great Britain could be relied upon to support his American policy as well as his international aims. It was for the purpose of making this support doubly sure that Mr. MacDonald requested the British correspondents to intimate that he had been successful in making the British viewpoint prevail during his conferences with President Hoover. It was also because of possible opposition at home that Mr. MacDonald sought to convey the idea to his own people that he had reached agreement with Mr. Hoover along the lines of an Anglo-American alliance in the interest of world peace.

When the British people learned that Mr. MacDonald's ambiguous statements warranted no assumption of an alliance with America, there was a period of uneasiness over the attitude of the Conservatives. Reports from London now indicate a break between the Conservative leaders and Mr. MacDonald.

These reports show that 4,000 Conservative delegates voted on one phase of Mr. MacDonald's international policy and that 3,999 of them were against the MacDonald plan. The protest vote was against the resumption of diplomatic relations with Russia.

Referring directly to Mr. MacDonald's American program, the Conservative spokesman referred to him as "very vain and king of the quacks." The Conservative speaker then announced that the Conservatives were "fed up with MacDonald and his bleating about peace and parity with America."

The opposition appears to have gathered far more momentum than was anticipated, for Mr. MacDonald is held responsible for the "loss of Egypt," and is charged with weakening Britain's hold upon India. Conservatives asserted that "his socialistic policy had brought Britain into contact with an unclean moral leper and degraded and debauched British standards by establishing diplomatic relations with the outlaw Russia."

MacDonald has weathered many storms since he proved his pacifism by opposing his country's entrance into the World War. But the determined opposition to his policies now is a very serious matter, as he is dependent upon Conservative and Liberal support for his continuance in office. The rising opposition in Britain against naval parity with the United States is apparently due to the discovery that Mr. MacDonald's visit to the United States did not result in an Anglo-American alliance, as was supposed.

WHAT COOLIDGE THINKS.

As a result of the Nation-wide criticism of the breakdown of the Senate, a senator attempted to vindicate that body by quoting the following from the autobiography of former President Coolidge:

> Presiding over the Senate was fascinating to me. That branch of the Congress has its own methods and traditions which may strike the outsider as peculiar, but more familiarity with them would disclose that they are only what long experience has demonstrated to be the best methods of conducting its business.
> It may seem that debate is endless, but there is scarcely a time when it is not informing; and, after all, the power to compel due consideration is the distinguishing mark of a deliberative body. If the Senate is anything, it is a great deliberative body, and if it is to remain a safeguard of liberty it must remain a deliberative body.
> I was entertained and instructed by the debates. However it may appear in the country, no one can become familiar with the inside workings of the Senate without having a great respect for it. The country is safe in its hands.

The senator, however, neglected to read this vital portion of Mr. Coolidge's opinion of the Senate as now constituted:

> Because of the great power each senator is permitted to exercise—which is often a veto power, making one senator a majority of the 96 senators—great care should be exercised by the States in their choice of senators. Nothing is more dangerous to good government than great power in improper hands. If the Senate has any weakness it is because the people have sent to that body men lacking the necessary ability and character to perform the proper functions. But this is not the fault of the Senate. It can not choose its own members but has to work with what is sent to it. The fault lies back in the citizenship of the States. If the Senate does not function properly the blame is chiefly on them.

THE SEVENTH STREET TRAGEDY.

Washington's principal reaction to the disastrous explosion on Seventh street has been one of sympathy for the victims and the bereaved. The disaster is one of the most serious that the city has experienced in recent years, and it can not be dismissed with mere expressions of condolence. The public is alarmed that such a tragedy could occur to innocent victims who supposed themselves perfectly safe in walking down the sidewalk.

A number of investigations into the causes of the explosion are under way. A preliminary report by Assistant Engineer Commissioner Davidson suggests that it was caused by the explosion of a boiler. The violence of the blast is traced to the confinement of the boiler in a vault under the sidewalk. The risk of locating boilers of any kind under sidewalks was recognized and made unlawful in 1925, but the statute was not made retroactive, and boilers previously so located are within the law.

It is unfortunate that little attention is given to matters of this kind until a serious accident occurs. The sidewalks are public property designed for the safe transit of pedestrians. No menace of any kind should be allowed to encroach on their safety. Whether or not any law was violated in the present instance, every phase of the disaster should be investigated. It may be necessary to revise the law, as well as the regulations for low-pressure boilers to make safety more secure. The public should be reassured that the tragedy will not be repeated.

POOR SPORTSMANSHIP.

The recent Carnegie report on scholastic athletics not only decried professionalism and its attendant evils but also deplored the stress that has come to be placed on winning. Young men in colleges, and boys in high or preparatory schools, it said, obtain an entirely erroneous conception of sportsmanship because of the insistence of their coaches and their followers that the game must be won at any cost. Frequently, dishonesty and trickery are condoned if a victory is obtained thereby. Although the report was considered almost entirely in connection with its attack on professionalism, the chapters dealing with bad sportsmanship were of equal importance.

In a football game played Tuesday afternoon between a local high and preparatory school, the coach of the high school team, objecting to penalties inflicted by the referee, called his players from the field and refused to continue the game. What kind of sportsmanship was that? Whether or not the penalties were justified is of no importance; good sportsmanship called for finishing the game and protesting, if necessary, afterward.

It is, of course, stimulating to win. No one likes to lose. But when a team enters upon play it binds itself to abide by the rules of the game and to bow before the judgment and rulings of the officials. If luck breaks badly, or if, by rare chance, unwarranted penalties are inflicted, the team that is well grounded in the attributes of true sportsmanship fights doggedly on, hoping to wrest victory in spite of the unfair odds. If that team loses, its uphill fight becomes the more glorious. If it wins its victory is the more impressive. If it refuses to continue play it is tagged with the inglorious title of "quitter," which is very hard to remove, even when individual members of the team are anything but quitters.

INCOMPETENT DRIVERS.

The Pennsylvania State highway patrol has found that 27 per cent of all applicants for drivers' licenses are incompetent to handle an automobile with the required degree of safety. This means that if that State had no law requiring drivers to obtain licenses, approximately 75,000 unfit drivers would be operating motor vehicles on the highways. A high accident rate could be expected under such conditions.

In Washington approximately 28 per cent of the applications for drivers' licenses filed last year were disapproved. This does not mean that more than one-fourth of all persons applying are denied the privilege of driving an automobile, but that all drivers are forced to qualify as such. Most of those whose applications were denied renewed their study of traffic rules and driving technique and were then able to pass the examination. But had driving without license been permitted, many would have remained incompetent.

The close connection between inexperienced drivers and accidents is obvious. The foremost causes of accidents in Washington for which motorists are responsible are reckless driving, failure to give right of way, turning in the street and skidding, all of which may be attributed largely to incompetence of drivers.

The experience of the District and Pennsylvania suggests that there are several million incompetent drivers operating automobiles on highways of the United States. Only a few of the States, including New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Delaware, Connecticut, New Jersey, Maryland, New Hampshire, Vermont, Wisconsin, California and Oregon, besides the District, have enacted drivers' license laws. Inexperienced drivers in the great majority of States are a serious menace. Even persons whose licenses are revoked for serious offenses can move into the non-licensing States and continue driving. The astonishing prevalence of incompetence revealed in the States where license laws are in effect should stimulate the less progressive regions to action.

NOT TOO HASTY, CHINA.

The date set by the Chinese Nationalist government for termination of extraterritoriality will probably find that country still engaged in widespread civil war. For several weeks the government troops have been fighting with the so-called people's army, without decisive results. It is not conceivable that order could be restored before January 1, yet the government has affirmed its intention to abolish all immunity from Chinese law on that date.

Dispatches indicate that the rebellious Kuominchun forces are advancing toward Hankow, and loss of that important city is feared. Canton has asked for reinforcements against a new attack launched by the forces of Marshal Feng. It is reported that President Chiang Kai-shek has removed his headquarters from Nanking to Chengchow. A rigid censorship maintained by the government makes it difficult to learn details of the military movements, but the position of the Nationalists appears to be grave.

In view of the circumstances there is no reason in pressing for abolition of extraterritoriality at this time. No doubt the announcement of C. T. Wang, minister of foreign affairs, that the judicial rights which other nations have acquired in China would not be respected after the first of the year was intended to put a bold face on the Nationalist cause. It is not likely that an administration beset on every side with rebellion will make a bid for international trouble.

As long as China is in such an unsettled condition the nations can not safely relinquish the right to protect their nationals. The United States has demonstrated a friendly spirit toward the Nationalists and toward the Chinese unification movement. The State Department recently agreed to make arrangements for gradual withdrawal of extraterritorial rights as stability is restored. If the Nationalists attempt to terminate the existing treaties without consent of the nations concerned, all the confidence they have gained will be lost and China will take another step backward toward anarchy and political chaos.

THE SENSITIVE PLANT

From the New York Times.

Since the majority of the Senate in the special session has been more eager to make "campaign material" for 1930 than to make a tariff, it is natural that an exasperation of temper, in part due to growing physical weariness, in part to political excitement, has been shown from time to time. Some manifestations of sensitiveness are surprising, even when full allowance for circumstances has been made. The Caraway committee has called to Washington a New York banker who ventured to blame the course of the coalitionists in regard to the tariff bill. With the correctness or incorrectness of his opinions we are not concerned, but we had supposed that it was the right of any citizen, even a banker, or a protected manufacturer, to utter his views about public questions, nor were we aware that there was any such offense as lese-majeste of the Senate.

The culprit wasn't trying to influence Congress, or he wouldn't have censured the Senate. Was he trying to influence public opinion? Either offense, if not coincident with the purposes of the coalition, makes the offender a sinister lobbyist. If a manufacturer wants higher rates and sets forth his case or has it set forth, he is that infamous character. The farmers and the farm associations make their demands. These come through a hundred channels. The Congressional Record sags with them. The Senate grants them with enthusiasm. The farmers are sacred characters, pleading for emancipation and justice. Though they have the most powerful of lobbies, they are not lobbyists. For the Senate's delicate sensitiveness is accompanied with a larger zone of insensitiveness.

In a newspaper article a man made certain statements about business and finance and Congress. He even asked it to adjourn, which it is about to do. Whereupon certain senators manufactured what Lord Bryce called "mere rhetorical thunder addressed to the nation outside." That is harmless, but notice again how the august augurs flare up at the slightest stricture on themselves and criticize their critic intemperately and indecently. According to Senator Borah, this unfortunate is "the venal slave of the interests." His statements are "mendacious." He is willing to "prostitute his intellect for certain purposes," and so on. Protected by his constitutional guarantee from being questioned "for any speech or debate," Mr. Borah can insult and libel with impunity. The practice is too common in the Senate. It is one to which a man of Mr. Borah's caliber should be too magnanimous to descend.

It should be humiliating for senators to reflect that these immune discharges of abuse are innocuous. A man would have to be a proved and notorious rascal before the country would take seriously the privileged billingsgate of Congress. But statesmen so susceptible to affront ought not to be so quick to give affront. After the recess, let us hope that the Senate's just sense of self-importance will be less often diverted into making itself ridiculous.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

WISDOM.

At twenty I was quick to sneer,
There seemed so much of folly here.
I frequently remarked: "How come
That older folks can be so dumb?"

At twenty-five I'd suffered pain,
I'd lost a goal I'd planned to gain,
But though I'd ridden to a fall
I still believed I knew it all.

At thirty I had come to see
This life was really puzzling me.
Instead of "Absolutely so!"
I sometimes answered: "I don't know."

At forty, and no longer young,
I'd almost learned to hold my tongue,
And strange opinions I could hear
Without responding with a sneer.

Now at a gentler pace I go,
I've found that wisdom's growth is slow;
It's taken years for light to come,
I've learned why old folks seem so dumb.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY Dear Louise:

This morning some trifle displeased you. Instead of dismissing it from your mind as a matter of no consequence, you kept on thinking about it and began to look for other displeasing things in the hope of finding enough to justify a grouch.

Evidently you succeeded, for thirty minutes later, when I called cheerfully through a closed door—being wholly unaware of your mental state—you answered in a tone of voice that said: "Well, darn it, what do you want?"

Right then you needed spanking. Instead you got a gentle rebuke that made you feel ashamed, and then your customary good nature and common sense reasserted themselves and the sun came out again.

It was a trivial incident, but I want to analyze the cause of it for the good of your soul.

There is a contrary streak in most of us that makes us want to be what we aren't. The fat wish to be lean and the thin fat; the young wish to be old and the old young; the poor long for riches and the rich talk about the blessings of poverty. And, incredible as it seems to anybody of sound mind, while the miserable are longing to be happy, the happy often enjoy making themselves miserable.

Perhaps the explanation is that they are bored by want of variety. But whatever the cause, they do deliberately magnify trifles and manufacture imaginary grievances to work up an abused feeling and generate a grouch.

They say the gorilla beats itself on the chest to work up a rage. I don't know how true that is, but I do know that such monkey business has that kind of result.

Because certain emotions prompt us to act in certain ways, we can "go through the motions" and generate the feeling that naturally causes them. Thus a little girl can pretend to weep until she weeps in fact, and a man can strike blows in play and quickly develop anger.

That's the way we humans function, and that's the reason you can pretend to be vexed or abused and develop a feeling of resentment that will endure long after the cause is forgotten.

Most everybody does it more or less, but it's a dangerous business. It develops the habit of insincerity, and the first thing you know you are play-acting half the time and couldn't tell to save your neck whether you really are mad or just kidding yourself.

Don't do it, Honey. When you find yourself acting or speaking like a bear with a sore head, look in the mirror and say to yourself. "Am I really consumed with wrath and a desire to bite nails, or have I 'put on' until I've got myself fooled?"

Fooling other people is low-down, but anybody who gets the habit of fooling himself is a goner. Love,

DAD.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Another Absurd Twist to the Prohibition Muddle—Can't Put Everybody in Jail.

To the Editor of the Post—Sir: Judge Louis Fitzhenry of the Federal Court at Peoria, Ill., has handed down a decision to the effect that any person who sees liquor in the possession of another is a felon if he does not report that violation of the law. "Any person who buys a drink of liquor from a bootlegger and does not make a report of the matter to authorities," he says, "has committed a felony, and is equally guilty with the person making the sale."

This decision is a result of linking the Jones law, which makes manufacture, sale and possession of liquor a felony, with a statute passed in 1790, making one who witnesses a major crime a felon if he does not report it. It appears that there is no question as to the technical correctness of Judge Fitzhenry's reasoning. But any attempt to make practical application of the ruling in enforcement of the prohibition law would be absurd. The law making negligent witnesses felons was enacted while the infant Nation was struggling against sedition and serious crimes. It has no relation to the present day when Congress, in its wisdom, has classed possession of intoxicants alongside of murder, robbery and assault in the category of crime.

Evidently Congress did not realize that in passing the Jones law it was making thousands if not millions of American citizens felons. There is little danger, however, that any attempt will be made to prosecute this new class of criminals. In the first place, there is no practical way of bringing about such prosecutions, and in the second place, who would be left to put all the American people in jail?

There is a close analogy between the situation created by this decision and the situation which would result from enactment of Senator Sheppard's bill to make the purchaser of liquor amenable to the law. James J. Britt, chief counsel for the Prohibition Bureau, expresses opinion that the Government will never try to enforce the moral obligation of citizens to report infractions of the dry law. The 1790 statute is a dead letter so far as prohibition is concerned. The Sheppard bill, if enacted, would become likewise a dead letter as soon as it was proved inoperative.

Coming at a time when the Government is trying to get away from hip-slapping and petty snooping to a more comprehensive program against importation and wholesale manufacture of liquor, these attempts to make felons out of all the people are most unfortunate.

C. P. JONES.

Senators Acted Like Schoolboys and Not Like $10,000 Men in Handling the Tariff.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Post's editorial headed, "The People Betrayed," in Thursday's issue, should be issued in pamphlet form and a copy laid on each congressman's desk when they begin the regular session, December 2. This would be "lobbying" of a beneficial nature.

I never knew you were such a good "knocker" when knocking was actually needed.

The President called the extra session for needed legislation, but in this direction the Senate got nowhere and acted more like a body of schoolboys than national legislators, notwithstanding their recent raise in pay to $10,000. They surely didn't act like $10,000 men in handling the tariff. They disappointed the executive head of their Nation, who wanted something done, and voters would be justified in filling their places with persons more capable of transacting the public business for State and Nation in a businesslike manner.

That such a fearless paper as The Post is needed in the Nation's Capital seems to be the opinion of the metropolitan dailies which quote it.

What the farmers and business people think of them (the senators) should be conclusively shown when election time rolls around.

They are simply putting the country "on the hog."

H. T. McCONVEY.

Senators Who Talk of "Poor Taxpayer" Were Unit in Voting for Mileage Grab.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: More power to the hand that wrote the editorial in this morning's Post entitled "People Betrayed." It was all right.

Why would it not be a good thing to include in your great paper the cost to the taxpayer for travel expenses incurred in the adjournment? Not only the Senate, but also the House, will have to be paid. I have taken your valuable paper for over 25 years and am proud of the stand you have always taken in enlightening the people as to the questions of the day. The senators mostly holding themselves in the public eyes as looking after the "poor taxpayers" were a unit in voting for the traveling grab.

A Story of a Capitol Chaplain's Prayers.

To the Editor of the Post—Sir: Please excuse the liberty I take, but I can not resist offering you my personal thanks and gratitude for your splendid editorials, which so ably express my pent-up feelings. All honor to a man who not only has brains and an honest point of view, but can see through a foolishness and trickery, and is not afraid to denounce it.

A man took his small boy to show him the Capitol. After hearing the opening prayer by the Chaplain the boy said, "Father, what did he pray for all those men for?" "My son, he did not pray for those men. He looked them all over, and then he prayed for the country."

STIMSON COLLECTS DATA ON U. S. NAVY

AIDS MUST BE CHOSEN

(Associated Press.)

Collection of data concerning the American Navy for use by the United States delegation to the naval conference in London was one of the tasks taken up yesterday by Secretary Stimson as he turned to the host of details to be worked out before the delegation sails.

The information, which must be accumulated in addition to that already furnished the British, Japanese, French and Italian governments, covers so wide a range that Stimson probably will not finish the task before the delegation sails in January.

Among the other details to be worked out is the selection of the staff of subordinate officers to accompany the delegation. J. Theodore Marriner, chief of the Western European division, is looked upon by his department colleagues as the probable selection as secretary to the delegation, and Michael McDermott, chief of the division of current information, as liaison officer with the press.

Others considered likely to go with the delegation are Joseph W. Ballentine, an assistant in the Far Eastern division, as adviser on matters relating to the Japanese delegation; David A. Salmon, chief of the division of indices and archives, to handle communications, and William H. Beck, assistant to the Secretary, for personal work.

Fog Halts World Flier After 17,000 Mile Trip

Berlin, Nov. 23 (Saturday) (A. P.). After most of the 2,000 guests who had assembled in the largest public hall in the city to welcome him had dispersed early today, Baron Friedrich C. Von Koenig Warthausner, "The Flying Baron," completed his 17,000-mile air trip over Europe, Asia and America.

He was given a hearty welcome by the loyal few who remained, and gave a short account of his ill luck in encountering a dense fog on the last lap of his trip between Bremen and Berlin.

Russell Sage Director To Make Crime Study

(Associated Press.)

Miss Mary Van Kleeck, director of industrial studies for the Russell Sage Foundation, was chosen yesterday by the law enforcement commission to investigate the relation of inadequate housing to the increase of crime in large communities.

In making the announcement, the commission said if the facts proved the connection between crime and housing congestion, there doubtless would be a speeding up of housing construction in a number of cities.

Thanksgiving Bird Is Sent to Hoover

California Contributes 35-Pound Turkey to President.

(Associated Press.)

A 35-pound turkey is waiting at the White House to grace the Thanksgiving Day dinner table of President Hoover.

The sturdy bird, first to arrive of the gobblers that annually are sent to the Chief Executive, was the gift of P. A. Bryant, of Stockton, Calif., and White House attaches immediately pronounced it fit to tempt the Presidential palate.

In the same express wagon which delivered the turkey, came two hunting dogs. They were sent to George Akerson, secretary to the President, by Harvey Couch, of Pine Bluff, Ark., and were turned over to Lawrence Richey, another of the President's secretaries, for use in coon hunting in the regions around the Hoover Rapidan River camp.

Railroad Y.M.C.A. Asks For National Assembly

Formation of a national "railroad assembly" was urged at the closing session of the eighteenth triennial conference of the Railroad Young Men's Christian Associations of North America yesterday in the Hotel Mayflower. Resolutions were adopted by the several hundred delegates favoring a new forum body that will function continuously, instead of the present triennial conferrence.

It is intended that the "railroad assembly" would embrace all of the nearly 200 branches of the Railroad Y. M. C. A. movement. This organization was created to provide the recreational, housing and spiritual program of the "Y" for railroad men away from home in the various transportation centers.

Clubman Sentenced For Attack on Girl

Los Angeles, Calif., Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Clayton C. Stafford, wealthy clubman and grain dealer of El Monte, was sentenced to San Quentin Prison today for 1 to 50 years for an alleged criminal attack on his secretary, Miss Rae Schade, 21. Stafford's attorneys immediately gave oral notice of an appeal.

Testimony at the trial was that Stafford lured the girl to a lonely cabin in Turnbull Canyon and there attacked her. In his defense he claimed his arrest was a frame-up to force money from him, and that the girl willingly accepted his advances.

Gene Tunney and Wife Set Sail for Homeland

Naples, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Gene Tunney, former heavyweight boxing champion of the world, and his wife, the former Polly Lauder, sailed tonight on the steamship Vulcania for New York.

They have not been in the United States since their marriage in Rome on November 3, 1928.

Spanish Bacteriologist Dies.

Barcelona, Spain, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Dr. Jaime Ferran, well-known Spanish bacteriologist, died here today. He was 77.

Among Dr. Ferran's achievements was the development of an anti-cholera serum for which he received recognition from the Academy at Paris.

Three Lives Lost in Fire.

Winnipeg, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Fire that razed the home of John Johnson here early today took the lives of three members of his family. Five other persons were saved. The dead are Mrs. Florence Johnson, 60, Winnier Johnson, 24, her daughter, and Roy Johnson, 16, a son.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

THE Senate Young Turks should know before they go home crestfallen and with their heads hanging in defeat that one of the reasons they were greeted so derisively was because of that slogan, "We are for the President," or "We are the Hoover bloc."

It is not that Mr. Hoover has anything to do with it, of course, but what the Young Turks did not know is that those slogans, "I am a supporter of the President," have come to give full-grown men a pain in the neck.

They began to get unpopular about the time Senator Pess campaigned out in Ohio on the sole issue that he was "for the President," "that the President needs me."

* * * *

THOSE who observed the quiet Mr. Calvin Coolidge about that time were convinced that he did not need anybody or anything; that he was, indeed, content with the world. Least of all did he need Professor Pess.

Nevertheless, the phrase resounded over the Ohio hustings from one end of the State to the other: "The President needs me!" And the Ohioans must have thought that Mr. Coolidge was in dire straits because, sure enough, they sent Pess back.

But inasmuch as the House has devolved into a gigantic correspondence school where the members assure their constituents from day to day that they have been up to the Department of Agriculture to see about the constituent's seeds, and when every marriage or birth is the subject of a congratulatory note, there are senators and others hereabouts who think that body should be composed of senators, not mere supporters of anybody.

NOW take, for instance, Senators George H. Moses and David A Reed. No one will question their Republicanism or their administration regularity. But one never hears of them campaigning on the slogan, "The President needs me; send me back to Washington because I am a supporter of the President."

As Republicans they are part and parcel of the administration, not supporters of it, not supporters of the President.

No, the slogan, "supporters of the President," has come to be known as the slogan of distress, the slogan of those who can not stand on their own feet.

By that slogan they make known that they will never counsel with the President, that all they will ever do is to vote the way he wants them to. And, in return, they expect the President to have his picture taken with them, to come out to their States and let them stand on the rear platform of the train with him. It is something, of course, that a 10-year-old child could do.

* * * *

PESS got to be such a "supporter of the President" under Mr. Coolidge that he feared for a change of Presidents.

It would seem to be, unfortunate, too, that his new colleague, Senator McCullough, successor to the late Senator Burton, should come to the Senate with that slogan, "supporter of the President." There must be something about the Ohio air.

Why, there is the case of Henry Allen. He was even "appointed to support the President." Really, the expression gets on one's nerves. The Young Turks should know that.

CHINA IS HARASSED BY TRIPLE MENACE

Soviets, Civil War and Rebel Elements Are Threat to Nationalists.

(Associated Press.)

The Nationalist government of China, which grew out of the military movement of 1926, was contending yesterday against three great challenges to its continuance. Armed forces were attacking it along the Manchurian-Siberian border in the far north; civil war raged in central provinces, and in Kwangtung province, whence sprang the progenitors of the government, the City of Canton was threatened by a new combination of rebel forces.

Within the last few days airplanes of the Soviet government have bombed cities along the Chinese Eastern Railway at the border of Siberia, where Soviet artillery has destroyed stations of that railway for which Russia contends with China for possession and control.

The governor of the great area of Manchuria, Chang Hsuehliang, is reported to be seeking independent negotiations with the Soviet powers on the railway dispute, asserting that the Nationalist government is too occupied with civil war to conflict with Russian troops.

In central China the Kuominchun, translated, "people's army," is at grips with the Nationalist government troops in a civil war that threatens to spread from Hupeh and Honan provinces. In this area the forces engaged have been estimated from 150,000 to 250,000.

Far to the south the Kwangsi province rebels are reported engaged in a concerted movement with the "ironsides" regiment, which seceded from the government, and are advancing toward Canton in Kwangtung province.

Harassed by this new menace in south China, Chiang Kai-Shek, president of the Nationalist government and general in chief of its forces, has withdrawn a portion of his troops which have been fighting the rebellious Kuominchun in central China, in order to relieve the threatened Cantonese government.

Thus the Cantonese, who, led by Chiang Kai-Shek, began a march northward more than three years ago and subjugated all China to create a Nationalist government in which all elements should be unified, are now back fighting to maintain themselves in the province from which they sprang.

Khabarovsk, Siberia, U. S. S. R., Nov. 22 (A.P.).—The official Tass News Agency reported tonight that more than 8,000 Chinese soldiers and 300 officers had been captured and disarmed by Soviet forces in a series of vigorous counter attacks.

GOOD FUNERAL HELD IN IOWA BIRTHPLACE

IS BURIED NEAR PARENTS

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Nov. 22 (A.P.). James W. Good, late Secretary of War, sleeps tonight beneath a blanket of flowers on an Iowa hillside. He was buried this noon with military honors befitting his rank.

Hundreds of sorrowing Iowans, who had known "Jim" Good while he was a Cedar Rapids attorney, united with officials of the State, the Nation and the Army in according him a last tribute. As taps were sounded by the Fourteenth Cavalry bugler the cabinet officer was laid to rest beside his parents only a few miles from the farm on which he was born sixty-three years ago.

His grave is but a score of miles from the birthplace of President Hoover, West Branch, Iowa, whom Good served last year as Western campaign manager before the election and afterward as a counsellor and as Secretary of War.

Church Services Simple.

Although the ritual at the cemetery was essentially a military one, the funeral services at the First Presbyterian Church this morning consisted of simple words of comfort and eulogy by Dr. Robert Little, the pastor, and Dr. Harry Moorehouse Gage, president of Coe College, of which Good was a graduate and a trustee.

Before a high bank of floral tributes from old friends, Government dignitaries and foreign countries, they conducted the dignified service of the Presbyterian Church. Two soldiers, with bayonets fixed, stood at attention before the flag-draped coffin.

Mourning in the church were Mrs. Good, her two sons, James and Robert; her father, C. J. Deacon, and a score of other relatives. They were seated in front pews beside a delegation from Congress and the administration.

Crowds Stand in Cold.

Crowds which could not be accommodated in the church stood in the cold along the route of the funeral cortege. The caisson, on which the coffin rested, was drawn by six horses and escorted by an honor guard. At the head of the coffin lay the personal wreath from President and Mrs. Hoover, a circle of palms.

As the cortege passed scenes familiar to Good's younger life, flags were at half-staff, business houses were closed and the bell of the Immaculate Conception Church tolled.

indicted unless he entered into an agreement to have the liquor transported and thus become party to a conspiracy.

The Federal Court of Appeals for the Third District, passing on the judgment of a Pennsylvania district court, held that a mere purchaser can not be convicted either for the substantive act of purchase or for conspiracy to violate a Federal statute. This case is on its way to the Supreme Court, but is not considered in proper form for a test.

The Prohibition Bureau here holds that if a seller delivers a parcel of intoxicating liquor over the counter to a customer the purchaser is not guilty, but if there is a dicker, or trade, in which transportation is involved, then that becomes a conspiracy. That is the issue upon which enforcement agents would have the Supreme Court pass.

"We have a case now where a man contracted to sell a dozen cases and deliver them," said an enforcement officer. "We think that the buyer in this transaction conspired with the seller to transport his purchase, and in that way became a violator of the law. We are trying to have a straight question of conspiracy tested in the highest court."

Judge Fitzhenry, dry officers said yesterday, has brought forward an antiquated statute, when alien and sedition laws were necessary. It has not been enforced for 100 years, and he can not get anywhere with it now.

"Judges should stick to up-to-date laws if they would help us enforce prohibition," said an officer of the dry law bureau yesterday.

"Our attitude," said Dr. J. M. Doran, commissioner of prohibition, "is that we want all doubtful points of the dry laws cleared up. Only the Supreme Court can decide these questions."

Two Federal judges, Dawson, of Kentucky, and Reeves, of Kansas, asked grand juries to consider the purchaser as well as the seller. Dawson instructed them to indict purchasers if the evidence was strong enough. Judge Reeves did not urge indictment of buyers, but said they were as guilty as the trafficker.

These isolated opinions, formal or informal, will not control the Department of Justice or the Prohibition Bureau, but action of the Supreme Court will be awaited.

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Federal Judge Louis Fitzhenry today issued a statement to correct an opinion handed down yesterday which he said either by inadvertent use of a word or by misquotation, conveyed the impression that he held any person knowing of another's possession of liquor to be a felon.

In the opinion, upholding the constitutionality of the Jones law, Judge Fitzhenry had said that the buyer of liquor, or any one knowing of a violation of the Jones law, was, unless he reported his knowledge to the proper authorities, a felon. He based the opinion on a law passed in 1790 which made a felon of any person knowing of the commission of a felony without reporting it.

"I don't believe I said possession was a felony, but if I did it was incorrect," he said. "However, any person witnessing a violation of the Jones act without reporting it, would be a felon."

FUTURE WORK OUTLINED

eral pact for renunciation of war, in which he himself had collaborated with Foreign Minister Briand of France, Kellogg asserted there was an increasing world demand that the principal military and naval powers take further action toward the accomplishment of disarmament as an effort to maintain peace.

Hopes for Navy Cut.

"Therefore, I am hopeful that progress is going to be made by reduction of naval armaments and that it will be followed by restrictions in land armaments and that the world will be satisfied that the great powers demand and intend to maintain peace."

He stressed his belief that war between the United States and Great Britain was impossible and referred at length to the value of the recent visit by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald to the United States for conversations with President Hoover.

"Mr. MacDonald's reception, besides being a personal tribute to him, was a tribute to the government and people of the British Empire," Kellogg said. "It is my considered opinion that there are no serious unsettled problems between the two countries which can possibly be the basis of armed conflict."

Lauds World Court.

The creation of the world court was described as another evidence "of the growth of sentiment toward judicial settlement of disputes and maintenance of world peace."

"I am strongly in favor of the adoption of the so-called Root protocol for the admission of the United States as a member of this tribunal," he asserted, "and I am of the opinion that the sentiment of the United States is growing in favor of such action.

"We all have reason to be optimistic about the future. With the prospect that every nation in the world will pledge itself to the pact of Paris (the antiwar pact), with the extension of conciliation, arbitration and diplomatic settlement of international controversies, with the development of enlightened, tolerant spirit throughout the world, with the prospect of reduction in armament which is brighter today than ever—the hope of universal peace is nearer realization than ever before.

South American Peace Cited.

"In the Western hemisphere I can see no danger of war. I know of no countries of the world more devoted to the cause of peace, conciliation and arbitration than those in Central and South America. For 40 years international disputes, principally growing out of unsettled boundaries, have been adjusted by peaceful means alone. Those countries have made greater progress in treaties of conciliation and arbitration than any countries of the world."

United States Ambassador Charles G. Dawes sat on one side of Kellogg and on the other was Lord Desborough, now about to retire after 10 years as chairman of the society. Gen. Dawes smoked his underslung pipe reflectively throughout the address by the former Secretary of State.

Ranged around the great table for distinguished guests were the ambassadors and ministers of 26 countries while about 200 distinguished men of British public life and the American community in London filled the banquet hall.

Kellogg drew applause on a number of points, particularly when he declared vehemently that nagging on both sides of the Atlantic was but a ripple from the surface of the deep friendship between Great Britain and the United States. He was again applauded when he recalled that 63 nations had signed the antiwar pact.

Gen. Dawes voiced renewed hope for the outcome of the forthcoming five-power naval conference. He said that some displeasure existed because its program was not as comprehensive as many desired, but reminded his hearers that a program of disarmament step by step would create a permanent staircase toward permanent world peace.

Lord Robert Cecil, in introducing Kellogg, called the antiwar pact "a very great achievement." "We have deposed war," he said. "We must put something in its place. Justice must take the place of force."

UTILITIES CHARGED WITH BANK SUBSIDY

POWERFUL LOBBIES SEEN

Tuscumbia, Ala., Nov. 22 (A.P.).—The Public Ownership League of America today received additional reports of alleged activities of private power interests to monopolize the utility field.

R. E. McDonnell, engineer of Kansas City and os Angeles, said an instance had come to his attention of a large privately owned power company having subsidized hundreds of small banks through substantial deposits. These deposits are increased, McDonnell said, "by the power company redepositing all amounts that might be drawn out by customers of the banks making purchases of utility securities."

The banker thus favored, McDonnell continued, "has his deposits increased by any sales of utility securities and he at once becomes a potential factor in defending the private power company, its rates and policies as against the interest of the citizen at large."

McDonnell warned that the difficulties besetting publicly operated utilities are increasing because of "lobbies before the legislatures, more powerful lobbies before Congress, newspapers owned or controlled by subsidized bankers, and high-powered salesmen securing the country to defeat municipal bond issues for needed extensions which they followed up with flattering offers to purchase the utility."

"The power interests have adopted as their slogan: 'Get control of every light and power company in America'," McDonnell, said. "The obvious purpose being to reap the huge profits to be obtained from the sale of electricity."

He advocated public ownership of water companies as a means of lowering the mortality rate through control of typhoid. He pointed out that thirty years ago the average death rate per 100,000 from typhoid was 31.5. The rate now, he continued, is 1.5 per 100,000, an improvement which he attributed largely to municipally owned water works with their advanced methods of water purification.

The League today went on record as urging Government operation of Muscle Shoals. Members were pledged to promote the movement through contact with Congressmen.

McCormick Ward Held Improving

Santa Barbara, Calif., Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Dr. Adolph Meyer, psychiatrist in chief, Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, took the stand today at the guardianship hearing of Stanley McCormick, incompetent multimillionaire, and testified the patient has shown marked improvement since 1926.

Dr. Meyer was called a as defense witness in a suit brought by Mrs. Katherine McCormick, the wife, to oust Mrs. Anita McCormick, Blaine and Harold F. McCormick, sister and brother of the patient, as guardians of her husband and custodian of his $50,000,000 estate.

The doctor was a consulting physician with McCormick under his care from 1906 to 1926. At that time he was released from the case and did not see McCormick until June, 1929, and again this week. He said McCormick is physically more active and his speech is almost normal. The wife contends the patient has not been getting the proper medical treatment.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Mourning Period Causes Shift of Daughter's Society Bow.

By JEAN ELIOT.

THE Minister of Hungary and Countess Szechenyi have postponed from Saturday, November 30, until Thursday, December 19, the tea at which their daughter, Countess Alice Szechenyi, is to have her formal presentation to society. The change has been made in deference to the period of official mourning for the late Secretary Good. The first intimation that Countess Alice was to be a debutante came when invitations to the tea were sent out. She is the second of the several daughters of Count and Countess Szechenyi.

Her elder sister Countess Cornelia Szechenyi, made her debut two years ago in a season which boasted a galaxy of important debutantes, including Miss Alice Davis, daughter of the Governor General of the Philippines, whose father was then Secretary of War; Miss Janet Newbold, now Mrs. Allan Ryan; Miss Louise Spencer, Miss Katherine Wilkins and a half dozen other equally prominent.

Early in December Countess Cornelia and Countess Alice Szechenyi will go to New York and on December 3 their grandmother, Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, will give a dinner in their honor. It will be remembered that the distinguished chatelaine of the Hungarian legation was Miss Gladys Vanderbilt before her marriage to Count Laszlo Szechenyi, now Hungary's Minister at Washington.

With Countess Alice Szechenyi we have a charming recruit to the group of foreign maids among Washington's debutantes this year. Two are to be presented today, Miss Lucia de Teasada-Guzman and Baroness Astrid Ungern-Sternberg. Capt. Enrique Prieto, Military Attache of the Cuban Embassy, and Senora de Prieto will give a tea dance at the Mayflower for Miss de Tessada-Guzman, daughter of Senora de Prieto. And Baroness Ungern-Sternberg will be presented by her uncle and aunt, Maj. and Mrs. Albert Myer, at a reception at their home in Cathedral avenue.

Two other charming buds had their official "coming out" yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Gillett Hill entertained at tea at her studio house in R street to introduce her goddaughter, Miss Jean Hay. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hay, of New York and San Diego, Calif., Miss Hay has a "Washington background" in that she is the niece of the late John Hay and a cousin of Mrs. James W. Wadsworth, jr.

Roses and chrysanthemums shading from yellow to rust color decorated the studio. The hostess wore a gown of orchid velvet with draperies of shaded net and Miss Hay's gown was of chiffon and lace in the new French nude shade. She wore green slippers and carried an armful of copa de ora roses.

Senora de Tellez presided at the tea table for part of the afternoon, relieved by Mrs. Robert E. Lee, Mrs. William Wheatley, Mrs. McClure Kelley and Mrs. Karl Gartner.

Miss Katherine Dawson, of San Diego, who recently made a trip around the world with Miss Hay and who is the guest of Mrs. Hill, was at the punch bowl. The other girls assisting were Miss Jocelyn Hibbard, Miss Clara Bolling, Baroness Astrid Ungern-Sternberg, Miss Mary Ruden, Miss Mary Bradley, Miss Vittoria Catalani, Miss Junia Culbertson, Miss Mildred Huston, Miss Betty Thorpe, Miss Lucia de Tessada-Guzman, Miss Engracia Freyer, Miss Elvira Johnson and Miss Margaretta Wright.

Commander and Mrs. Walter P. Jacobs, who have recently come to Washington for station, presented their daughter, Miss Mary Jacobs, at a tea yesterday afternoon at their home in Cleveland Park.

Two of Miss Jacobs' friends who were buds of last season, Miss Charlotte Harwood and Miss Polly Howard, came from Baltimore for the debut. Mrs. Jacobs had chosen a gown of black chiffon and her daughter wore blue chiffon fashioned on long, simple lines and carried roses and orchids.

Assisting at the tea were Mrs. John Beresford Waller, Mrs. Robert P. Molten, Mrs. William Callender Stiles, Mrs. Augustus Long, Mrs. H. G. S. Wallace and Miss Mary Ingraham Henry, one of the season's debutantes.

Debutante festivities are coming thick and fast. Tomorrow Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman will entertain informally at tea for Miss Margaretta Bayard Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Price Wright, who is one of Miss Laura Tuckerman's special friends. Miss Wright will have her formal presentation on Wednesday next when Mrs. Wright will give a tea in her honor at her residence, 1612 Twenty-fourth Street. And that evening Miss Wright will be the honor guest at a theater party, followed by supper at Chantacler, for which her aunts, the Misses Bayard, of Philedelphia, will be hostesses. Mrs. Wright is also planning a series of smaller parties for her daughter, among them luncheons on December 1 and December 15 and a dinner on December 11.

Miss Engracia Freyer, who has just returned to town after spending the summer in Europe, will be introduced on December 10 at a tea to be given by her mother, Mrs. Frank B. Freyer at their house in Massachussetts Avenue. The hours will be from 4 to 7 o'clock.

The Ambassador of Cuba and Senora de Ferrara will have as guests over Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Cintas, of New York, who will arrive today. Col. Nicholas Cardenas and Senora de Cardenas, who have been visiting at the embassy since early this week will leave today for their home in Cuba.

The Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Charles Francis Adams will go to New York next Wednesday to stay over Thanksgiving with their daughter, Mrs. Henry S. Morgan. Mrs. Adams is at present in Boston.

Senator and Mrs. Guy Despard Goff will go to West Virginia for Thanksgiving to pass a few days. Mrs. Goff will not be at home on Thursdays until December.

Brigadier General and Mrs. T. Q. Ashburn will entertain at dinner before the first Bachelors' Cotillion on December 9 in compliment to two debutantes, Miss Mary Martha Wren and Miss Anne Virginia Ashburn. Others who will give dinners before the cotillion are Colonel and Mrs. Guy V. Henry, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Ridley McLean, Maj. and Mrs. Ennalls Waggaman and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Whitten.

Hunt Club Prepares Thanksgiving Party.

Officials and members of the Riding and Hunt Club are making arrangements for a hunt on Thanksgiving Day, the field to start at 10 a. m.

Mrs. Stimson, wife of the Secretary of State, will release the hounds at the hunt, which will be held today, starting at 3 o'clock from Mr. Cy Cumming's estate in Chevy Chase. Maj. W. M. Grimes is the new master of hounds for the club and the whips are Miss Winifred West and Mr. John Pinnerty.

Mrs. William J. LaVarre has returned from New York, where she was the guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Coudert Bellinger.

Capt. and Mrs. Allen Buchanan have as their guest for several days, Miss Louise Burke, of New York, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Ely Burke, for whom they entertained at dinner Thursday evening.

Date Changed By Committee For Navy Ball

Thanksgiving Fete Slated for January 2 at Willard.

Because of official mourning for the late Secretary Good, the Navy Relief Ball, which was to have been held on Thanksgiving night, has been postponed until January 2. It will be held at the Willard, as originally scheduled, and plans for a brilliant fete, with uniforms in evidence and typical Navy ceremonial, will be carried through.

Tickets and checks for boxes already issued will be honored on the new date, but subscribers wishing to make changes in their arrangements may do so through Mrs. Andrew Long, chairman of the box committee, or Mrs. William D. Leahy, in charge of tickets.

Senator and Mrs. Charles McNary have canceled the dinner they were to have given on December 14 for the Vice President because of the death of Secretary Good.

Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, chief of Cavalry, U. S. A., and Mrs. Crosby have postponed indefinitely their reception for Cavalry officers stationed in Washington and their wives. This hospitality, originally arranged for last Wednesday, was at first postponed for a week.

The newly appointed Ambassador to Italy, Mr. John W. Garrett, and Mrs. Garrett, who recently arrived in Rome, were received privately on Thursday by Queen Elena, who awaited them in the Quirinal Palace.

The welcome extended by Italy's queen was cordial to a degree as she recalled the residence in Rome of Mr. and Mrs. Garrett in 1908-11, when Mr. Garrett was First Secretary of the American Embassy. Congratulations were extended the queen on the forthcoming marriage of the Italian crown prince to Princess Marie Jose of Belgium.

Col. and Mrs. Osmun Latrobe have returned from their hunting lodge in Wyoming and have taken up residence at Stoneleigh Court. Col. and Mrs. Latrobe announce their withdrawal from all social activities until the first of the year.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Trowbridge sailed yesterday from New York for Panama and California. They will pass the winter on the Pacific Coast.

Mme. Bedoya Is Back From California.

Mme. Bedoya, wife of the Counselor of the Peruvian Embassy, Dr. Santiago Bedoya, will return today to their apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel after a visit to California.

Mrs. Stephen B. Elkins has returned to Washington and is occupying the apartment she maintained last season at the Mayflower.

Representative and Mrs. William R. Eaton left last night for Boston, where they will attend the Harvard-Yale football game this afternoon. They will return to their apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel on Monday.

Dr. Hubert Work, of Denver, Colo., arrived in Washington last night from New York and will be a guest at the Mayflower until the first of next week, when he will return to New York.

Baker-Barry Nuptials to Take Place Early in Next Year.

Mr. and Mrs. David S. Barry announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Cora Barry, to Lieut. Comdr. Wilder DuPuy Baker, U. S. N., son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac N. Baker, of Bay City, Mich.

The wedding will probably take place in January. Miss Barry has been popular in society since her debut and is a member of the Junior League.

Commander Baker is on duty in Washington in the Bureau of Naval Operations, Navy Department.

Invitations to subscribe to the Dancing Class, the selective group including Washington's "One Hundred" have been issued by the committee, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leiter, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Wilkins and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Benning Spencer. Three dances will be held at the Montgomery Country Club on December 21, January 11 and April 26. Members may bring guests from other cities, if requests for guest cards are made in writing in seasonable time, but no resident of Washington, not a member may be invited.

The Dancing Class has been a force in Washington society for many years. It had its birth at the Playhouse long ago and was revived a half dozen seasons back. Of late Mrs. Leiter has been the leader of the group. For several years the Dancing Class

This season you have a wide choice—the fitted model, the flared coat, the straightline model . . . it is a matter of finding the one which best suits your type and the one which is most flattering on you.

These two special groups are of fine broadcloth dress coats, in black or the new browns, blues, greens or tan shades, with luxurious collars and deep cuffs of caracul, wolf, badger, marmink, civet cat or skunk.

Sizes and models for juniors . . . misses and women . . . 13 to 17—14 to 20—and 34 to 52

Women's Dresses

If you are going to look smart this season, you simply must have some new frocks! And frocks just like these are what you want—crepes and chiffons and satins for informal wear, nets and chiffons and satins for dinner and evening wear. Long, flowing lines, dipping hems, new draperies, the daintiest of lingerie touches make them almost irresistible. In black, new browns, dahlia, greens, blues and the high shades.

Sizes 34 to 52—and models to suit every type!

Misses' Dresses

Fifth Ave. Fashions NEW YORK

By MARIE PAULETTE.

QUITE the newest idea of Paris is the sports frocks in red ostrich woolen I'm showing today. The youthful wearer has also chosen lizard shoes in matching shade. Her hat in off-the-brow line is of matching felt.

A suede belt is worn at slightly raised line. All the fullness is contrasted at front of skirt through kilted plaited inset in pointed outline at top. The neckline is exceptionally smart in Vionnet's collarless type, so suitable for all-day frock. A plaited jabot frill softens line of perfectly simple bodice. The long-fitted sleeves have a slight flare toward wrists. The back of dress is straight and slender.

It is easily made in a couple of hours with a few major parts to pattern, which means but a few seams to be joined. It comes in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

Style No. 8223, best of all, takes but 3¾ yards of 39-inch material to copy exactly for the woman of average figure. The saving is remarkable.

It is fetching in hunter's green wool jersey and needs no further trimming. All the smart young things are wearing it for college and sports. It is also appropriate for office and general wear.

Black wool jersey is very chic for more conservative women.

Covert cloth, rayon printed crepe, canton crepe, wool challis print, faille silk crepe, flat silk crepe and printed velvet will also make up attractively.

For a pattern of today's style, fill out coupon, writing very clearly, and be sure to state number and size of pattern. Send coupon, with 15 cents (stamps or coin), to Fashion Bureau, Washington Post, 259 Fifth avenue, New York City.

All our styles are created in Paris or New York. Every pattern contains full directions. No experience necessary. Very easy to use and guaranteed to fit perfectly.

forum luncheon at the Woman's National Democratic Club on Monday at 12:30 o'clock.

His subject will be "The British Labor Party's Foreign Policy." Mr. Wilson now lives in New York and is American correspondent for the London Daily Mail and contributes regularly to the New York Times. He has lectured frequently in the United States on subjects pertaining to Great Britain.

The club will entertain at dinner next Thursday evening in celebration of Thanksgiving Day.

Miss Edwards to Wed Mr. Francis K. Green.

Mrs. Charles Dickinson Edwards of Rahway, N. J. and 52 Gramercy Park North, New York, announce the engagement of her daughter, Charline, to Mr. Francis Kennedy Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bell Green, of New York, and nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Cox Sands of Middleburg, Va.

Miss Edwards attended the Comtesse de Broins School in Paris. She comes of distinguished colonial ancestry. William Coddington, colonial governor of Rhode Island, Samuel Marsh, one of the founders of New Haven in 1646, and Thomas Budd, author of the first book that came from William Bradford's printing press in Philadelphia in 1685, are among her forbears. She is also a collateral descendant of John Dickinson, distinguished statesman, a member of the Continental Congress and one of the framers of the Constitution.

Mr. Green is the descendant of Gen. Nathanael Greene. He is descended from Col. John Chew, who settled in Virginia near Jamestown in 1622; John Brown, who came over with Lord Baltimore and Lieut. Francis Bell, who was one of the founders of Stamford, Conn., in 1641. Mr. Green, is a graduate of Virginia Military Institute and Cornell University, class '21. He is a member of the University Club and the Kappa Alpha Fraternity. The wedding will take place in January.

Mrs. Burch and Daughters Depart for Europe.

Mrs. Preston Burch and Miss Peggy Burch sailed last night for Europe, where Mrs. Burch, who has been ill for some time, will visit the various spas of the continent. They expect to be absent about a year.

Dr. and Mrs. Macpherson Crichton entertained at dinner Thursday evening in honor of Senator and Mrs. Royal S. Copeland. Mrs. Copeland will return to New York shortly, coming to Washington later for the season.

Mrs. Clarence W. Grosner had as her guests at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton Mme. Samy Pasha, wife of the Egyptian Minister, and Mrs. Royal S. Copeland.

Miss Jean Woodson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Woodson, will have as her guest for Christmas week Miss Suzanne Faucette, of Asheville, N. C. Miss Faucette is a student at National Park Seminary.

Mrs. H. P. Howlett, of Rochester, N. Y., is at the Dodge Hotel with Mrs. H. W. Walsh, of University, Va.

Mrs. George Curtis Peck, wife of the U. S. Commercial Attache to Panama, entertained at luncheon on Thursday at the Carlton. Her guests included Senora de Chevalier, wife of the Secretary of the Panama Legation; Senora Maria Arias, Mrs. Dana Munro, Mrs. Roy W. Hebard, Mrs. Edward H. Conger, Mrs. Eric Tramél, Mrs. Maddin Summers and Mrs. George Bellinger, of Atlanta, Ga.

Thomas R. Jarmans Rejoice Over Son.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Jarman, of Eastern Blue Ridge Orchards, Crozet, Va., are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son, born on Tuesday, November 19, at the University Hospital in Charlottesville, Va. Mrs. Jarman was Miss Augusta Mills Firth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick William Firth, of New York.

Dr. Warfield Urges Hospital Clinics

New Buildings Needed at Freedmen's, Chief Surgeon Says.

Dr. W. A. Warfield, surgeon-in-chief of Freedmen's Hospital, disclosed yesterday through his annual report, published by the Department of the Interior, that the hospital has urgent need for two buildings, one for maternity service and another for clinical activities. The maternity service is now carried on under difficulties in a ward which was designed for general medical diseases. The report also sets forth a need for additional personnel, and urges promotion of employes who have records of merit.

There were 3,858 patients received during the year, of which number 1,105 were pay patients, as against 970 in 1928. There were 20,684 treated in the outdoor department, through its various clinics. Surgical operations numbered 1,725, while 4,680 emergency cases were treated.

Hospital policy has been shaped so as to afford the most liberal aid to the medical school of Howard University, making clinical facilities available to students and faculty. New and improved methods of clinical examination, extensive laboratory procedure, and special laboratory and clinical research are given as reasons for the enormous expansion of hospital activities during recent years.

'LIE DETECTOR' HELD TO REVEAL MURDER

ACCUSED DENIES STORY

Seattle, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Four persons and a machine recorded the confession of Decasto Earl Mayer that he killed James Eugene Bassett, former naval officer of Annapolis, who has been missing since September 5, 1928. Prosecutor Ewing D. Colvin announced today.

The machine was a "lie detector," a device which registers changes in blood pressure and respiration in response to emotional reaction. Colvin said the graphic record made by the indicators on the lie detector, under intensive questioning, had made Mayer despondent of keeping his secret any longer and that the prisoner made a definite and positive avowal of the crime in his presence.

Three other persons, Colvin said, who had been sent out of the room for the moment, listened to the confession with their ears to the doors. They were to make signed statements late today.

To newspapermen, Mayer scoffed at the prosecutor's announcement, denying that he had made any admissions and accusing county officials of torturing him. Mayer and his mother, Mrs. Mary E. Smith, are in the county jail here pending appeals on prison terms for grand larceny of Bassett's automobile.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Reports from Seattle that D. E. Mayer had confessed killing James E. Bassett, confirmed his father's "worst fears" as to the fate of his son, the father, State Librarian Frank P. Bassett, said today, although at the same time he expressed gratification at receiving some definite information to end the doubt which had remained for more than a year.

Bassett, who resigned his position as secretary of the Chamber of Commerce here after his son's disappearance in September, 1928, and spent six months on the Pacific coast trying to aid police find some trace of the young man, said he did not know whether he would go to Seattle again in view of the new developments.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Weather Bureau, Washington, Friday, Nov. 22—8 p. m.

Forecast—For the District of Columbia, snow Saturday; Sunday mostly cloudy, with slowly rising temperature, possibly rain or snow; moderate northeast or east winds.

For Maryland, snow Saturday; Sunday mostly cloudy, with slowly rising temperature, possibly rain or snow; increasing northeast winds.

For Virginia, snow in interior and snow or rain on the coast Saturday; Sunday mostly cloudy, with slowly rising temperature, possibly rain or snow; strong northeast winds and probably gales on the coast Saturday.

The northwestern disturbance has moved rapidly southeastward to the Red River of the North Valley, Moorhead, Minn., 29.68 inches and pressure remains low over the Hudson Bay region, Churchill, Man., 29.64 inches. A disturbance that developed over the middle Gulf of Mexico Thursday night is advancing northeastward with center off the northwest Florida Coast, Apalachicola, 29.92 inches. These disturbances have caused precipitation within the last 24 hours from Texas and the southern plains eastward to the Middle Atlantic and South Atlantic Coast and from the northern Rocky Mountain region eastward to Minnesota and Manitoba. The precipitation was in the form of snow, except in the Gulf and South Atlantic States. High pressure prevails from northern Alaska southeastward to the Plateau region. Kamloops, B. C., 30.38 inches and from Texas northeastward to Quebec and Nova Scotia, Albany, N. Y., 30.52 inches. The temperature has fallen in the Atlantic and east Gulf States, except Florida, but it has risen decidedly in Rocky Mountain region, the central and northern Plains States, and Minnesota. Freezing temperatures prevail tonight as far south as Tennessee, North Carolina, central Texas and northwestern Arkansas.

The Gulf disturbance will move northeastward and the northwestern disturbance will move east southeastward. As a result precipitation, mostly in the form of snow, except in the South Atlantic States, is indicated for practically the entire Washington forecast district within the next 24 to 36 hours. Precipitation in the Southeastern States will likely end by Sunday. Temperature will rise slowly in the Ohio Valley and the lower Lake region Saturday and in Tennessee and the Atlantic States, except Florida, during Sunday, but colder weather will again overspread the Ohio Valley and the lower Lake region by Sunday night.

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

It was confidently expected, of course, that the Tuesday item concerning the discontinuance of the Lowe-Publix stage shows at the Palace would inspire the customary number of contradictions, emanating from a wide variety of sources.

My latest intelligence is in the nature of a belated confirmation of a part of the original forecast pertaining to the matter made by Washington's most charming crystal gazer, Miss Jennings, whose story was that the Loew-Publix units would continue to function locally at the Rialto. It is strongly inkled by those presumably in the know that that is precisely what may happen, since the Rialto is reported to have been taken on the end of a Middle-West deal whereby Universal relinquished a considerable number of houses to Paramount-Famous-Lasky.

Assuming this to be correct, the plan now being kept secret is to rechristen the Rialto the Paramount Theater when actual physical transfer of the property is made. While the Publix stage units will be available for the house, unless concessions are made all around Paramount pictures will not be, owing to the complete absorption of that product by the Loew and Warner controlled Stanley-Crandall interests.

Grains of salt will be supplied upon formal application in writing!

The screen fare available for current consumption is as follows: Metropolitan, Harold Lloyd in his first talking film, "Welcome Danger," in which he is supported by Barbara Kent; Palace, Marion Davies in "Marianne," her first all-talkie; Rialto, Glenn Tryon and Merna Kennedy, in "Skinner Steps Out;" Earle, Douglas Fairbanks, jr., and Loretta Young, in "The Forward Pass;" Fox, Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell, in "Sunny Side Up," second week; Columbia, Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford, in "The Taming of the Shrew," second week; RKO-Keith's, Bebe Daniels and John Boles, in "Rio Rita," third week.

Mention of "Marianne" reminds me that a lively argument was recently waged in this office over a set of advance "stills" submitted for the beautification of tomorrow's motion picture section of The Post. In half of the photos Lawrence Gray seemed to be Miss Davies' leading man and in the other half Oscar Shaw apparently was serving in the same capacity, although his name did not appear in the printed cast.

Unwilling to publish Mr. Shaw as Mr. Gray, appeal was made to the M-G-M film exchange in an effort to determine what it was all about. It seems that Mr. Shaw is Miss Davies' chief support in the silent version of the picture and Mr. Gray in the all-talking version, to be presented here.

Mr. Rubin still insists that as far as he is concerned they are all Lawrence Gray.

And still speaking of "Marianne," Walter Scott Kolk, of this city, appears in the cast with Miss Davies. Mr. Kolk will be remembered by many as one of the most popular percussionists that ever rattled traps in a Washington night club orchestra. When playing the Lido, Venice, with a Meyer Davis band, he met Marion Davies, who took him into the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer fold, and there he is, big as life, in the role of Lieut. Frane.

The Imperial Male Quartet, comprised of W. Arthur McCoy, Ellsworth E. Compson, J. Benton Webb and Francis P. Hartsill, to be featured in the concert at the Earle tomorrow from 2 to 3 p. m., has long been a favorite organization in the Stanley-Crandall houses. It was a regular attraction with the old "Crandall Saturday Nighters," Washington's first permanent theater broadcasting unit taking the air through Station WRC, and also furnished the offstage music at the Metropolitan during the memorable run of "The Volga Boatman," during the action of which "The Song of the Volga Boatmen" was frequently introduced.

There gifted vocalists may be sure they will be among friends tomorrow afternoon.

I am reminded by a marked copy of Photoplay Magazine, of which Leonard Hall is managing editor and which I had already skimmed through, that Jimmy Quirk, the publisher, adds his voice to that of Arthur James and numerous others who have taken time out to flay Welford Beaton, publisher of the Film Spectator, for his many assaults on the motion picture industry and its people.

Mr. Beaton, it appears, is about to be hoist by his own petard, certain of the West Coast Producers having forbidden him the privilege of their studios and lots, thus cutting off not only his news sources in large measure, but also his source of advertising revenue.

It was Mr. Beaton, you will recall, who prophesied the sudden demise of the sound and dialogue screen come this February. He also has dethroned Will Hays at intervals of about fifteen minutes throughout the past several years. The consensus of opinion seems to be that Mr. Hays will still be there after Mr. Beaton has departed the industry.

There can be no question that America leads the world in the production of motion pictures, but it does not take UFA, biggest of the German film makers, to catch on. They are producing "The Chauffeur Prince" as a talking picture recorded in both German and English.

"City Lights," on which Charlie Chaplin has been working on and off—mostly off—for about a year, is half completed and is scheduled for release by United Artists in 1930, although not even an approximate date has been set. The picture will have sound effects and a synchronized score, but no dialogue.

And, in the delicate vernacular of the business, it will mop up.

By the way, I trust you were able to dig yourself out successfully this morning after the blizzard!

Visitors to Be Barred From Miracle Cemetery

Boston, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—William Cardinal O'Connell, of the Boston Archdiocese, announced today that the Holy Cross Cemetery at Malden would be closed to all but funerals beginning Monday. The cemetery has been visited by thousands during the past few weeks following reports of miraculous cures at the grave of the Rev. Patrick J. Power.

In a brief announcement the cardinal said the cemetery would be closed until a thorough investigation had been made into the situation. He added that he hoped the public would abstain from visiting the cemetery tomorrow and Sunday "so as to avoid the great inconvenience arising from such numerous crowds as have been gathering there lately, especially on Sundays and holy days."

Man Pulls 'Mail Box' Lever But Fire Engines Respond

William Josephus Hughes, 81, wanted to mail a letter yesterday and he summoned the Fire Department to aid him. The old gentlemen arrived Thursday night from Exeter, N. H., where every one has his own mail box. Early yesterday, he wrote a letter to his cronies and checker adversaries in the old village store, telling of his impressions and safe arrival in the city.

He looked in vain for a mail box. Finally he spied a red box at Eighth and Ingraham streets northwest. It wasn't like the mail boxes back home, but he guessed that it was one of these new-fangled contraptions. There was no slot for the mail. The visitor opined that it was one of these robot affairs that they had heard about "up to Exeter" and he pulled on a lever. Nothing appeared to take care of the letter.

He gave up in disgust and started his quest for another box. As he was going away, fire engines began to arrive at the scene.

Later the old gentlemen explained to Capt. C. P. Lord, of the Thirteenth Precinct, that he was sorry if he inconvenienced any one. "You can't keep up with these city fellers," he said. "Up to Exeter we get the fire brigade by hitting a hoop with a sledge hammer." Capt. Lord explained that there was no harm done. He permitted the man to go on his way and also had the gentleman's letter mailed. The visitor is stopping at the home of his son, Capt. Arthur D. Hughes, United States Army, at 812 Ingraham street northwest.

List of New Cardinals Delayed.

Vatican City, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Today's issue of Osservatore Romano appeared without the list of new cardinals whose publication in it had generally been expected. It was reported that official publication of the list may be delayed for some days.

"The CHIEF" . . . a splendid, virile style sewn together to serve, not thrown together to sell. It's the great coat you'll see these blustery days on men whose strides are long, and to the rhythm of heavy, clacking brogues. Whether seen at the games, entering the fuselage of a plane or the facade of your favorite club, you certainly will turn and say, "What a man!" We've tried it on and know its fit is perfect; that it hugs the shoulders snugly; that there's an abundance of room at the arm-pits; that the skirt is free and flowing. . . . It's to be had in single or double breasted models . . . in blue or oxford grey.

Cambridge Football on Air Today

Graham McNamee Will Broadcast Yale-Harvard Game — Wagner Dramatized at 8—Post Brevities at 8:15 A. M.

The football game between Yale and Harvard will be broadcast by the National Broadcasting Co., with Graham McNamee announcing, and by the Columbia Broadcasting System, with Ted Husing at the microphone. The game will be heard at 1:45 o'clock. The teams meet in the Harvard stadium at Cambridge.

The Middle West will share the radio picture with the East in the broadcast of the Ohio State-Illinois game over another NBC network, headed by WJZ. Bill Munday, the drawling Georgian, will begin a description of the scenes in the stadium at Columbus, Ohio, at 1:45 o'clock, also.

Walter Damrosch, dean of American conductors, selects the overture to "Mignon" to introduce the General Electric Symphony program to be broadcast at 9 o'clock. Gluck, Bizet, Beethoven and Strauss are other favorite composers to be heard in this program. Floyd Gibbons, war correspondent and author, will give another of his descriptive narratives on "Adventures in Science."

"Richard Wagner, the Composer," will be the subject of the broadcast to be heard from WRC at 8 o'clock. Unlike many dramatizations of the life of Wagner, this one will be done in a comedy vein. The music heard will include Wagnerian excerpts, as well as some music popular in Wagner's time.

An hour's entertainment will be broadcast by the Lucky Strike Orchestra, under the direction of B. A. Rolfe, at 10 o'clock. A suite of Russian waltzes and Argentine tango numbers will impart a difference to the radio hour of the Club Chantecler Orchestra at 11 o'clock from WRC. Arrangements of "I Love the Moon" and "I'll Kiss You in the Morning" will also be played.

Dr. Henry Hadley will conduct the Gulbransen Symphony Orchestra in one of his own compositions, the "Entrance of Montezuma," from the opera "Azora," at 9:30 o'clock. The program also includes one of Dr. Hadley's symphonic paraphrases, the subject being "Lover, Come Back to Me," from "The New Moon."

The Paramount-Publix Radio hour will be broadcast from WMAL at 10 o'clock, followed by the Swanee Syncopators. Selections from "Marianne," "Sunny Side Up," "Tiger Rag," "More Than You Know" and "Lonely Troubadour" will be heard, with Matt Walker singing "I'm a Dreamer."

Miss Mabel Boardman will be heard again at 7:15 o'clock, speaking from the studios of WMAL, on "The 1930 Red Cross Roll Call." Miss Boardman is director of volunteer service and secretary of the American Red Cross.

Walter T. Holt will provide a half hour from WOL at 6:10 o'clock, followed by Joan and Phyllis, a harmony team; Pauline Loria, blues singer, and Jeanette Leipziger, pianist. A two-hour dance program will be featured, beginning at 10 o'clock.

"Breakfast Brevities" from The Washington Post will again be one of the outstanding features during the morning program. The Family Market Basket will be presented at 9:30 o'clock, followed by a musical program and Mrs. Clifford A. Atkinson, speaker, for the District of Columbia Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Station WJSV will begin its evening broadcast with a dinner music presentation at 6:30 o'clock. All of the regular Saturday evening features are to be heard in their regular places, including Pa Brown and the Little Browns, the Catskill Trio and the Alexandria Humming Birds.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

ANOTHER example that things are not what they should be on the air was trying to pick up the "Old Ironside" broadcast at Boston. The nearest station to us carrying it was Station WJZ, whose transmitter is located at Bound Brook, N. J.

One would naturally think that this station, supposed to be one of the finest and up-to-date in the United States, being less than 200 miles away, using 30,000 watts power, or 60 times as much as either WRC or WMAL, and broadcasting on one of the so-called cleared channels ("so-called" was right in this case), would come into the Capital as clear as a bell.

To the contrary, reception, due to interference from other stations, was so bad that our set was turned off before the program was half over. Atmospheric conditions were good and there was very little fading. It is doubtful, however, if the channel was clear more than 40 per cent of the time. Not only could other stations be heard in the background, with cross-talk, and at one time some commercial code, but there were frequent heterodynes. Once there was a whistle of such volume that it could be heard across the street.

A COURTESY seldom accorded was the extension of the time by Station WRC of the Lord Bishop of Winchester, England, preaching in the Bethlehem Chapel of the Washington Cathedral on the subject of "Peace." As is well known, broadcasting stations operate on a railroad-like schedule, timed to the minute and second.

However, so eloquent was the lord bishop's sermon, the delivery of which the radio audience unfortunately had not been advised in advance, that he was allowed to continue on the air until the conclusion of his address. Moved by his presence in the chapel in which the former President is buried, the bishop's tribute to Woodrow Wilson was one which those listeners privileged to hear it will doubtless remember for many a day.

May Singhi Breen and Peter De Rose, who have been broadcasting together for the past six years, will be married December 9.

This is to remind listeners that Station WRC will present a two-hour musical program, beginning at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning as an additional Sunday feature. Heretofore the station has been silent on Sunday morning.

AS a peace offering, the London theater managers will send first night tickets to critics of the British Broadcasting Co. who have been panning their shows on the radio.

The managers over there have the right to bar radio comment by a reviewer not invited to the house and could recover for any comment so made detrimental to the interests of house or show. Under the English law a reviewer may not buy seats and then comment on the performance. If he is invited by the management, his comments are "privileged."

The members of the Washington Section of the Institute of Radio Engineers will meet on Monday night at the Continental Hotel. Following a dinner, Arthur E. Thiessen, of the General Radio Co., Cambridge, Mass., will read a paper on "The Accurate Testing of Audio-Amplifiers in Production."

READERS will be told tomorrow on the radio page of The Sunday Post the outcome of the balloting as to which voice a listener prefers to hear over the radio, that of a man or a woman. Just as interesting will be the accompanying comment which the participants have volunteered.

An idea of what this will be like is the following criticism received, and from a woman at that:

"Most women are too affected on the radio," the feminine contributor writes. "Their voices are too high and screechy when they sing. They give one the impression that cats are in the yard below. It is awful. I always shut the radio off when a woman starts."

Heard from Station KTNT, Muscatine, Iowa:

Druggist: "Do you want to take it home with you?"

Customer: "No, I think I'll send the rats in after it."

What Today Means to You

"SAGITTARIUS."

IF November 23 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 a. m. to 11 a. m., and from 5 p. m. to 7:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 7 a. m. to 8:45 a. m., and from 3:30 p. m. to 10 p. m.

This date will be crowded with events, many of which will prove to be of future importance. An excessive amount of travel is foreseen. New ventures and changes will be made under most auspicious influences.

Children born on this November 23 will have happy-go-lucky natures and will take life very much as they find it. They will have plenty of ability, but will be lacking in energy and sticktoitiveness. They will be inclined to lean upon others.

You possess personality and sincerity. You are not afraid to be perfectly frank and are not interested in trying to be other than yourself. You do not try to impress, to fool or to flatter. You have a positive, definite character, and you have no need to bother with small subterfuges and pretenses. You are interested in something outside of yourself—in life in general and in your work. The last thing you are interested in is, probably, the effect you make on others.

You have a knack of making friends wherever you go—they are your greatest asset. You are agreeable, sociable, adaptable and likable. You are extremely loyal, and you are in all senses of the word a friend, through thick and thin, to others. You have decided ambitions for the fulfillment of which you work hard. You are rather anxious to excel in anything which you undertake, and your pride prods you on.

Your love nature is strong, and you demand much from others in this direction. You do not try to suppress your feelings and are warmly affectionate. If you always live up to your highest aims and ambitions you will accomplish a great deal and are destined to have a happy life.

Successful people born November 23:
Theodore W. Weld—Abolitionist.
Franklin Pierce—Fourteenth President of the United States.
Joseph Pancoast—Surgeon.
George M. Randall—Missionary.
Fanny Ward—Actress.
Frank Morrison—Labor leader.

Jane Interprets the Mode

Paris, Nov. 22.

WHAT is a design? Lots of designers will not be able to tell you. We have our own idea or definition of the subject, of course . . . we like to say that the design is a harmonious arrangement of patterned lights and shadows.

But for you, it is not necessary nor even interesting to know the technical definition of a design. What does interest you is to what use you can put designs, where you encounter them, what they are for.

Well, in the first place, designs are not generally conceded to be useful but if mathematically correct and showing the proper balance, they are decorative. And you encounter decorative designs more often than you are aware of. The simplest example is that of linoleum in patterns, or wall paper, or any all-over designs in rugs, upholsterly or garments.

* * * *

Do you know why you like a design in wall-paper, or in a rug, or in a piece of fabric despite its seemingly endless repetition? It is because this all-over design has "notan." This means it has mathematical precision and perfect balance. As you look in a large section of it, it does not jump before your eyes—and no one section of color or pattern in the whole is more outstanding than the rest. Do you notice that in a pattern of red, blue and green dots on a black ground, for example, if all the red or all the blue or all the green dots predominate, they all do, not just one or two of the green dots, or one or two of the blue? It is because the design has balance.

And there you are! Isn't it always rather interesting to find out something about something you didn't know? And in the case of designs, one does encounter them in very many places.

We thought about designs today because, now that Christmas is upon us, so very many requests come in for this and that little design we use in one corner of our daily illustrations. So what you do you think we have done for you? We have just gathered up all the old drawings we could find, cut off the wee designs, and pasted them all together to form a very much illustrated leaflet, which shows no less than 20 of our very favorite ones! With this slightly unusual kind of leaflet go the directions for tracing them onto something else for your own use, also for enlarging them, and for using them for embroidery.

You see, they can be used so nicely for decorating any number of things for Christmas gifts . . . boxes, bookcovers, furniture, tiles, lampshades, even Christmas cards. Among the designs are our friend the dragon, the exquisite bird, the geometric butterfly, stylized grapes, some of the lovely tiny faces with jewels and flowers in the hair—well, I can assure you that you will not regret taking the time to send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post.

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL MINDERMAN

NOVEMBER 23.

MRS. ABIGAIL SMITH ADAMS, wife of John Adams, second President of the United States and mother of John Quincey Adams, sixth President of the United States, was born this day, 1744.

But Mrs. Adams had other claims to fame besides her relation to the celebrated occupants of the White House. She was one of the best of the early American writers. Her letters to her husband, which have been collected and published, are of great historical value. Her father, a clergyman, protested against her marriage of John Adams and took for a text, "My daughter is grievously tormented by a devil."

Helen Gahagan, a foremost American actress, was born this day, 1900. Among the plays in which she appeared are "Manhattan," "Dreams for Sale," "Fashions for Men," "Chains" and "Leah Klischna."

Marie Bashkirtseff, the Russian writer, author of the "Journal," which Gladstone called a book without a parallel, was born this day, 1860. The "Journal" is intended to be a "transcript of a woman's life" and has the candor of Rousseau's "Confessions." She died of consumption at the age of 24.

WORK ON BRIDGE

YESTERDAY'S article described the Vanderbilt system of artificial bidding under which an initial "one Club" means three quick tricks and must be answered by "one Diamond" if the partner has less than two quick tricks—the respective bids having no Club or Diamond significance. I stated that today I would explain three objections urged against this system.

Objection No. 1 is that it requires the skill of a Harold Vanderbilt to use it safely and effectively; and that for all but the super expert information that the partner's hand contains a certain number of tricks, four, six or more as the case may be, with length and strength in a certain suit is more important than knowing merely that it has three quick tricks. Consequently that no adequate return is received for abandoning the normal meaning for that most informatory and frequently used bid, viz, one Club. Then, too, it is contended that the mind of the careless player may lapse, forget the artificial significance of a bid and answer it in its literal significance. Of course when code bidding is used, serious trouble ensues if either the sender or the recipient of the code message misses its full meaning; the result is apt to resemble that which occurs when an engineer fails to see the red.

Objection No. 2 is that when artificial bids of any kind are used, long consultations are necessary between partners before a rubber is started; and equally long explanations must be made to the opponents, to whom otherwise the use of a code would be grossly unfair.

Objection No. 3 is that popularizing a system to give any bid an artificial significance must inevitably lead to gross abuses. If permissible and ethical to admit artificial bids of one Club and one Diamond, why should it be unethical to go further? A clever creator of code bids could devise any number of them. For example, if "one Diamond" shows no quick tricks in answer to "one Club;" "one Heart" could show one quick trick, "one Spade" two quick tricks, and "one No Trump" three quick tricks; answering bids of two could designate not only the exact number of quick tricks held by the Club bidder, but the long suit as well; and so on ad infinitum. It is not to be supposed that any one would welcome a system containing a dozen code words, but something of the sort is sure to ensue if the stamp of approval be put upon one or two such arbitrary declarations.

In next Friday's article I shall attempt to explain what I believe to be the sentiment of the Contract players of the country concerning the use of artificial bids; i. e., which of such bids they approve and which they reject.

Uncle Ray's Corner

A Little Saturday Talk

SOMETIME if your corner is empty will you please write about "people from all over the earth?"

This suggestion comes from a reader whose name is signed as Bunny Betts.

That would be a hard thing to do, Bunny, in a single article. Yet I know that there is a big interest about people who live in other lands. That is one reason I travel so much—I want to find out about interesting people, so that I can tell about them to the corner family.

Within a few months I expect to make another trip abroad, and I shall send back letters so that every day the editor can print what I write. I shall save news until later of the countries to which I shall go, but I'm telling you now that there will be some good surprises this winter.

Speaking of "people from all over the earth," how large a population do you suppose the earth now has? No one knows the exact number, but it is estimated that there are about two thousand million when all the people of all the continents and islands are taken together.

Suppose there were a bridge built around the earth at the equator, and that all the people of the earth were to start marching around—fathers and mothers, uncles and aunts, children, grandparents and babies. If all the people would line up in rows, 35 in each row (the babies being carried, of course) and if the rows were just 2 feet apart, the marchers would make a parade stretching almost around the earth!

I am sure there will never be a line-up just like that, but to make that picture will give you an idea of the vast number of people on our earth.

When I think of the many nations of the world, the differences in customs and all, it makes me think that the supply of stories need never give out. For those who like travel, there will be articles in time to come. Right now we are in the midst of a science and invention series, and other series besides travel are in store for the future.

Wives of Tomorrow

"THE GIRL FRIENDS."

Dear Miss McDonald: When I used to read your columns I never realized what they meant to the people who wrote to you for advice. Now, since I've been married, I can understand. It seems that not a day passes that some problem does not come up that I would like to ask you alone.

I have been married seventeen months but in that time my husband and I haven't gone out in the evening without each other. My husband has an evening job and doesn't come home until 9 o'clock for his dinner. Although I have my dinner earlier in the evening, I feel that I should be home when he comes. My girl friends are always asking me to go out in the evening with them. They say I'm foolish not to go without my husband sometimes. He could easily get his own dinner once in a while. They also say that if I stay around him so much he will grow tired of me and that it will be better if I spend an evening, every now and then, away from him. Don't you think that if I went out with the girls he will find friends to play cards with and leave me evenings?

I love my husband dearly and it would kill me to lose him. I show him how very much I love him. Do you think he will lose interest in me when he feels so sure of me?

This may sound like a childish letter, but I have never realized what a child I am until I got married. It seems so complicated

No one has ever awaited a reply more anxiously than I will await this one. Your admirer,

"DOT."

Now, where did the girl friends acquire all this wisdom that they are pouring out for your benefit.

You listen to some real advice, Dot. The sort of "evenings" the girl friends know are fine for "girl friends," fine for filling in until the real day comes when there is a nice somebody coming home at night to be taken in hand and fed and fussed over. After that! Well the best evening the girl friends could offer would seem pretty flat to you.

Can you imagine yourself, Dot, with a regular do-or-die husband working until 9 o'clock at night for you, for you, and you out at some girls' house listening to the life-of-the-party, or out at some restaurant dancing with some limp-handed imitation Romeo? These girls do not know that there is more real thrill in the way a husband says "Good girl" than in all the "lines" the mere boy friends invented.

You go out when hubby does, Dot, and don't be afraid that he will tire of the little girl who pours his evening coffee! Nine o'clock and then get it himself. No wonder your girl friends are single! My, but I'm glad you wrote, Dot, although I believe you would have decided right in any case, for you seem to be a wise little thing, and a fine little wife besides.

This column is for you! Your experiences, opinions and suggestions will help all who read this page. Express your views and help those in need of advice. You need not sign your name.

Cambridge Football on Air Today

Graham McNamee Will Broadcast Yale-Harvard Game — Wagner Dramatized at 8—Post Brevities at 8:15 A. M.

The football game between Yale and Harvard will be broadcast by the National Broadcasting Co., with Graham McNamee announcing, and by the Columbia Broadcasting System, with Ted Husing at the microphone. The game will be heard at 1:45 o'clock. The teams meet in the Harvard stadium at Cambridge.

The Middle West will share the radio picture with the East in the broadcast of the Ohio State-Illinois game over another NBC network, headed by WJZ. Bill Munday, the drawling Georgian, will begin a description of the scenes in the stadium at Columbus, Ohio, at 1:45 o'clock, also.

Walter Damrosch, dean of American conductors, selects the overture to "Mignon" to introduce the General Electric Symphony program to be broadcast at 9 o'clock. Gluck, Bizet, Beethoven and Strauss are other favorite composers to be heard in this program. Floyd Gibbons, war correspondent and author, will give another of his descriptive narratives on "Adventures in Science."

"Richard Wagner, the Composer," will be the subject of the broadcast to be heard from WRC at 8 o'clock. Unlike many dramatizations of the life of Wagner, this one will be done in a comedy vein. The music heard will include Wagnerian excerpts, as well as some music popular in Wagner's time.

An hour's entertainment will be broadcast by the Lucky Strike Orchestra, under the direction of B. A. Rolfe, at 10 o'clock. A suite of Russian waltzes and Argentine tango numbers will impart a difference to the radio hour of the Club Chantecler Orchestra at 11 o'clock from WRC. Arrangements of "I Love the Moon" and "I'll Kiss You in the Morning" will also be played.

Dr. Henry Hadley will conduct the Gulbransen Symphony Orchestra in one of his own compositions, the "Entrance of Montezuma," from the opera "Azora," at 9:30 o'clock. The program also includes one of Dr. Hadley's symphonic paraphrases, the subject being "Lover, Come Back to Me," from "The New Moon."

The Paramount-Publix Radio hour will be broadcast from WMAL at 10 o'clock, followed by the Swanee Syncopators. Selections from "Marianne," "Sunny Side Up," "Tiger Rag," "More Than You Know" and "Lonely Troubadour" will be heard, with Matt Walker singing "I'm a Dreamer."

Miss Mabel Boardman will be heard again at 7:15 o'clock, speaking from the studios of WMAL, on "The 1930 Red Cross Roll Call." Miss Boardman is director of volunteer service and secretary of the American Red Cross.

Walter T. Holt will provide a half hour from WOL at 6:10 o'clock, followed by Joan and Phyllis, a harmony team; Pauline Loria, blues singer, and Jeanette Leipziger, pianist. A two-hour dance program will be featured, beginning at 10 o'clock.

"Breakfast Brevities" from The Washington Post will again be one of the outstanding features during the morning program. The Family Market Basket will be presented at 9:30 o'clock, followed by a musical program and Mrs. Clifford A. Atkinson, speaker, for the District of Columbia Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Station WJSV will begin its evening broadcast with a dinner music presentation at 6:30 o'clock. All of the regular Saturday evening features are to be heard in their regular places, including Pa Brown and the Little Browns, the Catskill Trio and the Alexandria Humming Birds.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

ANOTHER example that things are not what they should be on the air was trying to pick up the "Old Ironside" broadcast at Boston. The nearest station to us carrying it was Station WJZ, whose transmitter is located at Bound Brook, N. J.

One would naturally think that this station, supposed to be one of the finest and up-to-date in the United States, being less than 200 miles away, using 30,000 watts power, or 60 times as much as either WRC or WMAL, and broadcasting on one of the so-called cleared channels ("so-called" was right in this case), would come into the Capital as clear as a bell.

To the contrary, reception, due to interference from other stations, was so bad that our set was turned off before the program was half over. Atmospheric conditions were good and there was very little fading. It is doubtful, however, if the channel was clear more than 40 per cent of the time. Not only could other stations be heard in the background, with cross-talk, and at one time some commercial code, but there were frequent heterodynes. Once there was a whistle of such volume that it could be heard across the street.

A COURTESY seldom accorded was the extension of the time by Station WRC of the Lord Bishop of Winchester, England, preaching in the Bethlehem Chapel of the Washington Cathedral on the subject of "Peace." As is well known, broadcasting stations operate on a railroad-like schedule, timed to the minute and second.

However, so eloquent was the lord bishop's sermon, the delivery of which the radio audience unfortunately had not been advised in advance, that he was allowed to continue on the air until the conclusion of his address. Moved by his presence in the chapel in which the former President is buried, the bishop's tribute to Woodrow Wilson was one which those listeners privileged to hear it will doubtless remember for many a day.

May Singhi Breen and Peter De Rose, who have been broadcasting together for the past six years, will be married December 9.

This is to remind listeners that Station WRC will present a two-hour musical program, beginning at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning as an additional Sunday feature. Heretofore the station has been silent on Sunday morning.

AS a peace offering, the London theater managers will send first night tickets to critics of the British Broadcasting Co. who have been panning their shows on the radio.

The managers over there have the right to bar radio comment by a reviewer not invited to the house and could recover for any comment so made detrimental to the interests of house or show. Under the English law a reviewer may not buy seats and then comment on the performance. If he is invited by the management, his comments are "privileged."

The members of the Washington Section of the Institute of Radio Engineers will meet on Monday night at the Continental Hotel. Following a dinner, Arthur E. Thiessen, of the General Radio Co., Cambridge, Mass., will read a paper on "The Accurate Testing of Audio-Amplifiers in Production."

READERS will be told tomorrow on the radio page of The Sunday Post the outcome of the balloting as to which voice a listener prefers to hear over the radio, that of a man or a woman. Just as interesting will be the accompanying comment which the participants have volunteered.

An idea of what this will be like is the following criticism received, and from a woman at that:

"Most women are too affected on the radio," the feminine contributor writes. "Their voices are too high and screechy when they sing. They give one the impression that cats are in the yard below. It is awful. I always shut the radio off when a woman starts."

Heard from Station KTNT, Muscatine, Iowa:

Druggist: "Do you want to take it home with you?"

What Today Means to You

"SAGITTARIUS."

IF November 23 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 a. m. to 11 a. m., and from 3 p. m. to 7:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 7 a. m. to 8:45 a. m., and from 8:30 p. m. to 10 p. m.

This date will be crowded with events, many of which will prove to be of future importance. An excessive amount of travel is foreseen. New ventures and changes will be made under most auspicious influences.

Children born on this November 23 will have happy-go-lucky natures and will take life very much as they find it. They will have plenty of ability, but will be lacking in energy and sticktoitiveness. They will be inclined to lean upon others.

You possess personality and sincerity. You are not afraid to be perfectly frank and are not interested in trying to be other than yourself. You do not try to impress, to fool or to flatter. You have a positive, definite character, and you have no need to bother with small subterfuges and pretenses. You are interested in something outside of yourself—in life in general and in your work. The last thing you are interested in is, probably, the effect you make on others.

You have a knack of making friends wherever you go—they are your greatest asset. You are agreeable, sociable, adaptable and likable. You are extremely loyal, and you are in all senses of the word a friend, through thick and thin, to others. You have decided ambitions for the fulfillment of which you work hard. You are rather anxious to excel in anything which you undertake, and your pride prods you on.

Your love nature is strong, and you demand much from others in this direction. You do not try to suppress your feelings and are warmly affectionate. If you always live up to your highest aims and ambitions you will accomplish a great deal and are destined to have a happy life.

Successful people born November 23:

Theodore W. Weld—Abolitionist.
Joseph Pancoast—Surgeon.
Fanny Ward—Actress.
Frank Morrison—Labor leader.

Jane Interprets the Mode

Paris, Nov. 22.

WHAT is a design? Lots of designers will not be able to tell you. We have our own idea or definition of the subject, of course . . . we like to say that the design is a harmonious arrangement of patterned lights and shadows.

But for you, it is not necessary nor even interesting to know the technical definition of a design. What does interest you is to what use you can put designs, where you encounter them, what they are for.

Well, in the first place, designs are not generally conceded to be useful but if mathematically correct and showing the proper balance, they are decorative. And you encounter decorative designs more often than you are aware of. The simplest example is that of linoleum in patterns, or wall paper, or any all-over designs in rugs, upholsterly or garments.

* * * *

Do you know why you like a design in wall-paper, or in a rug, or in a piece of fabric despite its seemingly endless repetition? It is because this all-over design has "notan." This means it has mathematical precision and perfect balance. As you look in a large section of it, it does not jump before your eyes—and no one section of color or pattern in the whole is more outstanding than the rest. Do you notice that in a pattern of red, blue and green dots on a black ground, for example, if all the red or all the blue or all the green dots predominate, they all do, not just one or two of the green dots, or one or two of the blue? It is because the design has balance.

And there you are! Isn't it always rather interesting to find out something about something you didn't know? And in the case of designs, one does encounter them in very many places.

We thought about designs today because, now that Christmas is upon us, so very many requests come in for this and that little design we use in one corner of our daily illustrations. So what you do you think we have done for you? We have just gathered up all the old drawings we could find, cut off the wee designs, and pasted them all together to form a very much illustrated leaflet, which shows no less than 20 of our very favorite ones! With this slightly unusual kind of leaflet go the directions for tracing them onto something else for your own use, also for enlarging them, and for using them for embroidery.

You see, they can be used so nicely for decorating any number of things for Christmas gifts . . . boxes, bookcovers, furniture, tiles, lampshades, even Christmas cards. Among the designs are our friend the dragon, the exquisite bird, the geometric butterfly, stylized grapes, some of the lovely tiny faces with jewels and flowers in the hair—well, I can assure you that you will not regret taking the time to send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post.

By EARL MINDERMAN

NOVEMBER 23.

MRS. ABIGAIL SMITH ADAMS, wife of John Adams, second President of the United States and mother of John Quincey Adams, sixth President of the United States, was born this day, 1744.

But Mrs. Adams had other claims to fame besides her relation to the celebrated occupants of the White House. She was one of the best of the early American writers. Her letters to her husband, which have been collected and published, are of great historical value. Her father, a clergyman, protested against her marriage of John Adams and took for a text, "My daughter is grievously tormented by a devil."

Helen Gahagan, a foremost American actress, was born this day, 1900. Among the plays in which she appeared are "Manhattan," "Dreams for Sale," "Fashions for Men," "Chains" and "Leah Klischna."

Marie Bashkirtseff, the Russian writer, author of the "Journal," which Gladstone called a book without a parallel, was born this day, 1860. The "Journal" is intended to be a "transcript of a woman's life" and has the candor of Rousseau's "Confessions." She died of consumption at the age of 24.

WORK ON BRIDGE

YESTERDAY'S article described the Vanderbilt system of artificial bidding under which an initial "one Club" means three quick tricks and must be answered by "one Diamond" if the partner has less than two quick tricks—the respective bids having no Club or Diamond significance. I stated that today I would explain three objections urged against this system.

Objection No. 1 is that it requires the skill of a Harold Vanderbilt to use it safely and effectively; and that for all but the super expert information that the partner's hand contains a certain number of tricks, four, six or more as the case may be, with length and strength in a certain suit is more important than knowing merely that it has three quick tricks. Consequently that no adequate return is received for abandoning the normal meaning for that most informatory and frequently used bid, viz, one Club. Then, too, it is contended that the mind of the careless player may lapse, forget the artificial significance of a bid and answer it in its literal significance. Of course when code bidding is used, serious trouble ensues if either the sender or the recipient of the code message misses its full meaning; the result is apt to resemble that which occurs when an engineer fails to see the red.

Objection No. 2 is that when artificial bids of any kind are used, long consultations are necessary between partners before a rubber is started; and equally long explanations must be made to the opponents, to whom otherwise the use of a code would be grossly unfair.

Objection No. 3 is that popularizing a system to give any bid an artificial significance must inevitably lead to gross abuses. If permissible and ethical to admit artificial bids of one Club and one Diamond, why should it be unethical to go further? A clever creator of code bids could devise any number of them. For example, if "one Diamond" shows no quick tricks in answer to "one Club;" "one Heart" could show one quick trick, "one Spade" two quick tricks, and "one No Trump" three quick tricks; answering bids of two could designate not only the exact number of quick tricks held by the Club bidder, but the long suit as well; and so on ad infinitum. It is not to be supposed that any one would welcome a system containing a dozen code words, but something of the sort is sure to ensue if the stamp of approval be put upon one or two such arbitrary declarations.

In next Friday's article I shall attempt to explain what I believe to be the sentiment of the Contract players of the country concerning the use of artificial bids; i. e., which of such bids they approve and which they reject.

Uncle Ray's Corner

A Little Saturday Talk

SOMETIME if your corner is empty will you please write about "people from all over the earth?"

This suggestion comes from a reader whose name is signed as Bunny Betts.

That would be a hard thing to do, Bunny, in a single article. Yet I know that there is a big interest about people who live in other lands. That is one reason I travel so much—I want to find out about interesting people, so that I can tell about them to the corner family.

Within a few months I expect to make another trip abroad, and I shall send back letters so that every day the editor can print what I write. I shall save news until later of the countries to which I shall go, but I'm telling you now that there will be some good surprises this winter.

Speaking of "people from all over the earth," how large a population do you suppose the earth now has? No one knows the exact number, but it is estimated that there are about two thousand million when all the people of all the continents and islands are taken together.

Suppose there were a bridge built around the earth at the equator, and that all the people of the earth were to start marching around—fathers and mothers, uncles and aunts, children, grandparents and babies. If all the people would line up in rows, 35 in each row (the babies being carried, of course) and if the rows were just 2 feet apart, the marchers would make a parade stretching almost around the earth!

I am sure there will never be a line-up just like that, but to make that picture will give you an idea of the vast number of people on our earth.

When I think of the many nations of the world, the differences in customs and all, it makes me think that the supply of stories need never give out. For those who like travel, there will be articles in time to come. Right now we are in the midst of a science and invention series, and other series besides travel are in store for the future.

Wives of Tomorrow

"THE GIRL FRIENDS."

Dear Miss McDonald: When I used to read your columns I never realized what they meant to the people who wrote to you for advice. Now, since I've been married, I can understand. It seems that not a day passes that some problem does not come up that I would like to ask you alone.

I have been married seventeen months but in that time my husband and I haven't gone out in the evening without each other. My husband has an evening job and doesn't come home until 9 o'clock for his dinner. Although I have my dinner earlier in the evening, I feel that I should be home when he comes. My girl friends are always asking me to go out in the evening with them. They say I'm foolish not to go without my husband sometimes. He could easily get his own dinner once in a while. They also say that if I stay around him so much he will grow tired of me and that it will be better if I spend an evening, every now and then, away from him. Don't you think that if I went out with the girls he will find friends to play cards with and leave me evenings?

I love my husband dearly and it would kill me to lose him. I show him how very much I love him. Do you think he will lose interest in me when he feels so sure of me?

This may sound like a childish letter, but I have never realized what a child I am until I got married. It seems so complicated

No one has ever awaited a reply more anxiously than I will await this one. Your admirer,

"DOT."

Now, where did the girl friends acquire all this wisdom that they are pouring out for your benefit.

You listen to some real advice, Dot. The sort of "evenings" the girl friends know are fine for "girl friends," fine for filling in until the real day comes when there is a nice somebody coming home at night to be taken in hand and fed and fussed over. After that! Well the best evening the girl friends could offer would seem pretty flat to you.

Can you imagine yourself, Dot, with a regular do-or-die husband working until 9 o'clock at night for you, for you, and you out at some girls' house listening to the life-of-the-party, or out at some restaurant dancing with some limp-handed imitation Romeo? These girls do not know that there is more real thrill in the way a husband says "Good girl" than in all the "lines" the mere boy friends invented.

You go out when hubby does, Dot, and don't be afraid that he will tire of the little girl who pours his evening coffee! Nine o'clock and then get it himself. No wonder your girl friends are single! My, but I'm glad you wrote, Dot, although I believe you would have decided right in any case, for you seem to be a wise little thing, and a fine little wife besides.

This column is for you! Your experiences, opinions and suggestions will help all who read this page. Express your views and help those in need of advice. You need not sign your name.

PRESSURE RETARDS SELLING OF STOCKS

Market Business Has Slight Decline, Being Mainly Profit Taking.

FIVE-HOUR DAY TO BEGIN

New York, Nov. 22—(A. P.)—The stock market presented a fairly firm front to a normal week-end selling movement today, which depressed several of the trading favorites 1 to 6 points. These losses, however, were largely counter balanced by gains elsewhere in the list, running from 1 to 17 points.

Selling pressure tended to retard rather than accelerate the pace of trading, and the day's turnover amounted to only 2,929,230 shares, as compared to 3,138,680 yesterday. Utilities, rails and several of the specialties generally gave a good account of themselves.

The selling appeared to be primarily profit taking on the rally that has been in progress almost steadily since the middle of last week. The realizing was regarded as moderate in view of the recent advance, and the closing of the market tomorrow.

A further development in the cheapening of credit appeared in a 4½ per cent renewal rate for call loans, the lowest since March of last year. The rate was unchanged during the day, and will carry over the week-end, as the loan desk will not operate tomorrow. Surplus funds were again offered in the outside market at substantial reductions from the official rate on the floor of the exchange. Time loans were quoted at 5-5½, as reduced from 5-5½ yesterday.

Employes to Get Rest.

The Board of Governors of the Stock Exchange felt that sufficient progress had been made along the road to normalcy to return to full five-hour trading sessions next week, trading having been on a three-hour daily schedule for nearly three weeks. It was decided, however, to close the exchange for the remainder of the week, beginning with the Thanksgiving Day holiday next Thursday, to give the severely tired commission house forces a much-needed vacation. The recent closings have merely given them a chance to clear up their work, and it is felt that a real rest from the strain of the past six weeks should be provided.

Business news was scarce, and attention was focused on the reassuring statements as to the maintenance of high levels of employment and wages, and consequent sustained high public purchasing power, emanating from President Hoover's conference with business leaders yesterday.

The week-end business and trade reviews reported a more optimistic feeling in most quarters with the return of normal conditions in Wall street. Industrial activity was said to have some further slackening, however, and conservatism was noted in wholesale purchasing. Retail buying of seasonal merchandise, however, was said to have been stimulated by the cold weather.

Sales Go Up and Down.

The day's selling movement carried General Electric, Allied Chemical, and Union Pacific down about 5 to 6 points. U. S. Steel closed at 167, off 2¾, and American Telephone, Anaconda, Atchison, American Tobacco B, Johns-Manville, Kennecott and Fox Film A lost 3 or 4 points. Philadelphia Co., a closely held issue, which appears on the tape only about once in a moon, traded at 178, off 94 points from the previous sale.

American Machine & Foundry had one of its rapid spurts, touching 190, up 17 points. J. I. Case and Otis Elevator mounted about 13 and 14 points, U. S. Industrial Alcohol and People's Gas about 11. American Power & Light, Chesapeake & Ohio, Delaware & Hudson, Du Pont, Gillette, Kroger Grocery, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, National Chain Grocery, National Cash Register, Pacific Lighting, Underwood Elliott, and Stone & Webster closed 2 to 8 points up.

Exchanges were quiet and inclined to ease. Sterling cables sagged ½-cent, to $4.87 9-16. The Canadian dollar, however, rallied ¼-cent, to 98⅛ cents.

Commodity markets generally sagged, wheat futures lost a cent and more with a let-up in export demand, and corn eased about ½-cent with large Argentine offerings. Cotton futures broke rather sharply, but rallied a little from the day's lowest levels on unfavorable weather reports, and closed with net declines of 70 cents to $1 a bale.

WASHINGTON: SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1929. 15

HARVARD-YALE TOP SPARSE GRID PROGRAM TODAY

JACK FROST IS PREGAME FAVORITE

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

BOSTON, Nov. 22.—Harvard and Yale are playing their forty-eighth game of football in Cambridge tomorrow afternoon and while there is much interest in the outcome, there seemed to be just as much interest this evening in the problem of living through to the finish. The winter has closed in suddenly in Boston and a large proportion of the people who came here from more temporate climates along the Atlantic seaboard have a premonition that unless they establish business relations with a source of supply for their flasks, the outcome of the football game will occur too late to be of any interest to them.

The football field was covered with a crust of half-melted and refrozen snow this afternoon, but it develops that this crust is underlaid with a series of canvas blankets which will be skinned off just before the game, leaving the field clear, though frozen and unyielding to the human form.

Dr. Cook Costumes Are the Vogue.

Mr. Will Bingham, the director of athletics of Harvard University; Mr. Arnold Horween, the head coach, and Mr. Duke Dunn, late of the University of Michigan, the line coach, were discovered sitting in a kind of native Bostonian igloo on the sidelines at the game between the Harvard and Yale scrubs this afternoon, wearing the costume of the country, which is a species of Arctic union suit, lined with fur, and with the native New England goloshe or gum boot on their feet and the New England ear muff, fashioned something like the old-fashioned photographer's head-clamp, covering their ears.

"It's a bit chilly up here. Is there any chance to borrow one of those Dr. Cook costumes?" your correspondent inquired. "We can't hear a word you say," the athletic director and the two coaches replied together. "It's these ear muffs. You should wear ear muffs up here."

Five Dollars Charged for Coatroom Hook.

Judging from the sounds of revelry by night in the Boston hotels, which are so crowded, incidentally, that one customer has just offered $5 for the privilege of hanging from a hook in the coatroom overnight, no few of the out-of-town alumni of the two universities have started fortifying themselves against the cold already. Or, perhaps, they were just thawing out after the first touch of winter experienced in the brief ride from the railroad station to their hotels.

At any rate, there is indubitably revelry by night and I have it on the authority of Red, the bell hop of the Copley Plaza, who has been hopping bells before and after these Harvard-Yale games biennially, man and boy, for close on to thirty years, that this evening's revelry is only a warm-up for the revelry of Saturday evening.

"If you call this revelry," Red tells me, "you have never heard them revel in earnest. Afterward the people on the winning side will have something to revel about, and the others just revel anyway."

Stevens Declines Alumni Fete On Behalf of Team.

The football teams, of course, were sequestered from this sort of going on, the Harvard athletes in their accustomed living quarters here and there around the institution and the Yale team in a bevy together at the University Club. The Yale athletes had been invited to attend a dinner of some alumni but Mal Stevens, their coach, who is a physician by trade and a coach only by the force of untoward circumstance, looked over the menu and declined on behalf of the team, without consulting the team.

This football game, meaning not the game itself but the ceremonies, the amenities and the general atmosphere of the show, is beyond doubt the most opulent display of the sporting season in this country, with the single exception of the Harvard and Yale boat race in the Thames in New London. At the boat race, the Harvard and Yale alumni line the course in their yachts and stewards in white uniforms hand them refreshments in tall, frosted glasses with sprigs of mint peering over the brims. Here, at Cambridge, at this time, the yachts will have to be taken for granted, owing to the lack of docking facilities on the stadium, but one look at these people is enough to convince anybody that they own yachts.

Oregon Team Arrives For Detroit Contest

4th Triumph Sought by Gallaudet

Ringle Carries Hopes of Gallaudet for Best Season in Years.

AN already satisfactory football season may be made the most successful of a decade for Gallaudet College today when the blue-clad proteges of Coach Teddy Hughes encounter their old rivals, Shepherd College, of Shepherdstown, W. Va., on the Kendall Green gridiron, Seventh street and Florida avenue northeast, at 2:30 o'clock. It is the only college grid attraction booked here today and is the final 1929 appearance of the home team.

Thus far the Blues have split even in six games, winning three and losing as many. This record is one of the best compiled by a Kendall Green Eleven in a long while. By defeating Shepherd, the Blues can make it the finest of post-war history.

Coach Hughes has brought his team along at a steady pace toward perfection ever since the season opened and during the past week chose to give most of the players a rest as the most effective means of sending them into battle today in the best of condition.

Ringle to Carry Burden For Blues.

Johnny Ringle, captain and full back, the main reliance of Gallaudet, hasn't had on a uniform since last Saturday when he ripped through the Susquehanna Eleven to give Gallaudet its first victory on foreign soil in six years. Ringle today doubtless will carry the offensive and defensive burden for the Blues and is expected to perform in his usual excellent style.

Shepherd comes here with bitter memories of last year's beating which resulted from a second-half scoring rampage on the part of Ringle. In the 1928 battle, the visitors finished the first half on even terms, 20 to 20, but during the last 30 minutes found it utterly impossible to stop the hard-running Gallaudet full back.

Little is known here about Shepherd except that it is supposed to be stronger than last season. The West Virginia club has scored shutout victories against Shenandoah and Bridgewater, beating the first named by about half the margin with which the Blues won from the same team a month ago.

Ringle's supporting cast numbers several clever performers, not the least prominent of whom is Paul Zieske, quarter back. This lad is the most improved member of the Gallaudet team and is capable of running the team from his position in an altogether acceptable fashion. Another on whom much dependence is thrust is Roy Parks, husky tackle, who has, in spite of an injured leg, played a fine game throughout the campaign.

Gallaudet also looks to Konrad Hokanson, half back, for considerable aid in winning the season's finale. Hokanson is an especially good forward passer besides being a consistent ground gainer.

Two Changes in Line-Up Announced.

Coach Hughes has made two changes in his line-up, having named Marion Bradley, hitherto an obscure substitute, to fill the left end berth in place of Clyde McMullen, and John Wurdeman, brawny guard, to take the center post previously occupied by Hugh Stack, who is injured. Alex Carlson will be seen in Wurdeman's old guard position.

Dempsey Is "Loner" As Fight Promoter

St. Louis, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Jack Dempsey, here to referee a fight card last night, declared he would stand or fall by himself as a promoter.

Dempsey said reports that he would go into partnership in the fight promotion with Charles Wrigley were false; that he was not taking on any new associates. He also said he was not acting in the interest of Madison Square Garden, and that he would not consider an offer to take Paddy Harmon's place with the Chicago Stadium if it were offered him.

G. W. AIMING FOR UPSET OF C. U.

Colonials Get Strenuous Drill for Big Home Game.

GEORGE WASHINGTON is leaving no stone unturned in its efforts to wring out a victory from the Thanksgiving Day clash with Catholic University. The odds are all against the Colonials, but in spite of this they are working harder than ever before this season in preparation for the coming struggle.

The latest move of the G. W. athletic authorities, aimed to draw the best results possible from the G street eleven, is an announcement that no player who fails to perform creditably in the Catholic U. game will receive a letter. As the school monogram is the most highly prized award an athlete can win, it is the belief of the George Washington authorities that the recent order will insure the greatest efforts of their gridmen.

Squad Given Strenuous Workout.

Coaches Connaughton and Walsh kept the small Colonial squad out on the Potomac Park field until dark yesterday, and before permitting them to board a bus for the return trip to the gymnasium uptown, ordered all to take four laps around the field. Needless to say, a tired group of players left the practice session.

Judging from the manner in which Babe Clapper, stock back, was tossing the ball yesterday, George Washington will present an aerial threat worthy of Catholic's deepest concern. Clapper shot tosses to McGrew and Young for distances of 30 to 40 yards with consistent accuracy.

Two Conference Games In Southwest Today

Dallas, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Spurred on by what, for some reason or other, is regarded as "ideal football weather," four Southwest Conference squads prepared today for tomorrow's semi-final melees. The winter's first snowfall and a skidding mercury promised snappy going for players and fans alike in the two contests scheduled.

Inclement weather failed to cheer up the undefeated Texas Christian University Frogs on the eve of their tilt with the Baylor Bears at Waco. Three of their number—Buck Barr, Leo Buckley and Kenneth Moore—are down with influenza, and several others are ailing.

Southern Methodist, which will grapple with the Frogs a week hence at Fort Worth in a struggle to decide the conference championship, faces what promises to be an easy conquest of the Rice Institute Owls here in the only other bout scheduled tomorrow.

Baltimore Bowlers, Face King Pin Tonight

Further encouraged by the 2-to-1 victory over the Temple Team last night in the District League, the crack King Pin Duckpin Team will open a home and home series with the Tivoli Team, of Baltimore, at Lucky Strike tonight at 8:15 o'clock. The second five game block will be rolled at Baltimore next Saturday night.

Army Expects Fight From Ohio Wesleyan

Special to The Washington Post.

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 22.—Army's final home game of the season with the strong Ohio Wesleyan promises to wind up the Cadets' local season with a most strenuous and interesting contest. All the ceremony and color of Army games in New York City will be present starting at 1 p. m., when the entire corps of cadets will be in review on the main parade ground.

The Methodist squad of 49 players arrived here this morning determined to maintain its excellent record of last season. The players are all in excellent physical condition, last Saturday's game which they won, 61-0, proving a pleasant workout. Capt. "Biff" Jones' charges are also in good shape and the indications are that the passes and line plays developed for use in the Notre Dame game will be thoroughly tested. Both coaches plan to start their first teams, which means that at least three Army players, Cagle, Murrel and Perry will be in action on their last gridiron appearance at West Point.

Three Penn State Teams Off for Field of Action

Special to The Washington Post.

State College, Pa., Nov. 22.—Three Penn State teams left here today for the final engagements of the fall season, all to play away from home this week-end and Monday. The cross-country team left for New York, where the Lion Harriers will enter the intercollegiate championships on Monday; the soccer team went to Annapolis to meet the Navy booters in a game that may settle the Intercollegiate League title, and the freshmen football team left by bus for Pittsburgh, where the yearlings are to meet the Pitt Freshmen in the Pitt Stadium tomorrow afternoon.

Both cross-country and soccer teams have a chance to win clear titles to championships on their trips. The harriers, undefeated in dual meet competition, will be defending their team title in Monday's race in Van Cortlandt Park, New York City. Should they win this year, it will mark the fourth consecutive victory for the Lions in this event. The soccer team, also undefeated, can get no worse than a tie by defeating Navy tomorrow. Yale is the only team that has a chance to nose out the Lions and must defeat both Harvard and Navy to get a clear claim to the league crown.

EASTERN AND GONZAGA PLAY

School Elevens Promise Red-Hot Contest Today.

EASTERN HIGH SCHOOL'S FOOTBALL TEAM will be out to avenge two successive defeats suffered at the hands of Gonzaga's grid combinations for the past couple of season's when it lines up against Coach Orrell Mitchell's big Purple Eleven today at 2:30 o'clock in the Lincoln Park Stadium. With both elevens possessing unusual strength, a large crowd is expected to turn out to watch the two battle for supremacy.

Hopes of the Eastern student body for a victory took sudden rise yesterday when it was announced that Charley Millar, crack quarter back, who has been idle since late in October, due to injuries, would start at the signal-calling post for the Lincoln Parkers. His presence should add new life and power to the team, which was hailed as contender for the high school championship at the beginning of the season.

However, the Gonzaga Eleven is ready to put up a great battle to ring up its third straight over Coach Kelley's men, and will take a team in the best of shape to the Northeast gridiron this afternoon.

Both Teams Boast Fine Back Fields.

With brilliant back fields ready to start each team, the opposing ball runners guarantee to offer plenty of thrills to the fans today. Along with Millar, Eastern has Ben McCullough, leading interhigh scorer, and Everett Oxley, a clever passer and ball carrier, while Gonzaga can boast of such threats as McVean, Freund, Brew, and Bussink. McVean was the spearhead of last year's attack, and is again proving his worth to his team, while Brew is showing plenty of promise at the full back post. Bussink and Freund are two players likely to break away at any time for sensational gains.

The two likely will line up as follows:

Methodists Willing To Play Game on Coast

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Southern Methodist University will be ready to consider an offer from the Pacific Coast for a postseason game in the event it wins the Southwest Conference title, Dr. R. N. Blackwell, business manager of athletics, said today.

The Methodists will win the sectional title if they defeat Rice Institute and Texas Christian University in their two remaining games.

The Mustangs have been mentioned for the Tournament of Roses game at Pasadena, as well as for a postseason tilt with St. Mary's University of California.

Game Dying, Grid Coach Declares

Students' "Attitude" Has Changed, Says Fletcher of Case.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—With a comment that "Intercollegiate football is dying," Coach Bob Fletcher, former star of the University of Illinois Football Team, announced today his resignation as head football coach at Case School of Applied Science, in Cleveland.

Fletcher said that after the Thanksgiving game with Western Reserve University he will devote his entire time to a position with an Ohio oil company. He is a lawyer.

In discussing his retirement Fletcher predicted that although big football games will draw huge crowds for a few years to come the game will not hold the public as it has in the past. He was particularly disappointed with what he called a "changed attitude" among college students in recent years.

"No longer do many college players play the game because they like it," Fletcher said. "The youngster of today cares more for the social life at college. He is more anxious to take girls to dances than to make a football letter. He lacks the spirit that marked the boys of a few years ago.

Cites Dismissal of 8 Michigan Players.

"There isn't any discipline on most of the college squads," the former Illinois quarter back said. "The chief exception to this is Notre Dame, where Knute Rockne is the dominating figure, where the boys all live together and a spirit of comradeship that is found at few other places exists."

The weak showing of Michigan in the early part of the present season was cited by Fletcher as an example of discipline. "It was a poor team until Kipke fired eight players from the squad," he said. "Even Willie Heston, who looked good on the field and is the son of one of the greatest players in football history, had to go in Kipke's discard."

Fletcher said the young Heston caused trouble within the team and had no real liking for the game, which he called "typical of the second generation."

The retiring coach has been with the Case Team since 1924. He said his retirement from football is to be permanent.

Kipke Denies Squad Cut As Discipline Act.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Coach Harry Kipke today denied that any University of Michigan football players had been cut from the Wolverine squad as a matter of discipline as cited by Coach Bob Fletcher in his resignation from the post of football coach at Case School of Applied Science in Cleveland.

Referring particularly to Willie Heston, whom Fletcher described as a particular example of discipline which is becoming necessary with the general decline of football, Coach Kipke said:

"I consider Young Heston one of the best boys of the squad as far as attitude is concerned, and I am certain he will be a great football player before he has ended his two additional years at Michigan.

"I can understand Fletcher's idea that college football is dying," said Kipke. "I had a somewhat similar idea after we had lost three games, but two victories changed my viewpoint."

Zuppke Says Complaint Is Heard Frequently.

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Coach Robert C. (Fighting Bob) Zuppke, of the University of Illinois Football Team, took time out tonight in his preparations for the Illini's final session against Ohio State tomorrow to comment on the statement of Coach Robert Fletcher, of Case School of Applied Science in Cleveland, that "football is dying out as an intercollegiate sport."

"Every now and then," Zuppke said, "we hear that football is dying. That's what Coach Stagg, of Chicago, was told 15 years ago when he wanted to build a big new stadium on the Midway. He was told by the university to build a little one because football would be extinct in five years.

"That was 15 years ago and now look at football. More men reporting for squads at every college than ever before, more interest in the sport by the public and it is continually increasing.

"It seems that the cry 'football is dying' comes from colleges, where the teams are losing. Nobody wants to pay to see a poor team so they stay away and coaches say the game is dying. They frequently say in the East that interest in the game is lagging, but it is only because the Western teams are getting the better of them."

Yale Favorite Today With or Without Booth

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 22 (N.Y. W.N.S.).—Yale is the favorite over Harvard for their yearly football debate at Cambridge tomorrow afternoon, but it's hard to reason why. Odds of 7 to 5 and even 8 to 5 have been laid, based, apparently, on the Blue's smashing and decisive defeat of Princeton a week ago without Albie Booth. It is freely admitted that Harvard has a much stronger team than Princeton on the run of the season, but it is argued that the midget marvel will add enough to the offensive drive of Yale to offset this. In spite of the mystery surrounding the exact condition of Booth and his now famous charley horse, it is accepted that he will play a greater part of the game and that if not, Don McLennan, on his flare-up against the Tigers, will carry on.

Knee deep in traditions and flowing over with rabid rivalries, this game actually is shrouded in fog and uncertainty. While fairly well matched in the line the advantage, if any, lies with the Crimson. It remains to be seen which gets the charge on the other and the one that does is likely to swing the game.

Stevens Line-Up Puzzle To Experts.

The announcement from New Haven that Stevens would start Booth, McLennan, Ellis and Austen is puzzling and hard to believe. It would seem sounder tactics to hold Booth or McLennan in reserve for a time at least. Both are natural offensive weapons and the most dangerous. If this plan is carried out, and a doubt exists, the policy of Yale plainly will be to score quickly and so get the jump.

This would be in contradiction to the tactics of earlier games when the Blue would begin by punting on the first or second down and play for an opening before sending in Booth to start an offensive drive.. Yale came from behind to beat Brown, West Point and Dartmouth.

If "Baffling Booth" is at his best, and again there is reason for a doubt, he will be hard to bottle up. There is a magic and witchery about his running. There is no way of anticipating his football behavior. He seems to be animated by a blazing contempt for opposing tacklers.

Harvard's big problem is to stop the shifty, hip-wiggling Booth and the hard running McLennan.

Yale's big problem is to ground or intercept the accurate forward passes of Barry Wood and to break up the laterals which sounded their doom a year ago.

Victory is likely to rest with the one which most quickly and completely does the solving and finds the answer.

Notre Dame, Without Rockne, to Tackle Northwestern.

By BRIAN BELL
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Football fans will not be permitted to remain hungry tomorrow, in spite of the inactivity of a number of crack teams who await a Thanksgiving feast. Lack of quantity in the Saturday menu is compensated by its quality.

Three games, reading from East to West across the map, stand out in bold relief, but more than a score of others are fraught with interest and importance to their immediate partisans. Front and center of the program are Yale and Harvard at Cambridge, Notre Dame-Northwestern at Evanston and California and Stanford at Palo Alto.

Harvard and Yale head the list because they are Harvard and Yale, ancient foes with many old scores to settle. When the Crimson meets the Blue, caution flies out of the window, so anything may be expected as Johnny and Eli clash.

Only the score can say if Yale, with or without Booth, can gain through a more experienced Harvard line, or stop an admittedly clever passing attack. Yale has the better record, for the Blue lost only to Georgia and suffered a tie with Maryland, while Harvard was stopped in its tracks by Dartmouth, later a Yale victim, and Michigan. Harvard, too, was tied by Army.

Notre Dame Expects Fight Today.

Notre Dame, with its great coach, Knute Rockne left behind on a sick bed, may be expected to win from Northwestern because it always has, but seldom have the Ramblers been able to vanquish the Wildcats without a stern struggle. Rockne's team is nearing the end of a long, hard football row, studded with Saturdays of gruelling effort, and another is to come, for beyond Northwestern lies the Army in New York.

California is shooting at a championship when it plays Pop Warner's burly Stanford outfit. Victory will give Nibs Price and his undefeated cohorts a clear title to the laurel wreath or crown to be bestowed by the Pacific Coast Conference, and in it an invitation to defend the honor of the West against one of the East's best in a post-season game at Pasadena, where the roses bloom New Year's Day.

Other championship hopes and fears will know their best or the worst tomorrow. The Kansas Aggies will meet their great chance with only Nebraska blocking the path to a Big Six championship, a long but pleasing journey for Bo McMillin's outfit. Nebraska, however, may require a great deal of stopping.

The Texas Christian Horned Frogs, beset by influenza germs, must defend a clean score sheet against a wounded and snarling Baylor Bear. If they can dispose of this adversary they have nothing to do for the rest of the season but rope the Mustangs of Southern Methodist University.

Colorado Elevens in Private Quarrel.

Some private quarrels of the day include Colorado College against the University of Colorado at Boulder, Oklahoma and the Oklahoma Aggies at Norman, Missouri vs. Kansas at Lawrence, and Boston College and Boston University at Boston.

The intersectional warfare is led by a band of big huskies from the University of Washington, invading Chicago to meet Alonzo Stagg's tricky Chicago Maroons. Another Western threat is carried by hte Oregon Aggies against the high-powered University of Detroit in the Michigan metropolis.

Other intersectional games involving less traveling include North Carolina State against Villanova and Drake against Temple at Philadelphia and the colorful Haskell Indians at Pittsburgh to meet Duquesne, coached by Elmer Layden, one-fourth of Rockne's famous horsemen. Oregon, where J. J. McEwan has just resigned as head coach, entertains the cosmopolitan Hawaii Team at Portland.

The Harvard-Yale game is not the

SWEET SENTIMENT TAKES MY MARYLAND HANDICAP

Seagram Colt Romps Home In Feature

Special to The Washington Post.

BOWIE RACE TRACK, Md., Nov. 22.—Form players are having a rough time of it in Maryland this fall, and a fresh bunch of handicappers will have to be developed before another season rolls around. Impossible horses have been winning some of the races

Form players are having a rough time of it in Maryland this fall and a fresh bunch of handicappers will have to be developed before another season rolls around. Impossible horses have been winning some of the races first three races and the last brought large fields to the post. Two of them were sprints and the usual interference came when cumbersome fields started, and in both instances the choices were the principal sufferers.

The fourth and fifth races brought out the best class horses. The former, the My Maryland Handicap for 2-year-olds foaled in Maryland, was a dash of seven furlongs. Night Signal was a receding favorite and she ran as the betting indicated she would. Breaking slowly, she was last of her field before they had gone a furlong and at no stage of the journey was she ever prominent. The winner came from the Canadian-owned Seagram Stable in Sweet Sentiment.

Chatover Hangs On to Beat Clear Sky.

Ridden by Abel and making all of his own pace, Sweet Sentiment galloped in, the easiest sort of a winner when he beat Gay Past four lengths. After breaking very slowly Gay Past moved up stoutly when settled on his stride and, rounding the far turn, was within half a length of the leaders. In the last quarter Gay Past was backing up. Night Signal finished third, beaten off five lengths for the place.

A stirring finish came with the running of the Forest Hill purse when R. T. Wilson jr.'s Chatover was winner over Clear Sky which he beat out a neck. Chatover began in a rapid manner and in the run around the first turn he opened up a lead of four lengths. Ormond Bird was second. Leishman let Chatover step right along and at the half mile post he still had a good lead. Rounding the far turn Clear Sky and Low Gear began moving up. Low Gear came through on the inside while Quattlebaum took Clear Sky extremely wide, losing much ground.

Going to the furlong pole Low Gear took the lead but in the final drive weakened and in a driving finish Chatover just managed to last long enough. Clear Sky beat Low Gear a head for the place and a length and a half farther back finished the tiring Ormond Bird. Le Bey was never a factor.

Bethayres Bolts in First, Injuring Smock.

A long delay at the post came when the horses went to the barrier for the first race. Just before reaching the starting point, Bethayres bolted to the outside and fell over the fence. Smock was under the filly when she landed and sustained injuries serious enough to prevent him from riding. In the meantime Bethayres was sent back to the paddock and an examination by the veterinarian disclosed that the filly had been cut and bruised and the stewards then ordered the starter to dispatch the field without her.

The horses were in the stalls but four minutes before they were away to a poor break. Dunlins Lassie was left. Elegant, breaking from the extreme outside, was quickest away and in the run down the back stretch drew away into a lead of three lengths. Mianot was racing in third position and Baton Rouge was far back. Rounding the far turn Elegant began to weaken and, straightened out for the final run, Mianot moved up and easily disposed of the tiring pacemaker in the final furlong and won going away at the end. Elegant just lasted to beat Baton Rouge a head for the place. The latter was taken wide at the turns. The rider however, was not to blame as he was never able to come through on the inside.

Moscow, Interfered With, Far Back in Second.

A stirring contest came with the running of the second race, a dash of 6 furlongs under claiming allowances. A field of fourteen went to the post and Moscow was favorite. A slow beginning and much interference was responsible for Moscow's poor showing. Ambrose was never able to get through and the result was that he had his mount in hand most of the trip.

Ortlieb, quick to find his foot, outran the others from the barrier and led until straightened out in the home stretch, where King Bird lasted long enough to beat Rundale out a neck. The latter was a head in front of Calgary Kay. Ortlieb faded out of the picture in the stretch run. Moscow, when he found a clear passage, closed with good courage.

Ring On Comes From Last To Win the Third.

Ring On came from last place to win the third race after fighting it out through the home stretch with Nat Evens and Omrah. The three were heads apart at the furlong pole. Ring On was third and Stevens was working hard on his mount. Ring On answered his call in game fashion and wearing the other two down was up in the last 100 yards to win going away by a length. Nat Evens and Omrah had a great battle for the place and they finished as named half a length apart.

In the early stages Cedar Crest, Dowager and Blabber alternated in setting the pace. Entering the home-stretch, Nat Evens went to the front but when it came to a drive he hung. When the start came, Ring On was last away and Intrepid stumbled and fell. He lost his rider and galloped in behind his field. Stevens, on Ring On, gradually improved his position and closed an immense gap.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MISNOT, $10.40, $4.40, $2.50; ELEGANT, $9.90, $3.80; BATON ROUGE, $2.40.

MISNOT, away well, followed pace closely and in the stretch ran into lead and won handily. ELEGANT, away running, showed good speed, saved ground and held on well. BATON ROUGE was probably the best, but was weakly ridden. She was away poorly, taken wide all the way, and finished on her own courage. SUNSET GUN made a game effort. BROWN SINNER and DESTINY BAY closed big gaps. BETHAYRES jumped the fence on the way to the post and was withdrawn.

MISNOT DID NOT MISS IN OPENING NUMBER.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—RING ON, $9.70, $5.90, $3.60; NAT EVENS, $4.40, $2.90; OMRAH, $6.00.

RING ON broke slowly and trailed for seven furlongs, then moved up with a rush on outside and soon going away. NAT EVENS was nicely rated, closed very fast. OMRAH was on outside entire trip. DUNKIRK ran a good race. DOWAGER, well up to stretch, stopped badly. ROCKSLIDE could never get up. BLABBER quit. INTREPID lost rider at start.

RING ON TOLLS GOOD NEWS TO BACKERS IN THIRD.

FOURTH RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse, $1,700. The My Maryland Handicap. For 2-year-olds foaled in Maryland. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 2:46. Off at 2:47½. Winner, Seagram Stable's ch. c. (3), by Man o'War—Sweet Sixteen. Trained by W. H. Bringloe. Value to winner, $1,050; second, $250; third, $150; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23, 0:47, 1:12 3-5, 1:26 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SWEET SENTIMENT, $14.60, $6.60, $3.50; GAY PAST, $5.80, $3.20; NIGHT SIGNAL, $2.80.

SWEET SENTIMENT broke running, was sent to the front and, nicely rated, drew away to win easily. GAY PAST, under good handling, made a game effort and was easily second best. NIGHT SIGNAL broke slowly, worked way up, but never menaced winner. MACIL closed ground gamely. ROCKET GLARE is a very cheap filly.

ST. JOHN'S BOWS TO CATHOLIC U. FRESHMAN TEAM

Johnnies, Leading at Half, Falter in Last Two Periods.

Saints Score Touchdown in First Five Minutes of Play.

FOR two periods yesterday Paully Byrne's St. John's Cadets gave the Catholic University Freshmen Eleven a real battle at the Brookland Stadium and were actually leading Eddie LaFond's charges at half time, by 1 point, but the Brooklanders came back strong after the intermission to sweep their opponents off their feet with a quartet of touchdowns which gave the C. U. yearlings a 34-to-7 win and enabled them to keep their perfect record for the year.

Coach LaFond started his second stringers in the game but the St. John's Eleven soon showed that it was not to be looked down upon and forced the yearling mentor to insert his regular players. At the start of the game, Walsh the C. U. left half back was the only regular in the line-up, but before the first half had proceeded very far, Whalen, Sheary, and Hengzler, regular backs, had all been sent into the game.

Showing unexpected resistance, the cadets surprised their foes and the some 200 fans who shivered during the fray, by running over a touchdown in the first five minutes of play.

Weak C. U. Punt Gives Johnnies Chance.

After an exchange of punts, C. U. found itself on its own 5-yard line as a result of a bad pass from center which nearly rolled over the goal line. At this point, a weak kick gave St. John's the ball on C. U.'s 30-yard line and two successive first downs took the oval to the 10-yard mark.

Then on a beautifully executed triple pass behind the line of scrimmage, Batch, of St. John's, took the ball and went around end for the score. St. John's was awarded the extra point when C. U. was off-side.

Aroused by this surprise attack, the Cardinal Club immediately launched a sustained drive following the next kick-off which took them straight down the field and over the St. John's goal line. The try for the extra point failed, however, and left the home team on the short end of the score by one point for the remainder of the half.

Coming back in the third quarter, though, the Brooklanders immediately opened up with all they had and presented too strong an attack for the Cadets to stop. Straight rushing tactics carried them down the field for two touchdowns, and once when St. John's was backed up against its own goal, Frantz, of C. U., broke through to tackle a Cadet behind the last white line for a safety and two points.

Intercepted Aerials Costly To Saint John's.

The Cadets went into the air in an effort to score, but the C. U. Yearlings only took advantage of this type of play to aid themselves. Two of the aerial heaves were intercepted by the winners and in each case the ball was carried over the St. John's goal before the runner could be stopped.

Sheary and Donaher each accounted for two of the winner's touchdowns, while Walsh was responsible for the fifth. Carney's placement kicks gave the victors the extra points after two of the scores.

Virginia and Tarheel Frosh Play Today

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 22.—Virginia's Freshman Football Team hopes to win from the North Carolina Freshmen tomorrow afternoon on Lambeth Field. The young Cavaliers need a victory in this game to even their record for the season.

Coach McConnell's youngsters got off to a bad start by losing to the Rat Team from Virginia Military Institute, 6 to 0, and to Maryland, 19 to 13. Then they played a 7-to-7 draw with Washington and Lee. Much better form was shown when they defeated the Goblets from Virginia Polytechnic Institute, 13 to 6, on Lambeth Field.

Last week the Tar Babies lost to the Maryland Frosh. This seems to indicate that the first year Cavaliers have an even chance of ending the season with two victories, two defeats and one tie game. Virginia's starting line-up will probably include Bessel and McIntire, ends; Poss and Rose, tackles; Thompson and Eckert, guards; Barber or Meyer, center; Drissell or Sackett, quarter back, with a choice between Buery, Stevens, Davis, Haggard and Haase for running backs.

Danville and Hargrave Cadets Meet Today

Danville, Va., Nov. 22.—The Tigers of Danville Military Institute will journey to Chatham tomorrow to meet Hargrave Military Academy in the most important game on the schedule of both teams. On account of the nearness of the two schools and the keen rivalry which exists, each of them would rather win this game than any other on its schedule. Both teams are coached by pupils of Coach Dobson, of Richmond University; Danville by Curt Fray and Hargrave by Sanford.

Danville has won from Hargrave for the last three years, but the advantage by comparative scores this year is with Hargrave. Danville played the Richmond Frosh a 0-0 tie, and defeated Virginia Episcopal, Randolph-Macon and South Boston, but has lost to Staunton, Massanutten and Fork Union. Hargrave defeated Virginia Episcopal, Randolph-Macon and Fishburne, and has lost to Staunton and Oak Ridge. Comparative scores, however, will count for little when these two teams meet, and it is expected that tomorrow's game will be hard fought.

Grid Game Tops Card At Annapolis Today

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 22.—Aside from the Navy Varsity-West Virginia Wesleyan football game, an interesting program of other sports will be contested here. Varsity and freshmen cross country runners of University of Maryland will oppose like teams of the Middies. On the soccer pitch, Navy will engage an old rival, Penn State, and the Navy Plebes will have a grid game with Bucknell Freshmen. The freshmen tilt will precede the varsity game.

LITTLE MOHAWKS MEET.

VIRGINIA SCHOOLS MEET ON BALLSTON GRIDIRON

Florida Choice Over S. Carolina; Duke Is Favored.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Bad weather seemed in store for most Southern Conference football teams which will see action tomorrow in the lightest Saturday of the season so far.

Florida was a decided favorite to trim South Carolina in the one conference game on the board and Villanova's crack eleven had a big advantage over North Carolina State in the lone intersectional duel in which a Dixie team figures.

With most of the other conference teams continuing their preparations for important Thanksgiving Day games, two went outside the conference for opponents. Duke was given an edge over Wake Forest at Durham, N. C., but the skidding Clemson Tigers looked for one of their hardest games of the season from the fast-stepping Citadel Bulldogs at Clemson College.

Two games stood out on the program in the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association.

Oglethorpe Menace To Chattanooga.

Oglethorpe, which looms as the most dangerous menace to Chattanooga's hopes for its second straight championship, plays Mercer at Atlanta and Howard and Birmingham Southern, two old rivals, square off against each other at Birmingham. Both these elevens are out of the S. I. A. A. race. Nevertheless their meeting tomorrow is expected to produce one of the hardest-fought games in the South.

Centennary, which has not yet played a conference opponent, gets its first and only test within the association against Louisiana Poly at Shreveport. Southern and Rollins play at Winter Park, Georgetown of Kentucky rules a favorite over Louisville at Louisville, and Millsaps and Southwestern and Louisiana are scheduled at LaFayette, La.

Transylvania steps out to take on the Eastern Kentucky Teachers at Richmond, Ky., Spring Hill is in for a hard afternoon with Loyola at New Orleans and the Western Kentucky Teachers play Evansville at Bowling Green, Ky.

Roanoke, Lynchburg Tie, 6 to 6, in Snow

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 22.—Roanoke and Lynchburg Colleges here this afternoon battled to a 6 to 6 tie in a snowstorm, while the lines of the gridiron were under two inches of the white mantle. Roanoke had but one chance to score and made that good, but Lynchburg lost two opportunities when the Hornets had the ball inside Roanoke's 5-yard line twice. Once the ball was on the 2-foot line on first down, but the Maroons held Lynchburg for downs.

The game, which was replete with fumbles and punts, was splendidly played when the snow and cold are considered.

THREE BIG CONTESTS SCHEDULED TODAY

only traditional game of the East, Lafayette and Lehigh have more scores to count than their brethren to the east and may have just as tense a struggle.

Fordham Faces Test In Bucknell.

The undefeated Fordham Team meets one of its most severe tests in a fast Bucknell aggregation and New York University, finally in its stride, takes on a fighting Rutgers Team.

Although the Western Conference championship has been clinched by Purdue, the Big Ten is still playing its schedule and some interesting if not conclusive games are on tap for tomorrow. Illinois and Ohio State may decide who shall be runner-up in a game at Columbus. Iowa and Michigan will have a battle at Ann Arbor and consolation honors are involved when Minnesota meets Wisconsin. Purdue will ring down the curtain for the season against Indiana at Bloomington, where tons of whiskers were sacrificed by members of the no-shave klub when Indiana defeated Northwestern last Saturday. The Boiler-Makers hope to preserve their clean slate.

The two service teams are engaged with widely separated Methodist teams, Army playing Ohio Wesleyan while Navy meets West Virginia Wesleyan. Both Cadets and Midshipmen must keep something in reserve for next Saturday when the former meets Notre Dame and the latter tackles Dartmouth. Army may be the more extended tomorrow.

Only one Southern Conference game appears on tomorrow's card, Florida making its first trip to Columbia in several years to play the University of South Carolina.

LANE ELEVEN BEATEN AT BALLSTON

Washington-Lee High Wins, 19-7; Aerial Attack Factor.

WASHINGTON-LEE HIGH'S FOOTBALL TEAM scored a notable victory yesterday on its gridiron at Ballston, defeating the crack Lane High Eleven, of Charlottesville, by a 19-to-7 score. Washington-Lee won the third District title, and Lane High annexed the fourth District honors, but today's game had no bearing on the State title race. Both teams are coached by former University of Virginia men—Carter Diffey, at Washington-Lee, and Jimmy Leach, at Lane.

The Ballston passing combination of Young to Mortimer played a prominent part in the victory. After Lane started the scoring by blocking a punt in the first period, Washington-Lee came through with a touchdown in the second quarter, when Young passed to Mortimer, who ran 35 yards, giving the Ballston Eleven a 7-to-6 lead at the half.

Young to Mortimer Attack Produces.

The third period was scoreless, but Washington-Lee pushed over a pair of touchdowns in the fourth period. A pass from Young to Mortimer put the ball on the 15-yard line from where Young went over on three plays. The last touchdown was the result of a sustained march by the Ballston Eleven, which terminated in Capt. Connor going over for the score.

It was the second defeat of the season for Lane, which had previously bowed only to Wake Forest. Devitt handed the Ballston Eleven its only defeat of the season.

Poly and Cadet Frosh Will Battle Today

Blacksburg, Va., Nov. 22.—The V. P. I. yearlings will close the 1929 season in a game with the V. M. I. freshmen in Miles Stadium here Saturday. This will be the seventh successive year that the Goblets and the Keydet Rats have battled the Saturday before Thanksgiving in the prelude to the Turkey Day military classic at Roanoke.

First-year teams of the two institutes are building a strong rivalry as an echo of the fighting traditions of varsity battles. The game tomorrow will be the opening skirmish of the gridiron feud which will be climaxed next week in the "Magic City." Records show that the first freshman eleven and V. M. I. met the Tech Rats in 1923 and was slaughtered, 51 to 0. The Keydets came back to upset the Goblets by 22 to 0 in '24, won 14 to 7 in '26 and 12 to 0 in '28. The young Techmen alternated by winning, 17 to 0, when Frank Peake ran wild in '25 and copped the State title again in '27 by 54 to 7.

Episcopal "Seconds" Beat St. Alban's, 25 to 0

Alexandria, Va., Nov. 22.—Episcopal Little Varsity won its seventh straight game by defeating the St. Alban's lightweight team, 25 to 0. This game was the last of the season for the winners. They have had a perfect season with only six points scored against them.

Episcopal converted two breaks of the game into touchdowns early in the first half with Garnett going over on line plunges. The third score followed a brilliant run by Dabney and the fourth came as a result of a long pass, Steves to Bridgers. Whalen and Magee played well for St. Alban's.

DEVOS BEATS EBBETTS.

EMERSON 20-9 VICTOR OVER CULPEPER

Special to The Washington Post.

CULPEPER, Va., Nov. 22. — The Emerson Prep Team, of Washington, defeated Culpeper High here today, 20-9. Culpeper was unable to solve the Emerson passing game and allowed the Washingtonians to score twice on passes. Aside from their aerial game the Emerson Team was weak on the offensive, having the ball once in the first quarter with goal to go on the first down and was unable to break through the Culpeper defense. In the first quarter Emerson blocked a Culpeper punt on the 15-yard line and scored in a few minutes on a pass, making the only touchdown during the first half.

Soggy Field Slows Contest.

A soggy field slowed both teams. The Emerson passing proved the deciding factor in the game, three out of every four attempts being successful. George Mason High School, of Alexandria, was scheduled to play Culpeper today, but because of the scholastic ineligibility of several Alexandria players that game was canceled.

Richard T. Wilson's African; Victor Noues' Boom; J. R. Macomber's Petee Wrack and Donnay from the Rancocas Stable, of Harry F. Sinclair.

Repelling this powerful invasion, Maryland and Marylanders will have but J. Fred Adams' Glen Wild to offer in rebuttal. Other well-known owners of the Old Line State, such as Mrs. Margaret Emerson Baker, J. E. Griffith, the Waldens, A. H. Morris, the Belair Stud of William Woodward, the Cosdens, will not have representation.

Victorian May Go to Post Favorite.

Interest in the actual running of the big stake promises to center entirely around the efforts of Sun Beau, Victorian, Misstep and Petee Wrack, for it is from this quartet that close students of the game confidently anticipate the winner. However, there are any number of others among the eligibles and potential starters which will not go postward without more or less support.

Maryland Kickers Given Drill for Hopkins Game

Chalmers and McDonald Practice Booting at Various Distances; Team Put Through Paces in Thorough Session.

SHORTY CHALMERS and Johnny McDonald versatile back and husky guard, respectively, of the University of Maryland Football Squad, figured prominently in the drilling yesterday at College Park as the Old Liners prepared for the Hopkins game in Baltimore on Thanksgiving Day.

It is these two players upon whom Coach Curley Byrd relies to score points after touchdowns and for field goals, and they did their booting from as close up as the 10-yard line and as far back as the 25-yard mark. Both were deadly from the shorter distance and also did well farther back.

Shift as Place-Kicker Helps Chalmers.

Chalmers, who also is a fine drop-kicker, showed the benefit of shifting to the place-kicking method in the game with Virginia Poly last Saturday. He kicked all three goals after touchdowns and also contributed 3 points on a goal from placement.

McDonald has come through in trying spots in two of Maryland's big games this year. He was forced to boot the ball across the bar after the second touchdown in the clashes with both Virginia and Yale to tie the count, and on each occasion he sent the ball whistling directly between the posts and well over the bar.

Maryland's practice yesterday was thorough, but not rough, most everything in the Old Liners' category being rehearsed with long drills by two teams in plays taking a greater portion of the time.

Norris Expected Back for Hopkins Game.

Jack Norris, the bean-pole end, the only casual among Maryland's dependables, is fast rounding into shape and should make the Old Line Squad 100 per cent available by the time Hopkins is engaged next Thursday.

Clark Elected President Of Chicago Stadium

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Sheldon Clark vice president of the Sinclair Refining Co. and nationally known sportsman, today accepted the presidency of the Chicago Stadium Corporation, succeeding Paddy Harmon, who was forced to resign.

SEAT PLEASANTS DRILL.

The Seat Pleasant Fire eleven will practice Sunday morning at 10 o'clock in preparation for its game in the afternoon when it acts as host to the Apaches. The Firemen have lost but one game this season, that in an upset to the St. Stephens in their first game. Their scheduled contest with the St. Mary's Celtics some time ago was called off because of rain.

Tarheel Air Game Feared by Virginia

Charlottsville, Va., Nov. 22.—Fear of North Carolina's passes is causing Virginia's varsity squad much worry. Consequently the Cavaliers are working overtime to perfect an aerial defense to be used in the Thanksgiving Day battle in Kenan Stadium at Chapel Hill.

Last Saturday Washington and Lee gained 185 yards in passes against Virginia. The only thing that saved the Cavaliers from defeat was that their own passing attack, headed by Capt. Johnny Sloan and Bill Thomas, counted 227 yards in twelve completed throws.

In the last four plays of the game, with the score a 13-to-13 tie, the Generals worked four successful passes one after the other to take the ball from their own 20-yard line to the Cavalier 10-yard strip, where the referee's whistle ended the contest.

Virginia's men remembered how Carolina gained a victory on Lambeth Field last fall largely by the aerial route, and are working hard to perfect a defense against this style of play.

Harrisonburg High Beats Charles Town

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Nov. 22.—Charles Weaver, Harrisonburg High's fleet half back, was not bothered by the snow today as the Blue Streaks closed their season with a 21 to 0 victory over Charles Town High, of West Virginia.

Weaver scored the Blue Streaks' three touchdowns, one on a 70-yard dash over the snow-covered field, and the other two on 15-yard dashes. Charles Town threatened early once, when a Harrisonburg fumble was recovered on the 10-yard line. The field was covered with snow, and the heavy fall of flakes descended throughout the contest.

WEEK'S BOND SALES SHOW STEADY GAINS

FOREIGN GROUP LIVELY

New York, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—The bond market ended a week of steady improvement today with numerous high grade domestic corporation loans at or near their top prices for the year. Volume of trading declined, but there was enough demand to send more than a score of low coupon rails up 1 to 2 points.

Money rates again declined. Time loans, at 5 to 5¼ per cent for all maturities, were a shade easier, while the renewal figure of 4½ per cent for call funds was the lowest in a year and a half. The money markets were dull.

Liberty bonds and Treasury certificates worked irregularly lower, although the First Liberty 4¼s made a new 1929 high at 101.

Atchison General 4s reflected the stronger position of the entire list by rising half a point to a new peak for the year at 94½. Atlantic Coast Line first 4s and Missouri, Kansas & Texas first 4s also exceeded their previous tops. There was likewise strength in the Chicago & Northwestern listings.

Industrials were inclined to drag, but there was substantial buying in some of the popular utilities, including American Telephone 5½s and debenture 5s, Detroit Edison 5s and Utah Power & Light 5s. Cincinnati Gas & Electric 4s fell more than a point, National Dairy Products 5½s stood out in the specialty section, rising a full point to within a fraction of their high.

The foreign group was again buoyant, although trading slackened. French Republic 7½s closed at the new high of 116¾ on a small turnover, while the 7s equaled their top price. Argentine Government issues were marked up 1 to 4 points and Colombian loans advanced to about the same extent.

WE invite your attention to a feature The Washington Post has inaugurated. It is the publishing of a daily schedule of auction sales in the District of Columbia and nearby suburban sections. The purpose is to increase attendance at these sales and bring to the attention of investors the properties offered.

Information deemed essential to prospective bidders not found in the legal advertising, is given. A detailed description of the property, zoning regulations, assessed valuation of ground and improvements, and in the case of office buildings and apartments, number of offices and apartments and annual rental for same, is published daily.

The Post believes that now is an opportune time to invest in Washington real estate. An acceleration of Government building and a more favorable trend in the market for real estate securities should combine to enhance existing values.

Any suggestions or assistance that you may see fit to offer in furtherance of our efforts will be gratefully received.

CHECK DATA SHOWS PROSPEROUS NATION

RADIO SALES DOUBLED

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Substantially greater business activity during the week ended November 16, over the corresponding week last year, as indicated by check payments, was reported yesterday by the Department of Commerce in its weekly summary. A further recession from recent high levels was revealed, nevertheless.

While steel plant activity during the latest reported week was less than that for either the previous week or a year ago, the output of crude petroleum, although declining again, was larger than for the comparative period in 1928. Bituminous coal production was slightly larger than for either prior period, but receipts of wheat, cotton and cattle for the latest reported weeks were, in each case, less than for the previous week, wheat receipts also being smaller than for the corresponding week of last year. Freight car loadings were also fewer than for either period.

Wholesale prices continued to decline and were substantially lower than for the week in 1928, while prices of iron and steel were unchanged from the previous week but slightly higher than a year ago. Cotton prices continued to recede, being substantially lower than last year's period and wheat prices, although lower than those for the previous week, were substantially greater than a year ago.

$1,000,000,000 Deposit Increase.

Grand totals of New York City banks, as revealed by the clearing house summaries as of the September 27-October 4 call dates, indicate that deposits increased more than $1,000,000,000 during the past year, according to the American Banker. In addition to this increase there has occurred among the banks in that city since the beginning of October, an additional gain of more than a billion dollars in deposits as indicated by the weekly clearing house totals.

Deposits at the beginning of October of the 125 New York banks and trust companies under State and national supervision, totaled $10,126,851,700 as compared with $9,052,285,200 at the same time a year ago, an increase of $1,074,566,500. The gain since October of more than a billion dollars in deposits brings the total deposits of New York's banks close to, if not exceeding, the total of $11,401,725,700 which was the record height for all time reached last December 31. Indications are that December 31, 1929, will show the New York banks at a new peak in deposits.

District Insurance Policies Increase.

Amount of insurance written in the District of Columbia increased 19 per cent during the month of October compared with October 1928, according to the monthly report of the Sales Research Bureau of Hartford, Conn., based on information from seventy-eight companies doing more than 88 per cent of the total life insurance business in the country.

Gains of 29 per cent for Maryland and 15 per cent for Virginia in comparison with the month last year, also were reported. Nationally the survey indicated that since the general business slump of 1921, sales of ordinary life insurance have shown consistent gains at the same time that speculation was carrying stocks to unprecedented levels. During October, sales of life insurance continued the upward trend and were 4 per cent higher than in October, 1923.

During the first ten months of 1929 every section of the country increased its production of ordinary life insurance over the same period in 1928. The country as a whole has paid for a volume of life insurance 8 per cent greater than paid for in the same ten months of 1928.

Stock Sales Rise Here.

Bonds which gave evidence Thursday of resuming last week's activity on the Washington Stock Exchange, fell off in sales yesterday, closing session for the week, sales mustering an aggregate of merely 2,100, a $4,500 recession from the preceding day. Stock sales advanced to the extent of 1138 shares or 594 above Thursday's total, but this was largely due to an 800-share sale in Real Estate Mortgage & Guaranty preferred, small-priced issue.

There were notable sales in Federal American National Bank and Mergenthaler Linotype stock however, 99 of the former selling from 290, latest level, up to 295, and 50 of the latter at fractional gains over 102¾.

In spite of disturbances on the stock market, the radio industry promises to establish a satisfactory record for the current year and to have well entrenched itself for the future, according to The Index published yesterday by The New York Trust Company.

Sales for 1929, as estimated at the beginning of the last quarter year, range between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 sets, conservatively valued at $650,000,000, as compared with last year's sales of 2,500,000 sets, valued at $306,000,000, the review states. Due to the stock market slump, however, these estimates may be subject to some revision downward.

The Polish Legation announces that Poland's balance of foreign trade for the quarter ended September 30 was favorable for the first time in more than two years, according to the eighth quarterly report of Charles S. Dewey, American adviser of the Polish government and director of the Bank of Poland.

During the three months the excess of exports was 78,700,000 zlotys, as compared with an unfavorable balance of 217,800,000 zlotys for the third quarter of 1928.

Americans spend $700,000,000 annually at the soda fountains and approximately $250,000,000 more is spent each year at these counters for sandwiches and luncheons, representing a little more than 2 per cent of this country's retail trade. These figures have just been made public by William J. Baxter, director of the Chain Store Research Bureau, of New York City.

New York City consumers alone eat approximately 2,000,000 sandwiches a day, the report continues. The chain stores now report from 50 per cent to 60 per cent of fountain sales in luncheon items. People don't eat as they did ten or fifteen years ago, especially at noon, this research bureau concludes. The sandwich and salad are fast replacing the steak and pudding. The number of men eating a heavy noon meal has decreased and the number of women eating their noon meal outside the home has greatly increased, due to their employment in industry.

The recent break in stock prices and the current condition of ease in credit are not a climax, but rather are intermediate steps in a broader development which may not culminate for five years more. This opinion is expressed by the J. Henry Schroder Banking Corporation in the Quarterly Review which has just been released by J. Henry Schroder & Co., London. Improvement in business is regarded as a matter of months and not years.

Y. E. Booker, head of Y. E. Booker & Co., investment firm, attended the stockholders' meeting of the Mergenthaler Linotype Co., held in New York this week.

W. W. Spaid, of W. B. Hibbs & Co., is in New York attending a meeting of the board of governors of the Association of Stock Exchange Firms.

Washington Club Is Formed at G. U.

District Students Plan to Hold Smoker at Next Meeting.

Students of Georgetown University whose homes are in the District of Columbia and neighboring towns have organized the Washington Club of Georgetown, which may have the largest membership of any similar body at the institution. While the nucleus of the club is being drawn from the students at the college, it is expected its ranks will be opened eventually to all local students in the professional departments.

Arthur L. Simpson, of Newport, Md., a senior, is president of the Washington Club. Other officers are Benjamin Talbot, jr., of 3512 Massachusetts avenue, vice president; J. Godfrey Butler, of 3323 Eighteenth street, secretary and Thomas J. Fitzgerald, of 3434 Brown street, treasurer. All are seniors except Fitzgerald, who is a member of the junior class.

Plans are being made for a smoker at an early date and a report will be made at the next meeting of the club on December 2. The committee in charge of arrangements consists of George R. Cooksey, chairman; Mr. Fitzgerald, Thomas J. Ready and Charles T. Cooksey.

Since the beginning of the academic term at Georgetown, clubs have been organized by the students of half a dozen cities. None, however, can approach in numbers the possibilities of the Washington Club, owing to the large local representation in all departments of the university.

Traction Firm Faces $25,600 Damage Suit

Gilbert W. Lewis, of Kearney street northeast, near Sixteenth street, filed suit yesterday in District Supreme Court against the Capital Traction Co., seeking to collect $25,600 damages as the result of a street car-automobile collision on October 21, last.

Lewis alleges that he was operating his automobile at the intersection of Fourteenth street and Rhode Island avenue northwest when the street car struck his automobile. He alleges that he suffered permanent injuries and that his automobile was demolished. Attorneys Wilton J. Lambert and Rudolph H. Yeatman represent him.

College Editors Close Meeting With Banquet

The annual two-day fall convention of the Intercollegiate Newspaper Association of the Middle Atlantic States opened yesterday afternoon at the George Washington University with representatives of 27 college newspapers in attendance.

The meeting will close with a banquet tonight at the National Press Club. Herbert E. Angel, chairman of the George Washington University Hatchet, who is president of the association, is presiding at all the sessions.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

STATE COMMERCE CHAMBER FORMED

FOUR DISTRICTS DRAWN

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 22.—A Maryland State Chamber of Commerce, the aim of which will be to advertise the resources of the State, was definitely organized here today at a meeting of a steering committee with Joseph M. Armstrong, city postmaster, acting as chairman and Simon G. Martin, secretary of the local chamber, in like capacity for the State group.

It was announced that Gov. Albert C. Ritchie favors the movement and will offer his assistance to plans now being prepared. A general meeting for delegates and alternates of the 31 chambers in the State will be held here the second week in January and by-laws will be adopted.

Great enthusiasm marked today's gathering. Annapolis Chamber, mother of the movement, was host to the visiting delegates at luncheon. Henry F. Baker, of the Baltimore Association of Commerce; J. M. Patterson, of Cumberland; John W. Coffman, of Takoma Park; Dr. Paul E. Tittsworth, of Chestertown, president of the Kent County Chamber of Commerce, and Frank Sherman, general manager of the Claiborne-Annapolis Ferry, were among those attending.

State's Resources Recounted.

Because of the great resources of Maryland, historical as well as industrial, including its coal mines, vast wooded sections, fruit growing areas, the sea food supply of the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries, the healthful climate, fertility of the soil and large plants and mills, the steering committee maintains Maryland has enough to advertise to interest capital and tourists in every State.

It was the decision of the committee to divide the State Chamber into four districts. The first district would include Baltimore City, Baltimore and Harford Counties; the second district, counties of Western Maryland; third, the nine counties of the Eastern Shore; and the fourth district will be Southern Maryland.

The board of directors will be composed of a president, a treasurer, a vice president from each district and representation from the districts as follows: District 1, four votes; District 2, two votes; District 3, two votes; District 4, one vote.

Ratio Same as Legislature's.

The ratio finally selected is the same as governs the State Legislature, the largest, although not controlling representation, going to Baltimore City. The executive secretary to be named will not be a director.

The board of directors would be empowered to pass on and arrange a budget. All State chambers of commerce, associations, boards of trade, individuals, firms, corporations, municipalities and agricultural groups are eligible to join the State body. Membership fees of $25 and $10 will be charged, the latter price being for individuals interested in boosting the State.

In respect to the local chamber and the acting president, Armstrong, temporary quarters were retained in Annapolis. It is likely that a permanent office in the Statehouse will be sought. The matter of a State Chamber has been urged by the local units for several months.

Civil War Survivor Is Dead in Oakley

Special to The Washington Post.

Leonardtown, Md., Nov. 22—Joseph H. Dent, 83 years old, wealthy farmer of St. Mary's county and son of William B. W. Dent, who served Georgia in the House of Representatives shortly before the Civil War, died suddenly this morning while at breakfast at his home in Oakley, near Leonardtown.

Joseph Dent was credited with being the last Civil War veteran in this county, his service having embraced the period of the war as a soldier in the Confederate Army, in which he enlisted as a young man of 16 years from his home in Newnan, Ga., which his father aided in founding.

He returned to Newnan and resided there until about 20 years ago when he established a residence at Oakley and engaged in mercantile business and cotton growing. His desire to live in Oakley was prompted by the fact that his father was a native of Bryantown in Charles county and had attended school at Charlotte Hall in St. Mary's county before moving to Georgia, where the senior Dent also served in the State legislature before a term in Congress, in 1853.

He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Elliott Burch, of Washington, Miss Lettie Marshall Dent, superintendent of schools in this county, and Miss Frances Jo Dent, also of this county; and a son, John F. Dent, of Oakley.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon from the All Faith Episcopal church, with the Rev. Frederick A. Cook officiating. Interment will follow in the cemetery there.

Virginia Increases Spinach Shipments

Only State to Have Carload Lots for 1930 Crop, Report Shows.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Virginia with a total of 90 carlots was the only State making carlot shipments of the 1930 spinach crop, it is shown in a bulletin issued here by the Department of Agriculture. This, in number, was a considerable increase over the previous week in which Virginia, though ranking first, shipped only 15 carlots. Likewise was there a large increase in pottato shipments, Virginia shipping 21 carlots, compared with 5 of the week before.

Regaining its lead in apple shipments, Virginia is credited with 643 carlot shipments against 461 shipped by New York during the same period.

Reports of shipments of other crops follow:

Cabbage—None, compared with 2, week of November 3-9. Green peas—Norfolk section second crop, 2, compared with 6 previous week. Lettuce—None, compared with 4. Mixed vegetables—30, compared with 27. String beans—5, compared with 38. Sweet potatoes—281, compared with 259.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

ALWAYS an admirer of Henry Ford, Luella now believes he is the only great industrial leader who really sees what's wrong with this picture. At the White House, the Detroiter said this country needs a higher wage scale and a lower cost of living.

"That," said Luella, "is the whole thing in a bombshell. What we need is more money to buy things that cost less."

Offhand, I gave it as my opinion that a surcease of shopping might help some, too; but, then, of course, I got what they call the razz.

"Stop shopping?" shouted Luella. "What would the country come to if we stopped shopping? If it weren't for shopping, think where we'd be today. Shopping makes the world go around."

"Yes," I admitted, "it gives me a headache, too—especially when the bills come home."

"The bills," breathed Luella, "that's all you think about—the bills. I'll bet Henry Ford doesn't worry about bills."

"I'll take that bet," I offered, peeling a five-spot off the family bank roll, "and I'll lay you odds."

"You will?" she said. "what'll they be?"

"I'll bet you 10 to 1 Henry Ford lies awake nights wondering where his next million is coming from, hoping and praying the banks don't call for additional collateral before he sells another car."

* * * *

"OH," gasped Luella, "is Henry Ford in the stock market?"

"Is he?" I exclaimed, "You've heard of his stock cars, haven't you? Where do you think they come from, the stock yards?"

Luella meditated. "I thought," she said, "that he made all these cars out in Detroit——"

Carefully, step by step, I went over the manufacturing process. "He doesn't make 'em, my dear, he just assembles 'em—like hash."

"Oh, I see," she said, "but I knew well she didn't see anything. She was just trying to hedge on that bet." "And now," I asked, "are you willing to take me up on this proposition?"

"What proposition?"

"That Henry Ford doesn't worry about bills——"

"Of course, not," said Luella. "That's not a fair bet! Maybe Henry Ford got caught in the market, too. If he did, certainly he worries about bills—just as you do."

* * * *

THANKING her for the compliment, I called her attention to a statement from the White House: There will be no more reduction of wages this year; nor advances, either. The status quo will remain as is.

"What does that mean?" asked Luella.

"It means," I said, "that Henry Ford will continue the manufacture and sale of automobiles so long as the purchasing power of the Nation is not impaired."

"And do you think it will be repaired?" she asked.

"Of course, it will. Why did President Hoover call this conference at the White House, all the big business men present?"

"I don't know," answered Luella. "Maybe he's grieving because Congress has closed, and wants company."

Maybe is right.

LEE'S BIRTHPLACE WILL BE RESTORED

Daughters of Confederacy Vote to Spend $50,000 on Memorial.

ANNUAL AWARDS GIVEN

Biloxi, Miss., Nov. 22 (A.P.).—The United Daughters of the Confederacy today agreed to complete restoration of the birthplace of Gen. Robert E. Lee at Stratford, Va., and distributed annual awards for the year's best work.

The convention voted to pay off the remaining $50,000 for the memorial to Lee, restoring the old home to the exact surroundings of his boyhood days, and to ask each division and chapter to assume its responsibility in the campaign.

Reports will be made to the 1930 convention on the progress made by each division. Mrs. Albert S. Porter, of Cleveland, Ohio, division president, was awarded first place among the 42 divisions for the most constructive and impressive report offered.

During a discussion of the aid rendered Confederate soldiers by the Daughters, and gathering of data for assembling a complete historic record of the individual exploits, the James F. McKinsey award for the most meritorious work among the veterans was given to the Ohio division.

The membership of the U. D. C. has grown to 63,000, it was shown in the report of Mrs. J. P. Higgins, of St. Louis, in charge of the department of records. During the past year members added numbered 4,559.

Veteran of Gettysburg Is Buried at Danville

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Nov. 22.—Funeral services were held here this afternoon for Joseph T. Miller, 90, who died at his home after an illness of three weeks.

He had been an invalid most of his life, chiefly because of a war wound received at the Battle of Gettysburg. Miller was leading a charge when a minnie ball shattered his leg. He underwent a major operation on the battlefield, a Confederate surgeon reaching him and treating him between a cross fire. He could not, however, be removed and he was found by Federal stretcher bearers. He leaves three children.

$6,000 Is Pledged To Mission Work

Special to The Washington Post.

Orange, Va., Nov. 22. —At a missionary institute held in the First Methodist Church of Charlottesville yesterday and attended by ministers and laymen of the Methodist churches throughout the Charlottesville district, Bishop Collins Denny and Dr. Thomas H. Haden, missionary to Japan, were the principal speakers.

Representatives from nearly all of the 29 charges on the Charlottesville district were in attendance, the total number of persons present being estimated at more than 200.

The institute pledges $6,000 as the quota of the Charlottesville district in aid of mission work.

Among the ministers attending the institute were the Rev. Starke Jett, Culpeper; the Rev. D. G. Trent, North Garden; the Rev. H. L. Fruit, Batesville; the Rev. Robert N. Hartness, Crozet; the Rev. T. ', Powell, Louisa; the Rev. G. T. Kessler, Gordonsville; the Rev. B. T. Leonard, West Goochland; the Rev. L. P. Bland, Greene County; the Rev. F. O. Briggs, Orange Circuit; Dr. R. B. Proctor, Nelson; the Rev. B. K. Chappell, South Nelson; the Rev. E. V. Carson, Albemarle; the Rev. R. I. Williams, South Albemarle; the Rev. Elisha Bradshaw, Brandy Station; the Rev. R. L. Overby, Fluvanna; the Rev. I. L. Llewellyn, Orange; the Rev. I. L. Early, jr., Scottsville, and the Rev. D. W. Jackson, Monroe.

Leesburg, Va., Nov. 22 (Special).—Edgar McFarland, 73, died Tuesday from a stroke of paralysis. He was twice married and is survived by his second wife, who was Miss Jane Cridler, of Aldie. He is also survived by six children, Joseph, of Colorado; Julian, of San Francisco; Curtis and Virginia, of Floris; Hally, of Baltimore, and Bertie, of Vienna. Funeral services were held today from the church at Arcola, with interment in the family burying ground.

SNOW HALTS PLANES ON BYRD'S AIR TOUR

Virginia's Governor Lands at Martinsville After Stormy Flight.

TWO SHIPS FORCED DOWN

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsville, Nov. 22.—A sudden descent of wintry weather interrupted the air tour of Gov. Byrd and 40 others here today when snow fell heavily soon after a large crowd had greeted the governor. Only thirteen of the sixteen planes which left Danville landed here, three being forced back because of poor visibility, which Pilot Joe Burton reported was less than 800 feet in places.

The two trimotored craft landed safely, as did Gov Byrd, who came here with Lieut. G. H. Towner, of the United States Marine Corps in an open-cockpit machine. Stores were closed, also the public schools, for the event.

On arriving from the field, pilots went into conference with the executive at a hotel and telephone reports brought word of heavy snow at Bristol, Galax and Roanoke, and it was deemed imprudent to attempt to carry out the itinerary by air.

The governor and some of the members of his party motored to Roanoke this evening to fulfill speaking engagements. There they will wait the airplanes tomorrow, provided the ships are able to take off.

Anxiety prevailed for some time today when G. H. Clarkson and John C. Barksdale, who took off here, were not heard from for some time. They were forced down by snow at Altavista, but made a safe landing.

Loudoun's Corn Show To Be Held in January

Special to The Washington Post.

Purcellville, Va., Nov. 22.—The Loudoun County Annual Corn Show will be held about the second week in January in Purcellville. Notices of exact date and place will be given in December. Many valuable prizes will be offered at this show, including the Westmoreland Davis cup, won last year by John S. Ward.

This cup to become permanent property must be won twice by the same contestant for the sweepstakes ten ears.

West Virginia Welfare Board Names Leader

Special to The Washington Post.

Charles Town, W. Va., Nov. 22.—The welfare board, created by the last Legislature of West Virginia, met here today and elected H. L. Snyder, of Shepherdstown, president.

The board is composed, in addition to Snyder, of Dr. J. M. Miller and Miss L. C. Briscoe, of Charles Town; Mrs. Bessie L. Rau and Dr. Dittmyer, of Harpers Ferry; I. N. Bonham, county superintendent of free schools, Summit Point; Mrs. Anna C. Tabb, of Leetown, and Mrs. M. S. R. Moler, of Shepherdstown.

THREE EVENTS SET IN WARRENTON HUNT

Special to The Washington Post.

Warrenton, Va., Nov. 22.—The annual fall race meeting of the Warrenton Hunt, run under the sanction of the National Steeplechase Association, will be held at Clevelly Farm, the property of Robert C. Winmill, near Warrenton, tomorrow at 2:30 p. m.

Three races are listed for the afternoon's sport. The first race, the Fauquier Plate, presented by E. Tunnicliff Fox, is a steeplechase about 2½ miles over regulation brush jumps, to be ridden in colors by gentlemen acceptable to the stewards, weight 165 pounds.

Seventeen horses are entered for this race. They are Louis Duffy's Super Hope, J. L. Johnston's Maid of Mars, Rolling Plains' Sweepment, Green Friar's Glance and Nicias, owned by Mrs. D. D. Odell; T. H. Talmadge's Lerious, Common Good, Allison Stearn's entry; also Festoon, Mrs. W. A. Phillips' Barb Wire, Lough Owl, Mrs. A. A. Schlesinger's entry; Alonzo Potter's King Midas, H. W. Smith's Lipinge, D. B. Smith's Canadian Girl Stephen Sanford's Inverness. Barleycorn, the property of T. W. Durant, and Mrs. Durant's Lizard, W. H. Emory's Bull's Eye and Noel Laing's Ballast II. Sweepment, Barleycorn and the Lizard have a host of backers.

Many Entries for Second.

The second race, the Warrenton Hunt Cup, presented by Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Cushing 3d, is over a fair hunting country, for hunters that have hunted with any recognized pack, to be ridden by gentlemen in colors acceptable to the steward, distance 3½ miles.

This race has 21 entries, according to Baldwin Spilman, secretary of the race committee. Among some of the good jumpers entered in this 3½-mile grind are Richard Whitney's Bedminster, Baldwin Spilman's Drummer Boy, Jouett Todd's Woodley.

R. C. Winmill has entered his Gold Finch and the Rolling Plains Stable has entered St. Patrick and Merry Fellow. Mrs. T. H. Somerville has Tromping Today and Belle of Erin and Stephen Sanford has Huntsman, Reelescope and Inverness. F. N. Iglehart has entered his Short Horn and Waverly, the property of Allison Stearns, is considered a sure starter. H. R. Bishop will have Bulgold as his entry, and the Flying Horse Farm will enter Soissons. A. J. Davis has his Mendir entered and the Fox Chapel Farm has the Merry Widow. Mrs. Phillips' Bar Wire and Harry Smith's Lipingo complete the list.

Several Favorites Mentioned.

How many will start is problematical, but the committee expects the majority of them to answer Starter Lee Evans.

The third race is known as the Huntsman and Whips Race, about 2½ miles over a fair hunting country, to be ridden by huntsmen and whips of any recognized hunt in scarlet, weight 170 pounds. Four entries are down for this race. They are Winmill's Gold Finch, Warrenton Drag's Powerscourt, R. J. Kirkpatrick's Gannet and T. H. Talmadge's Grasshopper. In the second race the large number of entries has the dopesters guessing, but Drummer Boy, Tromping Today, Belle of Erin, Bulgold and Soissons are accorded the best chance.

H. S. Page, D. C. Sands and A. S. Craven are the stewards.

Gen. William Mitchell, W. P. Hulbert and Fletcher Harper will act as the judges. F. W. Haserick and J. W. Slaughter will have charge of the scales. W. H. Pool is paddock judge and Amory Carhart is clerk of the course. John R. Buchanan, George Sloane and Thomas Atkinson are patrol judges.

The race committee consists of J. C. Williams, William H. Emory, R. C. Winmill, J. T. Skinner, Lucian Keith 2d, R. Wallach, jr., B. D. Spilman and George Sloane. Prospects at present are that the going will be fairly good unless more rain falls in the interim; if the weather is not good the going will be heavy, but there are several horses noted as "mudders" who would welcome such a condition.

Mill Worker, Dragged Under Saw Blades, Dies

Special to The Washington Post.

Franklin, W. Va., Nov. 22.—Byron McCoy, 22-year-old sawmill worker, living at Mozer, near here, died at a Keyser hospital of injuries sustained when he was caught in the sawdust drag of the mill machinery and pulled under the saws, which cut off both his legs, tore his clothing away and otherwise injured him.

Despite his injuries McCoy did not lose consciousness and told fellow-workers that he had dreamed the night before that he would be killed in the mill His last words before he died on the operating table at Keyser were in the form of suggestions for operation of the mill. His remains were brought back to Mozer for burial.

RITCHIE CHALLENGE ANSWERED BY TAIT

FAULTS ARE CATALOGUED

Galen L. Tait, chairman of the Maryland State Republican central committee, last night issued the following statement in connection with the coming political campaign:

"Gov. Ritchie, at the Frederick meeting of Wednesday, dared the Republican party to make an issue of the thefts in the State Roads Commission. He said, 'With that as the only issue, our party can run and with that we can win.'

"Never before has a governor offered as a main plank of an election platform the thefts and embezzlements of his administration. On this theory the more defalcations uncovered and culprits sent to the penitentiary, the better chance of the governor or his chosen candidate to be elected.

Judge's Statement Cited.

"If Gov. Ritchie be right that his party can best run and win on the thievery issue, then Chief Judge Samuel K. Dennis' statement from the bench concerning the State's roads thefts will be an absolute assurance of victory, for Judge Dennis saidi, 'My belief as a result of sitting through numerous trials in connection with the roads matter is that its real depth has been by no means touched—that the people of the State have no idea and will never have of the real amount of money which the State lost.'

"The brilliant incompetency of the governor's administration as applied to the State roads will thus be a guarantee of the continuance of his rule in Maryland.

"If Gov. Ritchie's prediction that the State roads thefts will be a winning issue be correct, then Mr. John N. Mackall, former State roads chairman and the governor's friend whom Gov. Ritchie pitched overboard, should be rescued and put on the State ticket. Both were responsible for the State roads administration.

"Cuttlefish Tactics."

Gov. Ritchie says he would like to confine the coming battle to the one issue of the State roads thefts. He would then try to hamstring that issue by claiming a Republican vindication before the fight begins. He would prefer to hide behind the striped figures of the little fellows sent to the penitentiary and thus claim vicarious atonement for the sins of omission of his executive administration.

"Gov. Ritchie will claim that Republicans were on the commission which whitewashed the wrongdoing of his administration. The Republican party is not responsible for the views of individual Republicans selected by the opposite party. Gov. Ritchie proposes the same cuttlefish tactics on election law revision, notwithstanding that election reform has been the main Republican issue in Maryland for 50 years. Governor Ritchie was counted in in 1919 by 165 votes because the courts under the law could not open the ballot boxes and expose the frauds in Anne Arundel County, in Baltimore city and elsewhere.

Other Thefts Alleged.

"We do not impugn Gov. Ritchie's personal honesty, but he can no more make a campaign of his honesty than a woman can of her virtue.

"The governor throws down a challenge to Republicanism. The three hundred and one thousand citizens of Maryland who voted for President Hoover and Senator Goldsborough last year will be glad to enter the fight of 1930, as a continuation of the battle of 1928, for the complete regeneration of Maryland from the present political oligarchy.

"But the battle will not be waged on the State roads thefts alone. The investigation of this one department showed defalcations of nearly a half million, though," Judge Dennis said. "The real depth has been by no means touched. There were thefts in the automobile commissioner's office; mismanagement in the penitentiary and the house of correction. There has been politics in the school system; political meddling with the judiciary; dangerous concentration of all appointments and power in the hands of the governor; large gubernatorial expenditures; a one-man $25,000,000 budget, and a complete domination of the Legislature by the executive through the "green bag" and the budget.

Conowingo Sale Cited.

"There have been assertions of so-called State's rights against the Nation while denying local county and city rights against the State; the selling of 2,000 acres of the Conowingo River bed to Philadelphia water power interests for 50 cents an acre; and the continued violation of the Bill of Rights, which declares for rotation in office.

"No wonder Gov.-elect Pollard was finally omitted from the Frederick meeting, inasmuch as Gov. Pollard is the new governor elected in obedience to the Virginia law which provides for but one term.

"There are other counts in the public indictment which will be brought during the campaign.

Special to The Washington Post.

Waynesboro, Va., Nov. 22.—With the arrival of postoffice inspectors and a Government agent, local authorities are confident that the identity of the person who Wednesday night stole and looted a mail sack from the Union Station here will be made known within a few days.

The sack was left by a westbound Chesapeake & Ohio train to be collected by a southbound Norfolk & Western mail carrier. Fifteen minutes after the pouch was delivered here it had disappeared. Found the next day by school children a half mile from the station, the stolen pouch was turned over to the local postal authorities. It was revealed that only special delivery letters had been opened. Most of them were addressed to students at Hollins College.

The editorial page of The Washington Post is probably more frequently quoted than that of any other newspaper. It is "the voice of The Post" and speaks with authority and influence for the public interest. Editorial opinions, however, are never allowed to color nor bias accurate reporting of the world's and local affairs.

ON TRIAL IN MARION RIOTING

Special to The Washington Post.

Leesburg, Va., Nov. 22. — Travis Poole, of Lincoln High School, won the silver debating cup, donated by Wilbur C. Hall, of Leesburg, in section 1 of the final literary contests of Loudoun County, held in the Leesburg High School auditorium last night. Poole spoke on the negative side of the question. "Resolved, that the chief officer or officers of each executive department of the State government should be elected by the people." Ada Perry Gibson, of the Leesburg High School, speaking on the affirmative side, won second prize.

The cup becomes the permanent property of the Lincoln High School, having been won three years in succession by pupils of the school.

Other winners in the contests to whom prizes were awarded last night were: Short story, William Martin, of Leesburg High School; poetry, Nora Crouch, of Ashburn High School; high school spelling, Mildred Carroll, Aldie, first, and Ada Martin, Leesburg, second; grade spelling, Ethel Littlejohn, Leesburg, first, and Ruth Warner, Hamilton, second; one and two room spelling, Wilson Payne, North Fork, first, and Kenneth Gardner, Cool Spring, second; recitation, one and two room schools, Charles Rust, North Fork; recitation, grades 6 and 7, Mildred Piggott, Purcellville; reading, grades 1 to 5, Mae Titus, Lincoln; reading, one and two room schools, grades 6 and 7, Martha Craun, Ryan. These winners were each awarded a prize of $5.

Wilbur C. Hall presided at the contests last night, and the prizes were awarded by E. E. Garrett.

Section 2 of the final literary contests were held at the Lincoln High School tonight, with Superintendent O. L. Emerick presiding. This finished the contests.

Audit Bureau Planned By Virginia Newspapers

Farmville, Va., Nov. 22 (A.P.).—A circulation audit bureau being formed by the Virginia Press Association for the members, will come up for adoption at the mid-winter meeting in Richmond, January 24-25, 1930, it is announced by J. C. Latimer, secretary of the association.

Latimer, who is editor of the Farmville Herald, has just returned from New York, where he attended a meeting of the State press field managers. An audit bureau for weekly papers was discussed at the New York meeting and a standardized form will be adopted, Latimer said.

Virginia to Invite Finest Industries

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 22.—Virginia does not propose to open the doors of the State to mill owners who grind the face of labor, declared William E. Carson, chairman of the Virginia Conservation and Development Commission, in a talk today after the commission had been entertained at luncheon by the Charlottesville Chamber of Commerce.

"We don't want to make Virginia a mill State," said Carson, who told the commission plans to have a group of engineers study the natural resources of the Commonwealth, and then go out and interest industries of the highest class.

"Virginia must be the most beautiful State in the Union," he continued, in telling of plans to develop first the shrines of nature and of history and then "teach all Virginians what beauty means."

Binford Will Attend Kiwanis Convention

Richmond, Va., Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Jesse H Binford, governor-elect of the Capital Kiwanis district for 1930, will attend the international Kiwanis meeting in Chicago for three days, beginning December 5.

Binford will report that the Kiwanis Clubs of Virginia number 40 and have a membership of 2,115. The first Kiwanis Club was organized in the State in March, 1919.

Dr. Flippen to Speak At Medical Meeting

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 22 (A.P.). Dr. James C. Flippen, dean of medicine at the University of Virginia, will address the annual meeting of the Seaboard Medical Society at its thirty-fourth session at Newport News on December 3, 4 and 5.

Among other distinguished speakers is Dr. J. Allison Hodges, of Richmond, president of the Virginia Medical Society.

EXPERTS TO SPEAK TO HORTICULTURISTS

GOV. BYRD TO BE GUEST

Roanoke, Va., Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Agricultural authorities of the Federal Government and a half dozen or more States will appear on the program of the Virginia State Horticultural Society at the annual meeting here, December 3-5. More than 500 fruit growers from Virginia and the neighboring territory of West Virginia are expected to attend the sessions.

Gov. Harry F. Byrd, a fruit grower himself, and his brother, Thomas B. Byrd, of Winchester, will attend the meeting, and the governor will deliver an address on the night of the opening day. The governor will discuss the apple industry and Virginia's future in fruit growing. Thomas Byrd is president of the society.

The list of agricultural authorities that will assemble here include some of the best-known experts in fruit cultivation, production and marketing. Dr. R. C. Auchter, chief horticulturist of the United States Department of Agriculture, will represent the Federal Government.

Among the distinguished specialists to address the society will be Henry M. Taylor, Federal statistician for Virginia; Dr. John Magness, Washington State College; Ralph Van Meter, Massachusetts Agricultural College; Dr. A. J. Heinicke, New York College of Agriculture; William Harper Dean, agricultural specialist of the United States Chamber of Commerce; Dean H. L. Price, Virginia Polytechnic Institute; J. C. Blair, Illinois Agricultural College, and Drs. J. F. Adams and L. A. Stearns, of the Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station.

The American Pomological Society will hold its annual meeting in conjunction with the horticultural society.

Killer of Aged Couple Confesses; Clears Two

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Nov. 22.—Braxton County officers at Sutton today announced that William Owens, one of three men suspected of the double slaying of Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson L. Harris, aged couple, two years ago at their home on Laurel Run, had made a complete confession to the killing of both. He is now in jail. The confession, which was presented to the grand jury today, absolved Taylor Lane and Frank Owens, a brother, from blame.

The Harrises were riddled with bullets in the front yard of their home, the slayer's motive being the theft of $600 the woman had in her dress.

TRIAL UNDER WAY TODAY

Marion, N. C., Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Previously formed opinions that the defendants are guilty, expressed by many members of the special venire called from the adjoining County of Burke, caused examination of more than 50 veniremen today before a jury was selected for the trial of four Union Textile Workers of America members in McDowell County Superior Court here on charges of rioting and resisting an officer.

Selection of the jury was completed late this afternoon. Judge G. V. Cowper, presiding, immediately adjourned court until tomorrow morning when the State will begin presentation of its evidence. Textile strike disorders in which the defendants are alleged to have taken part form the basis for the State's charges.

On trial are Alfred Hoffman, organizer for the United Textile Workers of America; Del Lewis, Lawrence Hogan and Wes Fowler, Marion strikers.

Many of the veniremen questioned declared they were opposed to an "outside" organizer coming into the textile sections and forming unions among mill employes. Judge Cowper excused those and others who admitted they were already prejudiced either for or against the defendants.

Eight farmers, two furniture factory workers, one merchant and one carpenter make up the jury. No juror is less than 30 years old and one is 72.

Disorders which caused the charges occurred during strikes called by the United Textile Workers of America, branch of the American Federation of Labor, in the two mills of the Clinchfield Manufacturing Co. and the Marion Manufacturing Co. mill last summer.

The defendants were released yesterday from charges of insurrection and rebellion growing out of the same disorders. Judge Cowper granted a defense motion for nonsuit, ruling the State, which had completed its evidence, had not justified its charges.

Heart Attack Is Fatal To Cumberland Man

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Nov. 22.—James B. Clement, 74, one of the best known residents of Cumberland, was found dead in Allegany Trades Council Hall, Bedford street, early last night by his brother-in-law, George Johnson. Clement, who was secretary of local No. 296, Plasterers Union, had gone to the hall in the morning, presumably to work on his books. He had fallen from his chair and was lying on the floor, but apparently had been dead but a short time. Death came from a heart attack.

Clement was active in Center Street Methodist Episcopal Church. He is survived by his widow and by a brother, John A. Clement, Atlantic City.

Funeral Crowd Sprayed With Hunter's Buckshot

Special to The Washington Post.

Shepherdstown, W. Va., Nov. 22.—Several persons alighting from their cars to attend a funeral at Uvilla near here yesterday were peppered with shot from the gun of a Maryland hunter nearby. No serious injuries resulted, none of the shot penetrating deeply. Among those injured was the Rev. P. B. Clagget, in charge of the rites.

The hunter denied he had pointed his gun in the direction of the crowd and resented, apparently, criticism by its members. He disappeared while the funeral was in progress. State officers are attempting to identify him and arraign him on charges of having violated West Virginia hunting regulations.
